WINSLOW, K., B.A.S., M.D.V., M.D. (Harv.)
(*) Veterinary Materia Medica and Therapeutics. The most complete, progressive and scientific book on the subject in the English language. Fourth edition revised 1906.
Cloth, 6¾ x 9¼, x and 804 pages.....6 00
In the preparation of the fourth revised edition of this work, very considerable revision was made necessary in order that it conform to the changes brought about by publication of the revised United States Pharmacopœia in 1905. To what extent revision was required will be realized when it is known that there have been 123 additions, 106 changes in the strength of preparations and 139 changes in the official title of drugs in the new Pharmacopœia. Thus the doses of many preparations have suffered the most radical change, and some of the old friends have new names. All Extracta Fluida have been changed. The official names of many salts are altered, with corresponding changes in the Latin terminations. In the revision of the General Index it was also made a pronouncing vocabulary of drugs and terms of pharmacology which will be appreciated the moment attention is directed to the matter.
Notwithstanding the short time which has elapsed since the last edition of this book, a number of additions have been made to keep it abreast of the times. Since the work has become the recognized authority in Veterinary Materia Medica and Therapeutics, and is the standard text-book on the subject in the veterinary colleges of the United States, the author and publisher feel it their duty to constantly revise its pages in order to hold the book up to that standard which it has hitherto attained.

WYMAN, W. E. A., M.D.V., V.S.
Catechism of the Principles of Veterinary Surgery. Cloth, size 6 x 9, 321 pages.....3 50
Concerning this new work attention is called to the following points:
1.—It discusses the subject upon the basis of veterinary investigation.
2.—It does away with works on human pathology, histology, etc.
3.—It explains each question thoroughly, both from a scientific as well as a practical point of view.
4.—It is written by one knowing the needs of the student.
5.—It deals exhaustively with a chapter on tumors, heretofore utterly neglected in veterinary pathology.
6.—The only work in English specializing the subject.
7.—The only work thoroughly taking into consideration American as well as European investigations.
8.—Offering practical hints which have not appeared in print, the result of large city and country practice.

EXPLANATORY

1. The prices quoted on this List are retail prices. Introduction and exchange prices will be given on application.

2. Any book on this List intended for class use will be sent for examination with a view to introduction, postpaid, on receipt of the retail price. However, the amount paid for this copy will be returned on receipt of a subsequent order for any reasonable number of books of like character. Books not intended for class use cannot be sent with the examination privilege.

3. Teachers applying for specimen copies for examination should give the names of their schools, subjects taught by them, and the number of pupils in the class.

4. In ordering—

(1) Give full and exact title of books as furnished in this List.

(2) Give your full address, including postoffice, county and State; also, official school position, if any.

(3) Be sure to indicate whether the books are to be sent by mail, express, or freight. If you live at a distance from a railroad give your postoffice and the name of your railway or express station.

(4) Remit by Draft, Postoffice Money Order, Express Money Order, or Registered Letter.

(5) Don't put off your order until the last moment. We endeavor to fill all orders the day on which they are received but when the schools are opening the pressure of business is so great that it is not always possible to follow this rule.

5. Dealers who desire to open an account should apply for terms and give references.

LATIN

A LATIN PRIMER

By Robert W. Tunstall

IT is estimated that not more than one out of every five pupils who begin the study of Latin continues to the end of the high school course. This, it is believed, is not the fault of either the teacher or the pupils, but is due to a serious lack in our beginners' books. Excellent as some of these are in many respects, few, if any, properly emphasize the real essentials of first-year work. The paramount thing in the first year is to develop in the pupil what may be called the "grammar sense"—the instinct and feeling for grammar as grammar. In the revolt against the formalism of our grandfathers we have gone to the other extreme, and in the place of formal grammar have introduced a system of "lessons" with the result that the pupils acquire a smattering of many things but a mastery of none. In Tunstall's Latin Primer the six essentials of the first year—Inflection, Order of Words, Translation, Vocabulary, Syntax and Pronunciation—are treated in a way that will delight those teachers who have been appealing for sanity in the first-year work in Latin.

In Part I. the subject is introduced by degrees. Incidentally the pupil learns the entire Indicative, Active and Passive, and the four regular conjugations in the Third Person, Singular and Plural, the Singular of Nouns of the first two Declensions, with Adjectives of these Declensions (also in the Singular only), a few Prepositions, and such Syntax principles as Subject, Verb-agreement, Object (Direct and Indirect,) Adjective-agreement, Noun-agreement; Ablative of Means or Instrument (in connection with Passive Verbs) and Agent—these Ablatives being contrasted for the sake of clearness.

Part II. takes up (1) forms, systematically and in the order of formal grammar, and (2) elementary syntax, treated in the order of need and simplicity. In this method the book is at issue with the prevailing practice in beginners' books, which relegate the forms to the appendix, notwithstanding the fact that it is generally admitted that the important thing the first year is the accidence. Forms and syntax are treated in alternate chapters. The chapters given to forms end with drills; the chapters given to syntax contain, first, references to Part III. (Syntax), illustrative examples (sometimes constructive problems for the pupil to work out) next, translations or reading lessons, followed by vocabulary and composition exercises. In the chapters on forms preceding the verb-chapters other parts of the verb are introduced than those given in Part I, thus preparing the student for the verb-paradigms when verbs are reached in their proper order. Part III. gives a systematic treatment of Syntax. There is a very full vocabulary.

ENGLISH.

OUR LANGUAGE

By C. Alphonso Smith
Lida B. McMnrry and F. T. Norvell

IN the preparation of this series it has been the aim of the authors (1) to interest the pupil by novel but vital illustrations, (2) to make him feel a pride in using good English, (3) to eliminate the dry-as-dust exercises that have so long been in vogue, and (4) to make the knowledge of the English language go hand in hand with the appreciation of English literature.

B. F. Johnson Publishing Company, Richmond, Va.

I. LANGUAGE LESSONS

By Lida B. McMurry

THE keynote of this book is its treatment of the paragraph. What is a paragraph? Ask the average pupil of the sixth grade and he cannot tell you. He cannot tell you for the simple reason that his language books have not told him. They have practically ignored the subject. He is familiar with the name, and he knows what the thing looks like—in print—but that is about all. The idea itself is enveloped in a haze, and the chances are that the haze will linger through life and prove an effectual obstacle to the development of a good English style.

If the unit of thought is the paragraph—thus the authors seem to have reasoned—then the pupil ought to get a clear idea of what constitutes a paragraph just as soon as possible. The subject is therefore introduced at the first practicable moment—in the treatment of letter-writing, the first form of composition taken up. This is peculiarly fitting, inasmuch as the paragraph is more strongly differentiated in letter-writing than in any other form of composition.

The treatment of the paragraph forms the backbone of the book from letter-writing to the end. The idea is developed gradually by means of stories in outline, unfinished stories, suggestive pictures, series of related pictures, outlines of letters, suggestions for descriptions, etc. As a rule, the thought is given so that the pupil may devote himself entirely to the form of expression. He is not required to rack his brain for an idea, and then devote his fagged energies to working it out.

The authors have been especially happy in the treatment of inaccuracies of speech. Twelve common errors are brought forward and dealt with in a way that is decidedly refreshing, if not unique. There's a delightful sensation in watching the correct phrase loom up to take the place of the incorrect. Whether one agrees with the authors in all things or not, one cannot lay down the volume without feeling that here is something far beyond the ordinary. There's not a prosy page in it. The method is Socratic, and there's life and vim everywhere. Even the treatment of such threadbare subjects as capital letters, the period, quotation marks, the hyphen, contractions, titles, abbreviations, which takes up the first part of the book, is fresh and full of interest.

And then there are the pictures—the wonderful story-telling pictures! Where will one find anything—in pictures—so charming to the children, so helpful and satisfying to the teacher?

"When a book appears bearing the name of Mrs. McMurry on the title page, every teacher should know it is not to be passed over lightly. This author's books are so full of the schoolroom atmosphere that one can almost see the children at work. This book is a step by step process in teaching our language to youngest children. And so clear and logical is every progressive step that the primary teacher has only to follow it to bring her children to a point of excellence in this branch rarely attained even in the higher grades. The emphasis on the paragraph, that stumbling block to teachers themselves, is particularly valuable. The letter writing, punctuation, correction of the common errors in children's speech are all worth the study of everybody who is trying to teach the English language. The pages are not overloaded with cheap pictures, but every one means something to arouse the interest of the child and make him want to talk. 'Playing Doctor,' 'The Arab and His Horse,' and 'Great Expectations' are beautiful full-page color pictures not often found in ordinary text-books. The 'Suggestions for Teachers' at the end of the book are timely, and sympathetic in tone, as one teacher talks with another."—Primary Education, Boston, Mass.

II. LANGUAGE LESSONS AND GRAMMAR

THIS book has been written from the conviction that carefully graded lessons in language and well selected specimens of literature ought to make the most interesting study in the entire curriculum of childhood; and yet no subject has been presented in a more uniformly dry and unattractive way. Every line of this book has been dictated by experience in the schoolroom, by long study of language problems, and by the desire to adapt all the material used to the needs and limitations of the pupils. To this end explanations are first given of each principle presented, and these are followed successively by apt illustrations, compact definitions, and practical exercises. Exercises in language alternate with simple interpretations of literature, the author believing that it is the duty of a book of this sort to attract the pupil to good literature as well as to drill him in correct language.

The book is divided into two parts, each part having a certain unity in itself, the two parts making a larger and more complete unity. In Part I. there is an elementary treatment of the parts of speech interspersed with exercises in sentence structure, with familiar quotations from the Bible and Shakespeare, with remarks on big and little words, with an exposition of the fundamentals of spelling and punctuation, with pointed anecdotes to be retold, and with many selections from masterpieces of prose and verse.

Part II. begins with the paragraph. This is followed by letter-writing, many letters of famous men to children being given. Sentences and parts of speech are treated with more detail and completeness than in Part I, but there is no repetition and no suggestion of fragmentariness in the treatment of either Part I or Part II. As in part I, there is a constant appeal to the pupil's originality and to his power of imagination, the author realizing that no two pupils are alike and that no exercises should be chosen that do not minister to the diverse needs of different individualities.

Cloth. Price, 45c.

III. GRAMMAR

By C. Alphonso Smith

THIS book has been prepared, not for the linguist, to whom grammar is a science, but for the child, to whom it should be simply the means of teaching him how to express his thoughts clearly and correctly.

The plan of the book is in accordance with the most approved methods of presenting English Grammar. There are two general divisions, (I) The Sentence and (II) The Parts of Speech.

The text opens with a brief treatment of the paragraph as a unit of thought. The sentence is then taken up and treated at length. Following this comes a discussion of clauses, phrases and words in the order named.

The book is intended for the upper grades of the grammar school.

Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, President University of Virginia: "It gives me very sincere pleasure to bear hearty testimony to the efficiency and teachableness and attractiveness of this book as a text-book for the rational study of the English language. I have seen nothing better in the twenty years that I have given thought to school and college text-books. I believe that the return to the rational study of the English language is a good thing, just as I believe the revolt against the study of grammar was a good thing twenty years ago. That revolt has made possible such a splendid book as Professor Smith's. I wish for it great success"

Dr. J. Hoops, Heidelberg, Germany: "It makes a very good impression and seems extremely practical and useful. What makes it most interesting and attractive are the many quotations from well-known poets and prose-writers."

Cloth. 263 pages. Price, 50c.

MATHEMATIC

SCHOOL ARITHMETIC

By J. M. Colaw
J. K. Ellwood
Frank W. Duke

THE remarkable success of this series as a two-book course has led to its expansion to two courses of two and three books respectively, with a view to meeting the needs of a still larger number of schools.

I.

THREE-BOOK COURSE.

Primary Book,
Intermediate Book,
Advanced Book.

This is offered as a complete series, comprising all the Arithmetic required from the Primary to the High School, both inclusive.

The Primary Book connects Arithmetic with the child's life and makes it real to him. The child is made to see the sense in what he is called upon to do. He is taught to count by counting actual things. He is taught to measure by measuring with a definite end in view. He grasps the true idea of number. All through the Primary Book there is ample provision for hand work, sense work, sense training, imaging and expression. You find at every turn an abundance of concrete work and graphic illustration.

The Intermedite Book furnishes additional work in the elementary operations of Arithmetic. Some teachers favor considerable practice in this line before entering upon the Advanced Book. The Intermediate affords this practice, reviewing and extending the subjects embraced in the Primary without duplicating. It is in harmony with the general plan of the series.

The inductive method of the Primary and Intermediate is continued in the Advanced Book. The pupil is not told anything, that he may be led to discover for himself. You do not see a formal statement brought abruptly forward. Questions and suggestions go before as heralds to prepare the way.

One is gratified to note the ample material for mental discipline provided in the oral exercises, which, by the way, put the strain on the reasoning faculty, where it ought to be, and not on the memory, where it ought not to be.

Equally noticeable are the variety and excellence of the problems found in this book. Many of these problems have the rare virtue of everyday utility. The facts and figures are from authoritative sources, and there is much information of practical value.

One of the most valuable features of the Advanced Book is the chapter on equations, which forms the basis of the treatment of percentage, profit and loss, and allied subjects. As every one knows, in the treatment of these subjects authors have usually assumed the truth of certain things from algebra and geometry in order to secure a basis for their treatment. In this book the basis is the equation in which letters are used to represent any concrete number. One notes with pleasure that the Advanced Book is in accord with the report of the Committee of Fifteen, though some subjects which the committee thought should be omitted from arithmetic are placed in the appendix, where they are as carefully treated as if they were an integral part of the book.

The Advanced Book is an adequate substitute for three books—a grammar school arithmetic, a high school arithmetic, and an elementary algebra. Advanced classes are provided for in the body of the book as well as in the appendix. The introduction to algebra at the end will readily take the place of an elementary algebra. The fundamental algebraic processes are clearly treated in accordance with the most approved methods. A feature of this treatment is the use at the beginning of a prefix sign to show whether the value of the algebraic quantity is positive or negative, and another to show the operation to be performed when connected with other algebraic expression.

Logical minds will note with pleasure the orderly arrangement of subjects. For instance, common fractions are treated after decimal fractions because the former are more difficult. While the treatment of United States money precedes that of decimal fractions because it serves as an easy introduction to that subject.

Then, too, the treatment of Banking is strictly practical and in accordance with modern business methods. This chapter was prepared with extraordinary care after several years of correspondence with leading bankers throughout the country, and has been subjected to the closest scrutiny by an able mathematician connected with a well-known banking house.

Taken altogether this comes wonderfully near one's idea of an ideal and complete series.

II.

TWO-BOOK COURSE.

Primary Book.
Practical Book.

This is offered as a Common School Course, intended to fit pupils for the High School or for the affairs of life.

B. F. Johnson Publishing Company, Richmond, Va.

The Practical Book follows the work of the Primary along logical and useful lines. It embraces all the subjects that properly belong in a book of its scope, so treated as to attract and hold the interest of the pupils. Every subject is so presented as to be readily mastered by pupils of the age and grade for which it is intended. This will greatly facilitate the work of the teacher.

The fundamental operations are reviewed in such a manner as to assure a good working knowledge of them before entering upon higher work, and to set forth strikingly the advantages of a uniform scale as found in the decimal system.

A chapter on Short Methods has many features that will prove helpful in computation. The equation is introduced and utilized in the solution of problems. It is treated in such a way as to be within the reach of those who have never studied Algebra, while laying a foundation for the subject. Technicalities are avoided. A distinguished educator, after examining this part of the book, said that he was gratified at finding such a clear presentation of the equation without the introduction of such expressions as "terms," "members," "axioms," "transposing," etc.

Related Problems cover a wide range of useful information on live subjects while furnishing excellent arithmetical drill.

Ratio and Proportion are so treated as to take away their sting, and to supply pupils with a valuable approach in the solution of problems.

The solutions throughout the book are models of cleverness and suggestiveness. By the time the latter part of the book is reached the pupil has at his disposal many "lines of approach" in the solution of problems that may come to him in after life.

The book contains a very large number of problems, for the most part fresh from the mint.

While no arithmetic would be perfectly satisfactory to a progressive teacher, these arithmetics appear to me to be most excellent; and I have already recommended their use as school textbooks.—J. M. Page, M. A., Ph. D., Professor of Mathematics, University of Virginia, Va.

I think it is the most usable book I have ever placed in the hands of my pupils.—S. D. Lucas, Principal Presbyterian Institute, Blackshear, Ga.

One of the foremost works yet published. * * * I prefer it to any other I have yet seen.—G. B. M. Zerr, A. M., Ph. D., Professor of Mathematics, Chester High School, Chester, Pa.

I introduced Colaw and Ellwood's Advanced Arithmetic in the first year of my high school, because it seemed to me the best book I had examined. I have used it for several months, and I am more pleased with it now than I was upon first examination.—Willis A. Jenkins, Principal High School, Portsmouth, Va.

I am more and more pleased with your Arithmetic. Its use confirms me in my original opinion—viz., that it is the best Arithmetic with which I am acquainted.—T. J. Stubbs, Sr., Professor Mathematics, College of William and Mary, Virginia.

No school board in this twentieth century can make a mistake by adopting these arithmetics. Our children are entitled to the very best to be had, and we fail in our duty to them if we neglect to provide it. This series merits an extensive use, and I most heartily recommend it to teachers and directors. It is, in my estimation, the best on the market, and this opinion is held by many eminent educators.—Samuel Andrews, Superintendent City Schools, Pittsburg, Pa.

TEACHER'S MANUAL OF SCHOOL ARITHMETIC

By John M. Colaw and J. K. Ellwood

IN addition to solutions of difficult problems, this Manual contains some suggestions as to the proper methods of teaching arithmetic, especially in the primary grades, and some explanations of the plan of work in the Primary Book. It also contains some valuable supplementary problems with their solutions. The aim has been to make the Manual valuable to teachers generally, and invaluable to teachers using the Colaw and Ellwood Series.

SCHOOL ALGEBRA

By John M. Colaw and J. K. Ellwood

IN this book will be found many of the excellent features which have made the Colaw and Ellwood Arithmetic so popular with progressive teachers. The method used in presenting subjects is inductive. By this means the pupil is led by easy stages to a comprehensive knowledge of the difficulties of algebra.

The examples and problems are abundant and of the most satisfactory type. They are divided into two groups, the second group being designed for advanced pupils.

In the presentation of principles and the solution of problems the strictest attention has been given to mathematical form and accuracy. The several topics are treated more clearly and fully than in most texts, but in no case is the treatment verbose.

In accordance with the latest report of the Mathematical Association of Great Britain the authors have seen fit to make several departures from the stereotyped presentation of algebra. For example, the treatment of Graphs has been placed in the body of the book—under Simple Equations and also under Intermediate Equations.

The teacher will note with pleasure that after a problem has been solved the pupil is required to check the result obtained.

JOURNAL OF EDUCATION, Boston: "No one has better solved the problem of transition from arithmetic to algebra than have Messrs. Colaw and Ellwood, and this is a necessity now that algebra is brought down to the eighth grade. They recognize the necessity of having children become familiar with the simple algebraic conditions before they get away from the arithmetic and of continuing arithmetical activities after they are initiated in their algebra. An unusual and successful attempt has been made to have the algebraic problems made from the field of science and from every-day life. The problems are admirably graded, and the catchy puzzles are eloquent by their absence. The early subjects are given a broader and fuller treatment than usual.

The treatment of factoring, and its application to the solution of equations, is especially thorough. In the solution of problems one meets with many valuable observations on the details and timely cautions against the errors into which beginners are liable to fall. The illustrative solutions are models of neatness and order. The frequentuse of 'checks' leads to accuracy and tends to make the student independent of both text and teacher."

WORD STUDIES

By Edwin S. Sheppe

AS the author states in his preface, the purpose of this series of Spellers is (1) to enable the beginner to recognize readily and to pronounce accurately the various word-forms found in his reader; (2) to teach the spelling, meaning and use of words necessary for a sound education, and (3) to bridge the gap between the spelling book and the dictionary.

The phonic drill-lists in Section I. are intended primarily to aid the beginner in giving to each letter or combination of letters in a word its proper sound-value, and thus to teach him to pronounce words at sight. A drill of fifteen or twenty minutes a day on these lists will put into his possession, during the first three or four months of his school life, the key that will enable him to pronounce with rapidity and ease, and by his unaided efforts, nearly every word found in his reading books.

A knowledge of the sound-value of each letter, acquired from the phonic drills, will serve to give the child the power to spell, without previous study, the large class of words that are written as they are sounded. As a further aid to the mastery of the strange and devious ways of English orthography, the important law of the association of like with like is utilized by grouping words, as far as possible, according to both regularity and similarity of spelling. The more prolific and typical classes of words in common use are taken up first, then the smaller groups, and finally the phonic outlaws, which are comparatively few in number.

It is interesting to note that homonyms, such as too and two, new and knew are never given in pairs but are carefully kept apart. As the author tersely puts it, every homonymous word "should be wedded to its meaning, not to its mate." In all this work the well established principle of learning to know by doing is constantly exemplified.

The numerous exercises in searching for hidden words, in rhyming, in word transformation, in phrase spelling, in careful pronunciation, in word making, in completing sentences, find unity in the common purpose of training the child to examine words letter by letter, to study them in connection with their meaning and use, to observe articulate sounds, and to master inductively the rules governing the spelling of the great class of words that are formed according to fixed principles.

The gap between the ordinary spelling book and the dictionary is an almost insurmountable obstacle to the pupil, even with the help of a good teacher. Most pupils never learn to use a dictionary intelligently; in consulting it, they seldom get either the correct pronunciation of a word or the meaning suited to its use. This new series of Spellers leads up to the Dictionary.

The numerous and varied exercises in syllabication and accent, in dictionary practice, in marking letters diacritically; in the use of index-words and phonic key-words, in making definitions, in discriminating between synonyms, in the study of prefixes, suffixes, and roots, make the pupil understand the use and advantage of a dictionary. The habit of word study thus acquired will grow upon him as he grows older and will solve the spelling problem in the only way in which it can ever be solved.

Finally, there is not a dull lesson in the series. This is rather an unusual claim to make for a Speller, but then it is an unusual Speller. Perhaps after all this is its strongest point—every lesson is interesting.

The most excellent spelling book I have ever seen. I know of no other book that makes the task of learning to spell a pleasure. But the books are more than good spelling books. They teach correct pronunciation and finally lead up to an intelligent use of the dictionary. The books are full of a great variety of interesting material, and are very carefully graded. I hope they may be as well received as they deserve to be.—Lida B. McMurry, DeKalb, Ill.

It is interesting, and that is something that was never said of a speller before.—Miss Alice G. Coon, Altoona, Pa.

It is the finest on fundamental principles of anything I have ever seen as a spelling book.—S. L. Carson, Salisbury, N. C.

COMMON SCHOOL SPELLER

By E. C. Branson

THE First Book is made to be used side by side with First and Second Readers as a direct and distinct help to the child in learning to read.

The Second Book meets the needs of the pupils in the Third, Fourth and Fifth Reader classes.

The vocabulary includes, first, the vocabulary of the common school text-books; second, the common words in daily use outside of the school-room, especially such as are frequently misspelled or mispronounced. Mere catch-words, difficult to spell and infrequently used, are excluded.

The exercises for dictation, copying, sentence spelling and the like have an ethical value far beyond that of other spellers, as a casual glance will show. In no other speller will one find so many selections replete with ennobling sentiments.

The systematic reviews of words frequently mispronounced or misspelled will almost inevitably make the faithful pupil a good speller of every-day English.

The author was for three years a country school teacher; for two years a grade teacher in a city school system; for two years a city school principal; for six years a city school superintendent; for six years teacher of psychology and pedagogy in the Georgia State Normal School; for three years teacher of psychology and logic in the University of Georgia; and for three years President of the State Normal School of Georgia.

SOUTHERN SCHOOL AND HOME, Tallahassee, Fla.: "The chief purpose of a speller is really to take the place of a teacher, for every book the child has should be a spelling book, and the reviews should be arranged by the teacher from the words coming within the experience of the child. But such an ideal spelling course will not be attained except where there is an ideal teacher and with only a pupil or two to train. Branson's Speller is the nearest possible approximation to this condition. The words are those every pupil meets with. The arrangement of the lessons affords the advantage of form and sound analogies, and trains the hand and eye, and the tongue and ear in the practical use of English."

WM. TANKERSLEY, Benton, Ala.:, "I have been using Branson's Spellers during the past scholastic year, and find them unexcelled. They are the most satisfactory spellers that I have ever used. The grading exercises in the primary speller are sufficient to justify their use in all our schools."

READING

GRADED CLASSICS

By F. T. Norvell
and M. W. Haliburton

THE remarkable popularity of this series of Readers is apparently due to the fact that it teaches the child to read in a way that develops in him a love for reading. Everything is made to bend to this end. It is for this reason that the First Reader has been made the easiest of all the readers that have been made. In its 143 pages of reading one will find but 493 different words. In no other book, we believe, will be found so few words doing service over so great a space. Moreover, all this space is filled with genuine reading matter. There is no padding.

The book was built in full view of the school-room. Every sentence was tested in the light of experience. All the features of the "word" and so-called "sentence" methods that have been retained have been retained because they have proved themselves worthy to live. It is a survival of the fittest. These features are supplemented by careful phonic drills. Notice these drills: you will see no diacritics. Notice them again: they are not the words which the pupil has already learned; they are words which he will soon have use for in his reading.

The action sentences and their arrangement are especially pleasing. These sentences wonderfully quicken the child's interest in reading, and wonderfully aid him in grasping the thought of what he is reading.

All the selections are within easy grasp of the child-mind. This does not mean simply that the words are within the child's range, but that the ideas are within his range also. The authors have remembered what so many makers of readers have forgotten, that a story may be written in words of one syllable and yet be utterly incomprehensible to a child.

The book is rapidly progressive. At first glance one will be apt to say that it moves too rapidly. A well-known educator, on picking up the book for the first time, turned at once to the pages in the back of the book, and after a moment said: "This will not do. A child is not ready to read such stories at the end of a First Reader." Then he turned back to the beginning and went through it page by page. "It's wonderful!" he exclaimed at the end. "It shall go into my schools." And it went. He found that the grading is so perfect that when the child gets to the stories he is ready for them: he already knows the words that are used in them.

All through the book everything that is placed before the child is of the sort that arouses interest. He gets pleasure out of every word. There is nowhere a meaningless sentence. If there are repetitions there are no vain repetitions. Yet, while every sentence means something, there are no informational lessons. There is no nature work, for instance. It is better to talk to a child about nature than to have him read about it, especially in the first grade; besides, the child should learn to read, not read to learn.

The pictures—of which there are many beautiful ones in colors as well as in black and white—admirably serve the two-fold purpose of illuminating the text and awakening an interest in art. The teacher will be particularly pleased with the plan of illustrating the text very freely in Part I, and less freely in Part II. This plan not only gives more room for reading matter in the latter part of the book, but it throws the child more on his own resources as he goes along. It is refreshing to see that the illustrations are not allowed to break up the text to the confusion of the child. The editor rather than the printer has had his way, and clearness is not sacrificed to the mysteries of mechanical make-up.

The Second Reader is composed entirely of classics. There is no made-to-order nature talk, but what is far better, there are opportunities along the way for talks about nature from the teacher himself. It is not a book of botany or zoology; it is a book of literature; and nature talks, such as disfigure many readers, are not literature.

The grading in this reader is as accurate as in the first book. No lesson contains more than eight new words. The 493 words used in the First Reader are placed in the beginning of the Second, thus giving the teacher an opportunity to review the First before entering upon the Second.

It delights the eye all the way through this book to see nothing but literature. That thread-bare bore, "Use these words in sentences," does not show his face at every turn. One will notice a gradual change in the character of the stories as one turns the pages. At the beginning they are imaginative; farther on they grow more probable and true. There is, too, a happy grouping of related subjects. It is a pleasure when you have read "The Bow That Bridges Heaven" to find "The Rainbow" and "The Story of Iris, the Rainbow Queen," immediately following. The child's interest reaches its height in the thirty-five or forty pages at the end which tell of child-life among the different races. There is a description of the child-life of a race and then one or two favorite stories of the children of that race.

One closes the book thinking of the remarkable richness and variety of the feast it spreads. There are selections from the French, German, Norse, Japanese, Hawaiian, Old English, Norwegian, Indian, and one knows not how many more.

The Third Reader has 695 new words and fifteen prose and fifteen poetical selections. The accurate grading of the first two books is continued in this Reader. No lesson contains more than ten new words, the average being eight.

The subject matter has been chosen with unusual care. Every selection is classical, and every selection is of absorbing interest to the children. Child-life is the prevailing keynote. While nature-study lessons as such have been excluded, it will be found that a great deal of the subject matter opens up a tempting path to nature work.

The child who studies this Reader will hardly realize that it is a text-book. Seat work, such exercises as "Use these words in sentences," quotations incomprehensible to the child-mind, definitions, and all such useless padding, have been omitted; and even the lists of new words have been relegated to the back of the book.

In the choice of illustrations the authors have shown an intimate knowledge of child-nature. Every picture in the book appeals to the child's sense of art and quickens his interest. Especially valuable are the marginal illustrations which happily take the place of the bewildering definitions which usually accompany the unfamiliar words of the text.

As for the Fourth and Fifth Readers—well, we do not believe that there is anything—in Readers—more thoroughly satisfying than these golden sheaves of complete, exquisitely illustrated stories gathered from the whole field of classical literature. For the convenience of graded schools the Fifth Reader is also issued in parts, all of which are beautifully illustrated.

Miss Mary Moore Welton, for a number of years Principal of the Primary Department of the Ethical Culture Schools of New York, and one of the ablest Primary Teachers in America, in a letter to Miss M. W. Haliburton, one of the authors of "Graded Classics," says: "It is altogether the most satisfactory set of Readers I know. In my opinion you have the right conception of Phonics, both as to the method of teaching it and as to its proper subordination to the thought side of the work. While I differ from you in a few details, I consider that you have met the most serious requirements of a set of Readers—that of giving the children 'literature' from the beginning. You have also succeeded in giving them much fresh material, which adds to the attractiveness of the books. I most heartily commend the whole series."

Dr. J. H. ORCUTT, Principal Central Oregon State Normal School: "The First Reader is a natural method for teaching or learning to read. This is the first text I have seen that puts into execution the action—the natural law of child-life. It is well graded, carefully selected matter being used, and appeals to child-life from start to finish. The phonic element in reading is rightly and gradually introduced. The Second Reader is a continuance of the First, growing stronger as the pupil advances in strength. The review of the words found in its predecessor is an admirable feature. The Third Reader is the Second Reader grown older, larger, and correspondingly stronger. The selections are such as to appeal to the interest of the pupil, leading him unconsciously 'to read to learn,' as well as 'to learn to read.' The Fourth Reader is a peer among school readers—a book without a superior, so far as I am acquainted. The mechanical execution is an illustration of art in book-making."

President E. C. BRANSON, State Normal School, Athens, Ga.: "I congratulate you heartily upon your Graded Classics; these books, it seems to me, are bound to make their way into the schools."

ROSE LEES HARDY, Practice Teacher, Washington Normal School, Washington, D. C.: "I am delighted with Graded Classics. The second book is full of stories children love. The vocabulary of the First Reader consists of simple words that come naturally in a child's vocabulary, and I am surprised at the amount of good reading with so few words. It seems to me the result of practical work in the school-room."

Miss MAY ANDREWS, Principal Model Training School, State Normal College, Florence, Ala.: "Since giving Graded Classics a thorough trial in the Model School classes, I wish to say that they have proved satisfactory in every respect. The selections are from the best literature for children, the illustrations are both attractive and helpful, and the grading is accurate. The children, without exception, prefer Graded Classics to any readers they have used, and my only objection to them is that the children do not seem satisfied with any other readers after having Graded Classics."

LORETTA SMITH, Principal Model School, Monmouth, Oregon: "I am delighted with them. The class of literature; the one-line sentence; the size of print; the gradations of the lessons, and the coloring of the pictures, are all very commendable features. In fact, the best I have seen. Also, the lists of words or the attained vocabulary, is a very excellent feature in the arrangement of the books."

JOURNAL OF EDUCATION, Boston: "These 'Graded Classics' are so admirably written and so beautifully made as to challenge comparison with any books made in the North. There is no reason why such books as these should not be used in Boston or Chicago as well as in Charleston and New Orleans. Classics are classics, wherever and whenever reproduced, but there is a choice in the selection and grading of them, and in these particulars these books are as good as any in the market. There is also a difference—a wide difference—in the illustration of classics, and in this regard these books are admirable. The pictures, large and small, in black and in color, are ideally adapted to the classics themselves."

Cloth, Fully Illustrated in Colors and Black. Graded Classics No. 1, 30c.; Graded Classics No. 2, 35c,; Graded Classics No. 3, 40c.; Graded Classics No. 4, 45c.; Graded Classics No. 5, 50c.

For the convenience of Graded Schools the Fifth Reader is also issued in parts, as follows:

Fifth Grade—King of the Golden River, Ruskin (paper), ready, 10c.; Dog of Flanders, De la Ramee (paper), ready, 10c.; William Wallace and Robert Bruce, Scott (paper), in preparation, 10c.; Discovery of America, Irving (paper), in preparation 10c.

Sixth Grade—Gold Bug, Poe (paper), in preparation, 10c.; Rip Van Winkle and Legend of Sleepy Hollow, Irving (paper), in preparation; 10c.

THE JOHNSON READERS

Revised by E. C. Branson

THE question to ask of a series of Readers is not whether it is graded in the best manner, but whether it contains the best literature graded in the best manner.

The Johnson Readers contain the best literature.

There isn't a trashy lesson in these Readers. There isn't a line to awaken a vile appetite. There isn't a hint of the impure and vicious. There is no belittling of anything that is noble. There is nothing sacriligious or untruthful in them. There is no pretty writing of doubtful tendencies. There is nothing but the best in them.

The Johnson Readers are well graded. There are no ditches to jump. There are no lessons "too hard," followed by lessons "too easy." Lessons of the same grade are not piled one on the other to call a halt. From start to finish the way is smooth and easy.

JOHN S. DERRICK, Lexington, S. C.: "As County Superintendent of Education, Lexington county, S. C., I have visited about fifty schools in the county since the Johnson Readers have been adopted by the State Board of Education. It affords me pleasure to say that those seen are unanimous in their praise."

OSWALD GARRETT, Superintendent Schools, East Bernard, Tex.: "I have been making some comparative studies. The Johnson Readers give me some things that I have long needed, but have been unable to get in other books. Especially do I like the word list, definitions, the seat work, the script and character of the selections."

Cloth, fully illustrated. First Reader, 102 pages; price, Boards, 16c.; Cloth, 20c. Second Reader, 150 pages; price, Boards, 25c.; Cloth, 30c. Third Reader, 203 pages; Cloth, price, 35c. Fourth Reader, 317 pages; Cloth, price, 45c. Fifth Reader, 387 pages; Cloth, price, 60c.

PLAYMATES—A PRIMER

By M. W. Haliburton

THE playmates in this primer are three country children with their pet animals and two city children. The subject matter is made up of conversation of these children while playing and roaming about the farm. The story is a continuous one, and the interest of the pupil is never allowed to flag. The grading is very easy,—only one hundred and ninety words in ninety-two pages of reading matter.

Sixteen four-color plates and numerous illustrations in black and white,—ninety-six pages.

Cloth. Price, 25c.

JOHNSON'S PRIMER

By Mrs. H. H. Richardson

A BOOK of easy steps to Johnson's First Reader. printed in colors. Makes easy the transition from print to script. Contains a progressive series of elementary drawing lessons. Each lesson ends with a writing exercise in which both vertical and slant forms are used. Each lesson contains a memory gem especially adapted to children of the primer age.

Paper, 10c. Boards, 15c.

MOSES' PRIMER

By Edward P. Moses

THE remarkable results obtained in teaching children to read by what is known as the "Moses method" have created a demand for a primer by the author of this method—Superintendent E. P. Moses, of the Raleigh (N. C.) schools. The purpose of this primer is to afford an introduction to the forms of about three hundred words with whose meaning children of the primer age are already familiar. As the author says in his praface: "The main work of the teacher of the primary school, during the first school year at least, should be to teach the symbols for what the children have been acquiring during the four years preceding their entrance into the school."

Boards, Price 15 cents.

CARNEFIX PRIMER

By Frances D. Carnefix

THE Carnefix Primer begins at the beginning. The first lesson introduces a and no other word. A dozen a's and a dozen objects.

It is perfectly graded to the end. At the end of one lesson the child is ready for the next.

It is objective. Instead of a WORD, a PICTURE. A picture that suggests the word it represents, and no other.

It introduces only ninety words. The ninety words a child needs to know before he enters his First Reader.

There is a Phonic Chart at the end.

May be used either with or without the Carnefix Practical Sight-Word Reading Chart and Phonic Exercise.

Price, paper, 5 cents. Boards, 10 cents.

PRACTICAL SIGHT-WORD READING CHART AND PHONIC EXERCISE

By Frances D. Carnefix

THE Carnefix is a handsomely printed set of more than a hundred charts, substantially bound on a heavy roller. The lessons are printed in large, clear type, on soft, tinted paper chosen to relieve the eyes of any unpleasant strain. It contains ninety words for sight reading. The sentences and phrases are profusely illustrated with beautifully colored pictures, which instantly attract and delight the children. The author has been especially happy in the arrangement of pictures in sentences and in the grading. It is simple, attractive, and thoroughly adapted to the needs of beginners. Two pages are devoted to phonic drills.

A sixteen page manual, fully explaining the chart and its uses, is furnished free with every chart ordered.

Price, $7.50; Edges securely bound with cloth, $12.50. Easel for the Chart, $1.25

SUPPLEMENTARY READING

STORIES OF BIRD LIFE

By T. Gilbert Pearson

"MY children," writes Dr. Egbert W. Smith, "are captivated with Mr. Pearson's book. I am not surprised. A more wholesome and fascinating volume for young and old I have rarely seen. It is as interesting as a novel and as instructive as a text-book. My only regret is that this book was not in my hands when I was a boy. It would have given fresh zest and profit to all my field and forest roamings. It would have deepened and made far more intelligent my love of nature in her varied forms. It would have immensely quickened my powers of observation. An ardent love of nature, that draws one from the haunts and lures of the city to the outdoor life of woods and fields and streams, is not only a means of health and mental stimulant; it is a powerful moral safeguard. Such books as Mr. Pearson's constitute the very best kind of secular reading for the young. Parents can find few better Christmas gift books for their children. The style of the book is admirable. Clear and limpid as a mountain brook, it is brightened throughout with gleams of quiet humor that seem a reflection of nature's own sunshine. There are twenty chapters, all beautifully illustrated. It is hard to tell which is the best, all are so full of entertainment and instruction. The one on 'A Bobwhite Family' is certainly among the best. Weary wives ought to present the book to their husbands, with the corner of page 137 turned down and the following sentence underlined: 'Her mate fed her and at times even sat in the nest while the tired one went away to exercise.'

"The work is handsomely bound in cloth with a richly decorated front cover. There are 236 pages with not a dry one among them."

J. M. GREENWOOD, Superintendent Schools, Kansas, City, Mo.: "I read with delight 'Stories of Bird Life.' It is next in interest to Thompson-Seton's 'Wild Animals I Have Known.' It is better because not involving the element of the improbable. As a supplementary reader I would place it very high on the list."

ROBERT C. METCALF, Supervisor of Boston Public Schools: "We have placed it on our list of supplementary readers for the Boston Public Schools."

For the Fifth and Sixth Grades. Fully Illustrated. Colored Frontispice. Cloth, 236 pages. Price, 60c; in five parts, Paper Covers, 10c. each.

Edited by M. W. Haliburton and P. P. Claxton

For the First Grade. Illustrated—Cloth, 144 pages; price, 25c.

FROM THE LAND OF STORIES

By P. P. Claxton

A delightful little volume of fairy tales translated and adapted from the German.

For the First and Second Grades. Boards, price. 15c.

STORY OF THE AGES

By Ida Brown

The Geological Formation of the World, Its Growth, etc.

For the Grammar Grades, Illustrated—Cloth, 108 pages; price, 35c.

NORTH CAROLINA HISTORY STORIES

By W. C. Allen

A SERIES of delightful sketches in simple language suitable for the Fourth and Fifth Reader grades. The stories begin with the landing of the first English people, and present the salient features of North Carolina's history from this point down through the Revolution. These sketches have a local flavor and coloring not to be found in a primary history. The inner life of the people is interwoven with their struggles for liberty.

There are forty-five stories in five books—nine to a book.

Cloth, price, 50c.; in five parts, Paper Covers, 10c. each.

TENNESSEE HISTORY STORIES

By T. C. Karns

IN the preparation of this book the aim has been to give to the children of Tennessee such an insight into the history of their State as will awaken in them a desire for more, and cultivate in them a taste for historical reading and research. As the author well says, no State has a history of more absorbing interest than Tennessee. "Her people were among the first pioneer settlers west of the Alleghanies. Her sons struck a decisive blow for American liberty at King's Mountain. She was one of the first three States added to the Union. Her early situation west of the mountains gave her a unique relation to the rest of the country. Moreover, she has always played a prominent part in the affairs of the nation, and her soldiers and statesmen have been among its leaders."

Designed for supplementary reading in the third and fourth grades.

Cloth. Illustrated. Price, 50c.

TEXAS HISTORY STORIES

By E. G. Littlejohn

WITHOUT attempting to present a connected narrative of events, the author has depicted the lives of the leading characters of the Lone Star State in a manner at once graphic and beautiful.

The salient features of the era of exploration are grouped about the adventurer, Cabeza de Vaca.

The incidents of the short day in which the "lilies of France" waved over the colony are made to live in the life of the chivalrous and courteous La Salle.

The Alamo, San Jacinto, and Goliad, and the heroic deeds which resulted in the establishment of the Republic, become part and parcel of the lives of Houston, Austin, and David Crockett; while the glorious part which Texas played under the "Stars and Bars" is immortalized with the name Dick Dowling.

J. E. BLAIR, Superintendent City Schools, Denison, Tex.: "My own boy, nine years of age, has devoured all of them with avidity. This is conclusive evidence to me that they are adapted to the work they are designed to do."

OSCAR H. COOPER, President Baylor University, Waco, Tex.: "I am charmed with their simplicity, clearness, and beauty of style. I congratulate you on the success of your effort to bring Texas history within reach of Texas children."

J. H. JENKINS, Principal Collin-Street School, Corsicana, Tex.: "We are using Texas History Stories in the Sixth grade, and find them to be excellent supplementary reading."

For the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Grades. Illustrated. Price—Cloth, 50c.; in five parts, Paper Covers, 10c. each.

SOLDIER LIFE IN THE ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA

By Carlton McCarthy

HISTORIANS deal with public men and public events. Carlton McCarthy deals with the private soldier in his everyday life. He tells what the historian has left untold, and it is the most interesting part of the story. There's nothing like it—nothing save the fireside talks with which our soldier boys once charmed our nights. And this is really what this book is—the fireside talks of one of the most charming of talkers. Few men can tell a war story so well.

None can better describe the minute details of a soldier's everyday life, for he was one of them, a boy private in that ragged band of heroes who followed Lee.

For the Fifth Grade. Illustrated. 225 pages; price, 50c.

LIFE OF GENERAL ROBERT E. LEE

By Mrs. M. L. Williamson

THE story of a beautiful life beautifully told. As Mrs. Williamson asks in her preface, "While teaching pupils to read, why not fix in their minds the names and deeds of our great men, thereby laying the foundation of historical knowledge and instilling true patriotism into their youthful souls?" And as she adds, "In looking over the lives of our American heroes we find not one which presents such a picture of moral grandeur as that of Lee. Place this picture before the little ones, and you cannot fail to make them look upward to noble ideals."

ART EDUCATION, New York: * * * "The life of no hero of arms in all the history of the world, perhaps, contains so many lessons of the purest, truest, noblest manhood as does the life history of General R. E. Lee, and every child, North or South, will become a better man or woman by studying Lee's character. * * Mrs. Williamson's little book is intensely interesting, and would be an excellent thing in the hands of a teacher from which to draw illustrations for teaching the nobility of the highest type of Christian character."

For the Third Grade. Fully illustrated, 183 pages. Price, Boards, 25c.; Cloth 35c.

LIFE OF GENERAL THOMAS J. JACKSON

By Mrs. M. L. Williamson

IN words which little children will quickly comprehend, Mrs. Williamson presents a most striking portrait of perhaps the most striking figure in the military annals of modern times. She is especially happy in her effort to portray "amid the blaze of his matchless military genius, the unchanging rectitude of his conduct, the stern will-power by which he conquered all difficulties, his firm belief in an over-ruling Providence, and his entire submission to the Divine will. These traits of character were the corner-stone upon which he reared the edifice of his greatness, and upon which the young people of our day will do well to build."

S. H. Stout, A. M., M. D., LL.D., Dallas, Tex.: "I have carefully and critically read Mrs. Mary L. Williamson's Life of Robert E. Lee and Life of T. J. Jackson for the young. I am delighted with them. They ought to be universally adopted as supplementary reading matter for the use of pupils in the third and fourth grades of our public schools. The author is forcible and truthful in her statements of facts, and her style is fascinating to youthful minds."

For the Fourth and Fifth Grades. Fully illustrated. 248 pages. Price, Boards, 30c.; Cloth, 40c.

PENMANSHIP

SMITHDEAL'S SLANT WRITING BOOKS

By G. M. Smithdeal

BOOK 1 contains the small and capital letters and the figures. The main features of this book are word building, the placing of small letters and their corresponding capitals in juxtaposition, and the introduction of the simplest punctuation marks.

In Book 2 short sentences are used with the simplest punctuation marks. The four arithmetical signs appear in this book.

The copies in Book 3 are interesting historical statements and simple business sentences. There are additional punctuation marks.

Book 4 contains a collection of choice one and two-line quotations from standard authors.

Book 5 contains "Dictation Exercises," treating of interesting persons and events, and a series of social forms, including letters, formal and informal notes, etc.

Book 6 contains business forms in general use, including notes, drafts, checks, telegrams, advertisements, etc., etc.

Great care has been exercised in selecting styles of letters. For example, in most copybooks the standard capitals A and H require lifting the pen from the paper and starting again, twice in the construction of each letter. In the Smithdeal Copybooks these forms are made without lifting the pen at all.

The slant of writing in these books has been reduced from 52 to 45 degrees.

Six Numbers. Price, 5c. each,

JOHNSON'S VERTICAL WRITING BOOKS

HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

By Susan Pendleton Lee

LEE'S Histories of the United States not only give the facts, but they give them with painstaking accuracy. They are practicable. They can be taught. It is easy to teach them. It is a pleasure to teach them.

They are written to be taught. They were written by a teacher who knows how to teach and who knows the needs of teachers as well as of pupils. They have been revised not only with a view to securing accuracy, but to make them of the highest possible value in the schoolroom. They have been ground and polished until they fit into the work of the schoolroom as an ivory ball fits in its socket.

Note the questions in geography introducing the history of a particular section.

Note, too, the happy device in the Primary Book to help beginners in memorizing dates. Then there are the blackboard forms of analysis in both books—another valuable pedagogical device. And who will not be glad to see that all the hard names are phoneticized?

One cannot but admire the noble spirit which the author displays throughout these books. You do not see prejudice sticking out at every turn. There isn't an unfair word in them. There isn't a scornful fling in them. There isn't a bit of poison in them. There's nothing but the truth in them.

While the warp is the same in both books, the woof is different. Points briefly treated in one book are expanded in the other. For instance, in the Primary Book the War Between the States is very briefly given, while in the New School History it receives comprehensive treatment.

Lee's New School History is arranged to meet the needs of the grammar grades of our public schools. In the revised edition the history has been brought down to date.

There is an abundant supply of maps and helpful illustrations.

ROBERT S. BALLON, Centreville, Tenn.: "As a teacher of twenty-four years' experience, and as one who has served as County Superintendent over one-half of that time, I am ready to say that I do not wish to exchange Lee's New School History for any I have examined."

H. C. GILBERT, Superintendent of Public Schools, Florence, Ala.: "We have been using Lee's New School History of the United States in the seventh grade of our schools during the past session, and both the teacher and the pupils were delighted with it. It is an admirable work, beautifully illustrated, and strongly and attractively bound. We like the clear, bright and charming way the author has of 'talking' about great men and great events. We are pleased with the topical arrangement of the book, with the analyses, search questions and frequent maps, thereby linking, very properly, geography and history."

J. Stone Rives, President of Aulden Rives College, Smithville, Tenn.: "I have used Lee's History of the United States for four years, and can say that it is the best I have ever used. For conciseness, breadth, and impartial treatment of the subject matter it has no equal."

H. A. McKinnon, Principal High School, Calera, Ala.: "This book is just what I want. The subject matter and arrangement approximate my ideal text in United States history."

J. C. Flanigan, President Perry-Rainey College, Auburn, Ga.: "I never fail to utter words in its praise when the opportunity offers."

S. T. Carter, Clerk State Board of Examiners, Columbia, S. C.: "I was pleased to note that while the book does justice to the South, it does equal justice to other sections."

News and Courier, Charleston, S. C.: "Mrs. Lee's New School History of the United States has established itself in popular estimation as a fair and impartial work."

Book News, Philadelphia, Pa.: "Simply, clearly, candidly, and forcibly stated, with a constant fidelity to the past noble and conservative exemplifications of the Southern people."

Chautauquan, Pa.: "The bright, pellucid style is well adapted to arouse and retain the interest of school children."

CIVICS

TEXAS AND THE NATION
A Civil Government

By F. W. Chatfield and S. M. Sewell

THIS volume has been prepared to meet the demand for a text-book which shall treat not only of the general government, and of State government in general, but also of the State government of Texas in particular. The order of treatment is from the local to the national—beginning with the school district. The style is simple and clear, and the language will be readily understood by pupils of the seventh and eighth grades, for whom the book is intended.

MANUAL TRAINING

EDUCATIONAL MANUAL TRAINING

By Wm. C. A. Hammel

THE purpose of this series is to present an outline of a course beginning in the third grade with Paper Folding, followed by Cardboard Construction in the fourth grade, Elementary Knife Work in the fifth grade; Advanced Knife Work in the sixth grade, and Wood Sloyd (bench work in wood) in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

The exercises in Paper Folding, Cardboard Construction, and Knife Work lead systematically to Wood Sloyd. Presuming that some hand work has already been done in the kindergarten and in the first and second grades, it seems best to begin with Paper Folding in the third grade. Accuracy and neatness are cultivated through easy exercises in measuring, drawing, cutting, etc., and the pupil is better fitted to work in a more difficult material. In the fourth grade the construction of type solids in cardboard, together with useful models based upon these types, gives the pupil new exercises, and he is prepared for the following year's work in Elementary Knife Work, which is done in the softest woods, and deals with two dimensions only, length and breadth. The Advanced Knife Work course is taken up in the sixth grade, and deals with the three dimensions of solids, thus giving the pupil practice in the use of more complex working drawings; various woods of increasing difficulty to work in are used in order to familiarize the pupil with the nature of the different kinds of woods.

BALTIMORE SUN, Baltimore, Md.: "A number of educators have pronounced these the most practical and simplest books yet issued on the subject."

KINDERGARTEN REVIEW, Springfield, Mass.: "If the books that are to follow equal this one, No. I., in clearness and diction, natural development in design, and simplicity and beauty of objects made, the series will merit great success."

PRIMARY EDUCATION, Boston, Mass.: "The drawings, type, and makeup of the books are most excellent. Nothing to confuse, but everything to make the way plain. Such exactness in dictation is the very best training for boys and girls of this age to prevent careless, slipshod ways. The series will be worth the examination of every teacher and the test of actual use by the children will prove its merit."

First Book: Paper Folding. Second Book: Cardboard Construction. Third Book: Elementary Knife Work. Fourth Book: Advanced Knife Work. Fully illustrated with Working Designs and Photographs of complete models. Price, 20c. each.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE EDUCATION OF TEACHERS

By W. H. Payne

DR. PAYNE is a man with a message—the sort of message that compels attention. One must hear him through, though one may not agree with him all the way through. He goes to the very core of the matter, and, having found it, talks with us about it face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend. There are eight wonderfully stimulating chapters, every one of which one will want to read over and over again.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL TIMES, Philadelphia, Pa.: "It is a challenge that has stimulus in its breadth."

KINDERGARTEN REVIEW, Springfield, Mass.: "Many writers have discussed the subjects treated here, but not many have presented them with equal readableness and force or kept so persistently on a lofty plane."

BUCHANAN—ANATOMY, SYSTEMATIC and PRACTICAL INCLUDING EMBRYOLOGY

A. M. BUCHANAN, M. A., M. D., C. M. F., F. P. S.
GLASGOW
Professor of Anatomy in Anderson College, Glasgow; Examiner in Anatomy for the Triple Qualification of Scottish Licensing Bodies; Examiner in Anatomy for the Fellowship of Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow, etc.

In two volumes, 8vo; price per volume, $2.75 net. Volume I—Osteology, Upper Limb and Lower Limb, pp. xxiv + 594 with 268 illustrations, mostly original, and in colors. Volume II, ready in September.

This work combines a Manual of Practical Anatomy with a Text-book of Systematic Anatomy, thus furnishing students with a complete treatise on the whole of Anatomy.

The special features of the book comprise a most exhaustive Section on Osteology, the joints and ligaments being described in the order in which they are actually met with in the course of dissection.

Each of the Sections of the Upper Limb, Lower Limb, Abdomen, Thorax, and Head and Neck has appended to it a complete guide to its dissection, describing the manner in which dissections should be carried out and the structures exposed. The minute anatomy of the Viscera is fully described and illustrated from microscopical preparations, and the subject of Embryology is much simplified by a concise account of each organ's development.

Special sections are devoted to the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat, which are also fully illustrated.

The book is printed on thin opaque paper and is bound in English Linen Buckram. No expense or trouble has been spared to make the work a practical guide to the Practitioner as well as the student.

MEDICAL TEXTBOOKS ON MODERN METHODS OF TREATMENT. The Literature dealing with modern methods of treatment is already considerable, but it is scattered through a number of periodicals, and it is thus to a large extent inaccessible to the general body of the medical profession. This series will consist of monographs, in which all the available evidence will be critically reviewed by writers whose practical experience enables them to form a judicial estimate of the value of the methods described. Among the works in preparation are volumes devoted to the treatment by serums of various kinds, by animal extracts, by light and X-rays, by hot air, and the open-air treatment of consumption. The first volume now ready, entitled:

Serums, Vaccines, and Toxins in Treatment and Diagnosis. By Wm. Cecil Bosanquet, M. A., M. B. (Oxon), F. R. C. P. (Lond.), Physician to Out-Patients, Victoria Hospital for Children, London. Limp Cloth, $2.00 net.

Covering the Field of Practical Therapeutics.

I.—A Manual of Medical Treatment or Clinical Therapeutics.

Revised edition with Formulae adapted to the Strength of the U. S. P. of 1905. By Oscar Oldberg, Ph. D., Dean of School of Pharmacy, Northwestern University, Member of Committee of Revision of the Pharmacopeia of the United States. Fourteenth Edition (Twenty-second Thousand). Opinions of Previous Edition.

"Thanks for Yeo's Manual, which has been a favorite book of mine for many years."—W. Osler, M. D.

"It is a book from which the most skillful therapeutist has something to learn; a book which the ordinary physician, no matter how frequent he appeals to it, will surely find a true guide, philosopher and friend. One thought at the time that improvement on the first edition would be next to impossible. Success, however, is a wonderful stimulant to an author, hence we have a thoroughly revised, extended, modernized edition of the Manual of Medical Therapeutics, which is likely to remain for some time to come the standard work on the subject in the English language. We feel at liberty to give the book unqualified praise, and almost constrained not only to recommend it, but also to urge it upon all who do not possess it."—Medical Press and Circular.

"In the 1,500 pages of the two volumes there is scarcely a medical subject of interest which is not enriched by many rational therapeutic suggestions."—Medical News.

"The text is written in an interesting manner, and the subject matter has been surprisingly well brought up to date, when it is borne in mind that this is a tenth edition. The two volumes present the status of medical treatment of to-day."—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, Nov. 13, 1903.

II.—The Therapeutics of Mineral Springs and Climates.

Revised edition, 1 volume, 12mo, 760 pages. JUST READY. Cloth, - - Net $3.50

"This is a book which is of especial interest to that part of the readers of this journal who are interested in the features of climatology and crounotherapy, whose recognition we have so long insisted upon, and it is a work which should be of much wider interest to the intelligent and educated general practitioner than it now is. The work is purely European. The resorts described are European resorts and the climates considered are European climates, and yet the work is none the less valuable on that account to the American practitioner. The literature of American mineral waters is, so far, meager and unsatisfactory, and the therapeutic value of American climates has just begun to be appreciated by Americans. So clearly has Yeo described the European waters and climates, so fully has he shown their therapy that those of us who have the slightest knowledge of American waters and climates may gain a great deal by applying this information to analogous springs and regions of our own country. The intelligent reading of this book, with comparatively complete digestion of its teachings, will do much to make exhaustive clinical study at our American resorts unnecessary, and will permit us to utilize the knowledge accumulated during decades by our European friends. The physician who reads this book, with its therapeutic claims substantiated by the best medical talent Europe has produced, cannot but be amazed at the continued apathy of the American profession on these very important subjects."—The Chicago Clinic and Pure Water Journal, May, 1904.

III.—Food in Health and Disease.

Revised edition, 1 volume, 12mo, 592 pages. Cloth, - - Net $2.50

"To the readers of current medical literature of the past quarter of a century it is unnecessary to offer any introduction to the name or fame of Professor Yeo. For years he has been a classic authority on the subject of dietetics. Probably he is more quoted than any other one authority on this subject. This eighth edition of his work on 'Food in Health and Disease' covers nearly 600 closely but clearly printed pages, and contains very little that the intelligent reader will care to skip. Not that all readers will agree with every one of his theories or adopt without modification all his suggestions. This would be impossible in case of any book that possesses as strong an individuality as does this one. Without attempting to describe the good qualities with which the book teems from cover to cover, our opinion of it may be condensed into a nutshell of space by saying that no physician's library is well balanced in dietetics unless it contains Yeo on 'Food in Health and Disease.'"—The Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette, August, 1904.

Charles H. Kerr & Company's

Books on Socialism, Modern Science, etc.

STANDARD SOCIALIST SERIES.

This series of books, the first volumes of which were issued in 1901, contains some of the most important works by the ablest Socialist writers of Europe and America. The size of page is 6¾ by 4¼ inches, making a convenient shape either for the pocket or the library shelf. The books are substantially bound in cloth, stamped with a uniform design, and are mechanically equal to many of the books sold by other publishers at a dollar a copy. Our retail price, postage included, is FIFTY CENTS.

1. Karl Marx: Biographical Memoirs. By Wilhelm Liebknecht, translated by Ernest Untermann. Cloth, 50 cents.

This personal biography of Marx, by an intimate friend who was himself one of the foremost Socialists of Germany, gives a new insight into the beginnings of Socialism. Moreover, it is a charming book, as interesting as a novel, and will make an admirable introduction to heavier reading on Socialism.

2. Collectivism and Industrial Evolution. By Emile Vandervelde, member of the Chamber of Deputies, Belgium. Translated by Charles H. Kerr. Cloth, 50 cents.

The author is a Socialist member of the Belgian Parliament and is one of the ablest writers in the International Socialist movement. This book is, on the whole, the most satisfactory brief summary of the principles of Socialism that has yet been written. One distinctive feature of it is that it takes up the difficult questions of how the machinery of production could be acquired and how wages could be adjusted under a Socialist administration.

3. The American Farmer: An Economic and Historical Study. By A. M. Simons. Cloth, 50 cents.

"The American Farmer," in spite of its small size, is the largest contribution yet given to the agrarian literature of this country. The author, besides being a student of American social conditions, is thoroughly conversant with practical farming, and there is little doubt that the farmer who reads the work will have to admit that the conclusions are based on a real understanding of the difficulties of his struggle with the soil, with railroads, trusts and foreign competitors.—Chicago Tribune.

4. The Last Days of the Ruskin Co-operative Association. By Isaac Broome. Cloth, illustrated, 50 cents.

Socialism does not mean withdrawing from the class struggle and trying to set up a paradise on a small scale. If there are those who still think such a scheme practicable, they will find interesting facts in this book.

5. The Origin of the Family, Private Property and the State. By Frederick Engels. Translated by Ernest Untermann. Cloth, 50 cents.

This is one of the most important of the author's works, and although first published in 1884, was never accessible to English readers until our translation appeared in 1902. It contains practically everything necessary to the general reader in the voluminous work of Morgan, and it furthermore gives many additional facts and a coherent, scientific treatment of the whole subject. The book is of great propaganda value, in that it shows the folly of the popular idea that wealth and poverty always have existed and so may always be expected to continue.

6. The Social Revolution. By Karl Kautsky. Translated by A. M. and May Wood Simons. Cloth, 50 cents.

Kautsky is the editor of the Neue Zeit, and is universally recognized as one of the ablest Socialist writers and thinkers in Europe. This book is in two parts. Part I., Reform and Revolution, explains the essential difference between the Socialist party and all reform parties. Part II., The Day After the Revolution, gives straightforward answers to the questions so often asked about what the Socialists would do if entrusted with the powers of government.

7. Socialism, Utopian and Scientific. By Frederick Engels. Translated by Edward Aveling, D. Sc., with a Special Introduction by the Author. Cloth, 50 cents.

This book ranks next to the Communist Manifesto as one of the best short statements in any language of the fundamental principles of Socialism. It is an essential part of every Socialist library, however small.

8. Feuerbach: The Roots of the Socialist Philosophy. By Frederick Engels. Translated, with Critical Introduction, by Austin Lewis. Cloth, 50 cents.

This book is a criticism on the works of a forgotten philosopher, but it is still of timely interest, since attempts are still being made to reintroduce dualist notions into the philosophy of Socialism. Austin Lewis contributes an interesting historical introduction.

9. American Pauperism and the Abolition of Poverty. By Isador Ladoff, with a supplement, "Jesus or Mammon," by J. Felix. Cloth, 50 cents.

A study of the last United States census, bringing out in bold relief the social contrasts that are purposely left obscure in the official documents. An arsenal of facts for Socialist writers and speakers.

10. Britain for the British (America for the Americans.) By Robert Blatchford, with American Appendix by A. M. Simons. Cloth, 50 cents.

A popular presentation of Socialism, in the same charming and simple style as the author's "Merrie England," but giving a far more adequate and scientific account of the subject.

11. Manifesto of the Communist Party. By Karl Marx and Frederick Engels. Authorized English Translation: Edited and Annotated by Frederick Engels. Also included in the same volume, No Compromise: No Political Trading. By Wilhelm Liebknecht. Translated by A. M. Simons and Marcus Hitch. Cloth, 50 cents.

This manifesto, first published in 1848, is still recognized the world over as the clearest statement of the principles of the international Socialist party. It has been translated into the language of every country where capitalism exists, and it is being circulated more rapidly today than ever before.

12. The Positive School of Criminology. By Enrico Ferri. Translated by Ernest Untermann. Cloth, 50 cents.

The science of criminology has been revolutionized within one generation by the Socialist students of Italy, of whom Ferri is the most prominent living representative. This book is indispensable to any one desiring reliable information on the modern theory of crime and its treatment.

13. The World's Revolutions. By Ernest Untermann. Cloth, 50 cents.

A study of the economic causes of the great revolutions of the world's history in the light of the Socialist principle of historical materialism.

14. The Socialists, Who They Are and What They Seek to Accomplish. By John Spargo. Cloth, 50 cents.

Scientific yet readable and easy; written in a style that the man in the street will understand and the man in the university will admire. Just the book to start a new reader.

15. Social and Philosophical Studies. By Paul. Lafargue. Translated by Charles H. Kerr. In preparation.

This book will contain two studies entirely new to American readers, "Causes of Belief in God," and "The Origin of Abstract Ideas." It will also contain several studies reprinted from the International Socialist Review. Lafargue's brilliant style makes even the most abstract subjects delightful.

16. What's So and What Isn't. By John M. Work. In preparation.

This book was originally published in pamphlet form by the Appeal to Reason. It has proved exceptionally valuable from the fact that it gives convincing and forcible answers to all the stock objections to Socialism. The present edition is the first to be printed in library style, and it has been carefully revised by the author, several new chapters being added.

17. Ethics and the Materialist Conception of History. By Karl Kautsky, translated by John B. Askew. In preparation.

This work, by one of the foremost European Socialists, is one of the most important helps to clear thinking on a vital part of the Socialist philosophy and its application. The author reviews ancient and Christian ethics, the ethics of the Renaissance, the ethic of Kant and the ethic of Darwinism, and devotes the latter half of his book to a comprehensive study of the ethics of Marxism.

LIBRARY OF SCIENCE FOR THE WORKERS.

Modern International Socialism is directly related to modern science. It is in a sense the evolution theory applied to the facts of society. It, therefore, follows that for a full understanding of socialism some general knowledge of the facts of modern science is necessary.

A new series of books has lately appeared in Germany which give in simple and popular form complete proofs of the evolution theory along with a clear account of the latest applications of this theory in the various fields of modern science. We have arranged to translate and publish some of the best of these, along with such original works in the same line as are available. They are uniform in size with the Standard Socialist Series.

1. The Evolution of Man. By Wilhelm Boelsche. Translated by Ernest Untermann. Cloth, 50 cents.

"The Evolution of Man" tells in full detail, in a clear, simple style, illustrated by pictures, just how the descent of man can be traced back through monkeys, marsupials, amphibians, fishes, worms and lower forms of life, down to the animals composed each of a single cell. Moreover, it proves that there is no such fixed line as was formerly thought to exist between the organic and the inorganic, but that the same life-force molds the crystal that molds the cell. It is not only simple; it is up-to-date and gives the latest discoveries in science. It is the book on the subject.

2. Germs of Mind in Plants. By R. H. Francé. Translated by A. M. Simons. Cloth, illustrated, 50 cents.

A cardinal point in the philosophical systems favored by the ruling classes is that the mind of man is something unique in the universe, governed by laws of its own that have no particular connection with physical laws. Modern science has proved that not only animals, but also plants, receive impressions from the outside world and use the data thus obtained to modify their movements for their own advantage, exactly as human beings do. These facts are told in this book in so charming and entertaining a style that the reader is carried along and does not realize until later the revolutionary significance of the facts.

3. The End of the World. By Dr. M. Wilhelm Meyer. Translated by Margaret Wagner. Cloth, illustrated, 50 cents.

This book answers in the light of the discovery of modern science the questions frequently asked as to the probable end of human life on this planet. Moreover, it goes a step further in making clear the relations of man's life to the universe life. We have already seen that "mind" is but another form of "life." Dr. Meyer shows that not only animals and plants but even worlds and suns have their birth, growth, maturity, reproduction, decay and death, and that death is but the preparation for a new cycle of life.

4. Science and Revolution: A Historical Study of the Evolution of the Theory of Evolution. By Ernest Untermann. Cloth, 50 cents.

A history of the evolution of the theory of evolution, from the earliest scientific writings that have been preserved, those of the Greek philosophers, down to the present time. The author shows how the ruling classes, living on the labor of others, have always supported some form of theology or mysticism, while the working classes have developed the theory of evolution, which is rounded out to its logical completion by the work of Marx, Engels and Dietzgen. The author frankly recognizes that no writer can avoid being influenced by his class environment, and he himself speaks distinctly as a proletarian and a Socialist. "Science and Revolution" is an essential link in the chain of evidence proving that conclusions drawn by Socialists from the facts of science.

5. The Triumph of Life. By Wilhelm Boelsche. Translated by May Wood Simons. Cloth, 50 cents.

The German critics agree that this book is even more interesting than "The Evolution of Man," by the same author. It tells of the struggle of life against its physical environment, and introduces a wealth of scientific detail charming set forth. The German original contains no illustrations, but our edition is fully illustrated with pictures that aid materially in an understanding of the text.

6. Life and Death, a Chapter from the Science of Life. By Dr. E. Teichmann. Translated by A. M. Simons. Cloth, 50 cents.

A study of how life begins and how it ends. It does not duplicate any other book in this series, but is a special investigation into the laws which govern the reproduction of life. It also deals with the methods by which the life of each separate individual is brought to an end, and shows that in an overwhelming majority of cases throughout the whole animal kingdom death is violent rather than "natural." Even among human beings a really "natural" death is rare. The author suggests that with improved conditions of living, most premature deaths may be prevented, and that in that event the fear of death, which causes so much of the misery of the world, may disappear.

7. The Making of the World. By Dr. M. Wilhelm Meyer. Translated by Ernest Untermann. Cloth, 50 cents.

This is a companion volume to "The End of the World," and traces the processes through which new suns and new worlds come into being to take the place of those that have grown old and died. It is an essential link in the chain of evidence proving that the human mind is not something apart from nature but only another manifestation of the one force that pervades all "matter." The book has twenty-four illustrations, for the most part reproductions of telescopic photographs, which make the truth of the statements in the book evident to every reader.

THE INTERNATIONAL LIBRARY OF SOCIAL SCIENCE.

This new library, the first volume of which appeared in January, 1906, contains in substantial and artistic cloth binding some of the most important works on socialism and kindred subjects that have ever been offered in the English language. While our price has been fixed at a dollar a volume, most of the books in the library are equal to the sociological books sold by other publishers at from $1.50 to $2.00.

1. The Changing Order. A Study of Democracy. By Oscar Lovell Triggs, Ph. D. Cloth, $1.00.

Dr. Triggs was a prominent professor in the University of Chicago, but he taught too much truth for Standard Oil, and is no longer a professor in the University of Chicago. This book contains some of the truth that was too revolutionary for Mr. Rockefeller's institution. It traces the inevitable rise of democracy in industry, in other words, of a working class movement that will take industry out of the control of capitalists. It also studies the necessary effect of this rising democracy on literature and art, on work and play, on education and religion.

2. Better-World Philosophy. A Sociological synthesis. By J. Howard Moore. Cloth, $1.00.

I know of no book that so truly begins at the beginning of things, determined to know the truth, however harsh or naked it may appear, and then to build thereon an honest and effective optimism. I think that all our future philosophy will have to begin where Professor Moore begins; not with metaphysical speculations, like the philosophers of old, but with the fearful facts of our life, and out of these fearful facts, out of the human soil and chance and struggle, forecast principles and prophecies that shall make the facts of life more beautiful than our most beautiful dreams.

GEORGE D. HERRON.

3. The Universal Kinship. By J. Howard Moore. Cloth, $1.00.

I do not know of any book dealing with evolution that I have read with such keen interest. Mr. Moore has a broad grasp and shows masterly knowledge of the subject. And withal the interest never flags. The book reads like a novel. One is constantly keyed up and expectant. Mr. Moore is to be congratulated upon the magnificent way in which he has made alive the dull, heavy processes of the big books. And, then, there is his style. He uses splendid virile English and shows a fine appreciation of the values of words. He uses always the right word.

JACK LONDON.

4. Principles of Scientific Socialism. By Charles H. Vail. Cloth, $1.00.

The most successful summary of Marxian Socialism ever written by an American author. It opens with a brief sketch of industrial evolution, then explains the theory of surplus value, and then enters into a comprehensive discussion of the advantages of Socialism. The reviewer of the Chicago Daily News, of course an opponent of Socialism, praises this book as "logical, sincere and restrained."

5. Some of the Philosophical Essays on Socialism and Science, Religion, Ethics, Critique of Reason and the World at Large. By Joseph Dietzgen, translated by M. Beer and Th. Rothstein. With a biographical sketch and some introductory remarks by Eugene Dietzgen, translated by Ernest Untermann. Edited by Eugene Dietzgen. Cloth, $1.00.

These writings of Dietzgen round out the Socialist thought on a side never covered in detail by Marx himself, who, by the way, gave the fullest recognition to the importance of Dietzgen's work. No one who wishes to understand Socialism thoroughly can afford to miss reading Dietzgen. The book is far less difficult reading than its title might seem to indicate.

6. Essays on the Materialistic Conception of History. By Antonio Labriola, translated by Charles H. Kerr. Second edition. Cloth, $1.00.

Modern Socialism cannot be understood without a knowledge of the principle of historical materialism. This is only outlined briefly in the writings of Marx, and it is best developed in these essays of Labriola. The book demands careful study, but it also repays careful study.

7. Love's Coming-of-Age. By Edward Carpenter. Cloth, $1.00.

Only one who unites in himself the qualities of poet and scientist, as Carpenter does, can write understandingly of the sex relation. "Love's Coming-of-Age" is a work that will help men to understand women and women to understand men, and will help both to solve the new problems which changed economic conditions have introduced and will introduce into the relations of men and women to each other.

8. Looking Forward. A Treatise on the Status of Woman and the Origin and the Growth the Family and the State. By Philip Rappaport. Cloth, $1.00.

Rappaport is a thorough student of history and of law, and his book is an excellent complement to Carpenter's, in that he studies the historical basis of the marriage relation, and lays the foundation for logical conclusions as to the probable and necessary action of society in the near future as to the economic and legal status of woman.

9. The Positive Outcome of Philosophy. By Joseph Dietzgen, translated by Ernest Untermann, with an introduction by Dr. Anton Pannehoek. Edited by Eugene Dietzgen and Joseph Dietzgen, Jr. Cloth, $1.00. Ready in August.

This volume includes Dietzgen's three principal works, "The Nature of Human Brain Work," "Letters on Logic" and "The Positive Outcome of Philosophy." Joseph Dietzgen, a contemporary and coworker of Karl Marx, has long been recognized by European Socialists as one of the greatest writers on the Socialist philosophy. Our translations now bring these works for the first time within the reach of American students.

10. Socialism and Philosophy. By Antonio Labriola, author of "Essays on the Materialistic Conception of History, translated from the Italian by Ernest Untermann. Cloth, $1.00. Ready in September.

"Socialism and Philosophy" is comparatively easy reading. It is in the form of familiar personal letters to Sorel, the Socialist who first introduced Labriola's writings to French readers. The style is simple, direct and forceful, while Labriola's thought is always keen and penetrating. The argument of the letters is a defense of the Marxian position against opportunism, sentimentalism and theories of "natural rights and "eternal truths."

11. The Physical Basis of Mind and Morals. By M. H. Fitch. Cloth, $1.00.

This work is a critical study of the evolution theory and its applications to social science and ethics. The author reviews the work of Darwin and Spencer, and shows how theology reappears under another form in many who think themselves evolutionists. What we call mind is produced by brain tissue, and morality, like life itself, is a correspondence of the individual with his environment. The author develops and applies this thought in a series of interesting chapters.

OTHER SOCIALIST BOOKS
In Cloth Binding.

Capital: A Critical Analysis of Capitalistic Production. By Karl Marx. Translated from the third German edition, by Samuel Moore and Edward Aveling, and edited by Frederick Engels. First complete American edition, revised by Ernest Untermann, including the additions made by Frederick Engels to the fourth German edition, with topical index. Cloth, $2.00.

"Das Kapital," in the original German, makes three large volumes, containing about 2,500 pages. Only the first volume has ever appeared in the English language as yet, and it has frequently been advertised in a way to convey the impression that it was the entire work. We have heretofore been supplying the London edition of the first volume. Our new edition, which we expect to issue in September, 1906, contains the same matter as this, with some important additions, including topical index. We have also in preparation an entirely new translation by Ernest Untermann of the second and third German volumes, which will make a complete and uniform edition of the entire work. The second volume will probably be issued in 1907 and the third in 1908. The exact date of publication and the price of each volume will be announced later.

Ancient Society: or Researches in the Lines of Human Progress; From Savagery Through Barbarism to Civilization. By Lewis H. Morgan LL. D. Cloth, $1.50. In press.

The first edition of this great work was published in 1877. It has been recognized by the scholars of Europe and America as the highest authority on the subject of which it treats, and its conclusions are of the utmost value to Socialists, since it proves that the system of private property, based on some form of chattel or wage slavery, is not eternal but comparatively recent. The circulation of this book has heretofore been very limited on account of its high price. The copyright has expired and we now offer this popular edition.

God's Children. A Modern Allegory. By James Allman. Cloth, 50 cents.

The Rebel at Large. By May Beals. A volume of short stories. Cloth, 50 cents.

The International Socialist Review. Volume I., 1900-1901. Cloth, $5.00.

The International Socialist Review. Volumes II., III., IV., V., VI. Cloth, each $2.00.

The International Socialist Review is a magazine of 64 pages, published on the 15th of each month. These bound volumes constitute the best obtainable history of the International Socialist movement and of the Socialist thought of the world for the six years ending June, 1906. Only a very few copies of Volume I. are still to be had.

The Recording Angel. By Edwin Arnold Brenholtz. Charles H. Kerr & Co. Cloth, 287 pages, $1.00.

The Voice of Equality. By Edward Arnold Brenholz. Cloth, $1.00.

Towards Democracy. By Edward Carpenter. Extra cloth, gilt top, 507 pages, $2.50.

The Socialization of Humanity. By Charles Kendall Franklin. Cloth, $2.00.

The Sale of an Appetite. By Paul Lafargue, translated by Charles H. Kerr. Cloth, illustrated, 50 cents.

Walt Whitman. The Poet of the Wider Selfhood. By Mila Tupper Maynard. Cloth, 145 pages, $1.00.

Poems of Walt Whitman. Cloth, 75 cents, 341 pages.

Rebels of the New South. A novel. By Walter Marion Raymond. Cloth, $1.00.

Modern Socialism. By Charles H. Vail. Cloth, 75 cents.

The Ancient Lowly: A History of the Ancient Working People, from the Earliest Known Period to the Adoption of Christianity by Constantine. By C. Osborne Ward. Cloth, two large volumes, $4.00. Either volume sold separately at $2.00.

The Equilibration of Human Aptitudes and Powers of Adaptation. By C. Osborne Ward. Cloth, 333 pages, $1.50.

A Labor Catechism of Political Economy. A Study for the People. By C. Osborne Ward. Cloth, 304 pages, $1.00.

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS.
In Cloth Binding.

God and My Neighbor. By Robert Blatchford. Cloth, $1.00, (also published in paper at 50 cents).

Thoughts of a Fool. By Evelyn Gladys. Cloth, $1.00.

Gracia, a Social Tragedy. By Frank Everett Plummer. Cloth, illustrated, gilt top, $1.25.

This price list includes only the cloth-bound books which we carry regularly in stock. A complete catalogue, including our paper-cover books and a special clearance list will be mailed to any address upon request.

We will mail any of our books to any book seller promptly on receipt of the retail price, less 30%. We do not care to open an account for less than $5.00, and dealers desiring to send smaller orders are requested to order from A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.

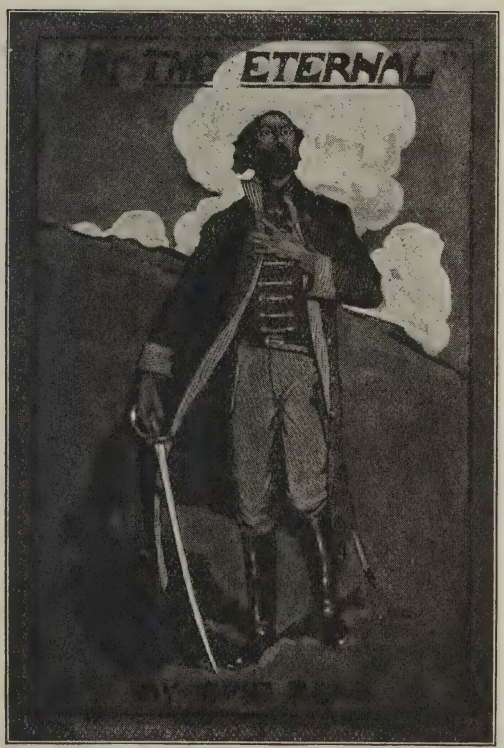
"By the Eternal"

BY OPIE READ

THE GREAT AMERICAN NOVEL



Fac-simile of cover "By the Eternal."
Copyright, 1906, by Wm. H. Lee.

A fascinating page from unwritten history. A silhouette from the hidden past

Far exceeds anything that has yet appeared from the pen of this famous author

IN the foggy days of national life, at the time when American statesmanship was yet in its infancy, there came out of the South whispers of a MODERN JOSHUA, a man intrinsically head and shoulders above his fellows; a hero destined to receive the homage of the nation — the invincible ANDREW JACKSON.

Mr. Read has woven a most fascinating story, that holds the reader entranced from cover to cover, but the figure of Jackson, the man, of "Old Hickory," the soldier, stands out with simple but majestic dignity.

Arabella — the very name reminds one of an old rose garden — Arabella, the widow, who could no more help resorting to feminine wiles than the sun could help shining; Mahone, the Irish philosopher and wit, whose difficult efforts at love-making convulse the reader with merriment; the gentle wife of the sturdy General, Mrs. Jackson, who daily read to her devoted husband from the Holy Word — these are only a few of the characters that play important parts in this splendid drama of life and action.

Staggs, who modestly relates the story — a boy after the General's own heart — plays a most important part, and the series of events which befall him, together with his almost hopeless love for Nettie, the most charming of elves, is after all the real nucleus of the story.

"BY THE ETERNAL" is a book that should find its way into every home and school; a book that will delight every student of history and every lover of fiction; a work that is destined perhaps to be judged as the long-looked for, great American novel — a most intensely interesting story.

Handsomely bound in silk cloth, special cover design in colors, 6 half-tone illustrations and colored frontispiece. About 300 pages, $1.50

NOTE — "BY THE ETERNAL" will not appear in paper covers for at least one year from date o issue. Dealers will make no mistake in ordering few copies of this great book. The demand will be greater than for any of Opie Read's former works. See pages 8-9.

A POWERFUL ENDORSEMENT

For many years I have received from many publishing houses many new books with the request to examine and pronounce on their merits. Recently I have received from Laird & Lee of Chicago, a copy of WEBSTER'S NEW STANDARD DICTIONARY which at once interested me as it was in a field to which I have given much careful attention.

The examination of this book has been a genuine pleasure and a perpetual surprise to find an accumulation of such excellencies. Its superiority to any Common or High School Dictionary that I am familiar with is too apparent to be discussed. It might not be amiss, however, to call special attention to a few such features as the following.

1st—The extensive etymology of words. 2nd.—The use of capital initials in words invariably requiring the Capitals. 3d.—The principal parts of Verbs, the degrees of Adjectives, and the plural of Nouns in the cases of irregulars. 4th.—The full and judicious use of Synonyms. 5th—The unusual extension and elaborate illustrations, embracing many full-page plates of such subjects of art and nature as illustrations especially help one to understand. 6th—The encyclopedic features of this volume deserve special consideration, the very full lists of Musical, Biographical and Geographical terms and names are excellent and just such as a Common School Dictionary should contain. Altogether it seems beyond question the very best School Dictionary that has ever come to my notice. Very respectfully yours, (Signed) P. H. EAGER, Professor of English.

A STORY OF CROSS AND SWORD

The Son of the Swordmaker

BY OPIE READ

From "The Son of the Swordmaker." Copyright, 1905, by Wm. H. Lee

A STRIKING story of the life of a Roman soldier and his stirring adventures among the Gauls, the early Britains, the Franks, and in Palestine, including a vivid picture of life among the Druids, a princess of this race, named Vloden, being the heroine. The cold, hopeless philosophy of the Romans and the revivifying faith of the gentle Nazarene permeate the narrative, holding the reader's attention with a peculiar fascination. As the exciting course of events is followed, the blood is made to stir and the heart to beat with a strange quickening, subsiding only to the peaceful influence of the rejected "King of the Jews," so skillfully and delicately depicted by the author. Several historical characters are brought on the scene — Herod, Pilate, Nicodemus, Barabbas, Joseph of Arimathea, and the centurion who placed the crown of thorns on the Saviour's brow.

The secret thoughts and ambitions, the unbiased observations and reflections of a common soldier of Ceasar's legions, stated with the blunt honesty of a disinterested witness, throws a new light upon the sacred story of the Cross, depicting from the standpoint of a soldier of Rome,

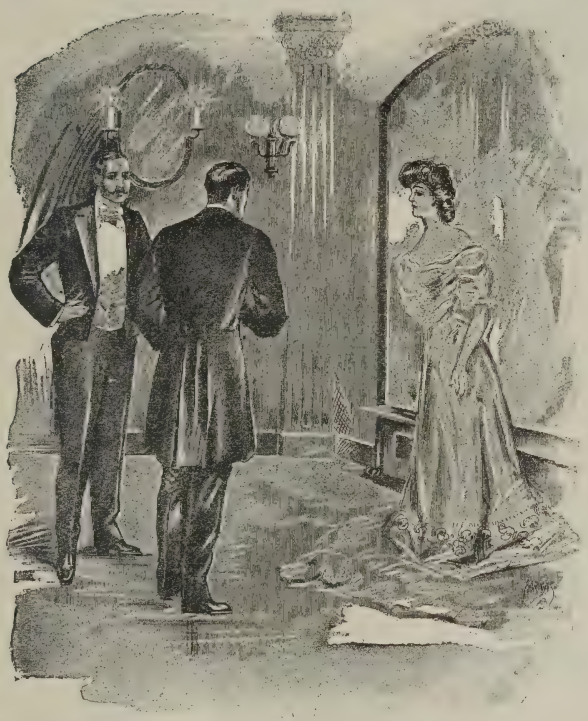
THE DOVERFIELDS' DIAMONDS

BY LAWRENCE L. LYNCH

THE AMERICAN CONAN DOYLE



THE plot is skillfully woven and until the final climax is reached the reader is unable to unwind the threads which entangle so many of the principal characters.

The strange death of Daphne Meyrick, the mysterious career of Ralph Meyrick, her husband, the unsolvable problem in the person of Mrs. Doverfields and her family jewels, and the questionable relations existing between this society queen and the handsome adventuress, Madame Barthelme, form the principal motifs of this exciting and unusual story.

Beautiful, accomplished Ara Doverfields, society's recognized leader and the wife of a millionaire, loses her family jewels — diamonds of fabulous value. After all clues have been carefully weighed and sifted, the evidence is most conclusive that she herself is involved in the disappearance of her own gems.

All motive seems to be absent for such an act — no tangible clues implicate her in the transaction, and yet there is no question but that Mrs. Doverfields knows and is concealing the real facts in connection with their disappearance.

The recovery of the missing gems eventually reveals the secret she has been holding, at the same time disclosing the mysterious history of the unknown Madame Barthelme, and the equally strange disappearance of the long sought for Ralph Meyrick. Intensely fascinating from cover to cover, nearly every chapter revealing a new mystery, the reader's interest is maintained until the end.

Devoid of cheap sensationalism, impossible situations and hair-breadth escapades, the narrative cannot be classed with the average so-called detective story. The author has won an enviable reputation both in this country and abroad as a writer of high-grade detective fiction, and the reader of DOVERFIELDS' DIAMONDS will not be disappointed in this, her masterpiece.

Marryat's Masterpieces of Naval Life and Adventures

THE author has never been surpassed as a writer of tales of NAUTICAL ADVENTURES. His books have been translated into all civilized languages, and are the favorites of German, French, Spanish, Russian, Italian, Dutch and Swedish boys as well as of English and American.

Marryat entered the British navy 1806, and resigned 1830, witnessing and taking active part in more than fifty naval engagements, more or less brilliant, during the first three years of his service. It would be hard to find an officer who had a wider and riper experience in naval warfare than he. Honorable mention was frequently accorded him for behavior in action. He invented a code of signals, and among his fellow-officers he was famous as a caricaturist.

SPANISH MADE EASY

LAIRD & LEE'S VEST-POCKET

Practical Spanish Instructor

(ONE SOUND FOR EACH LETTER)

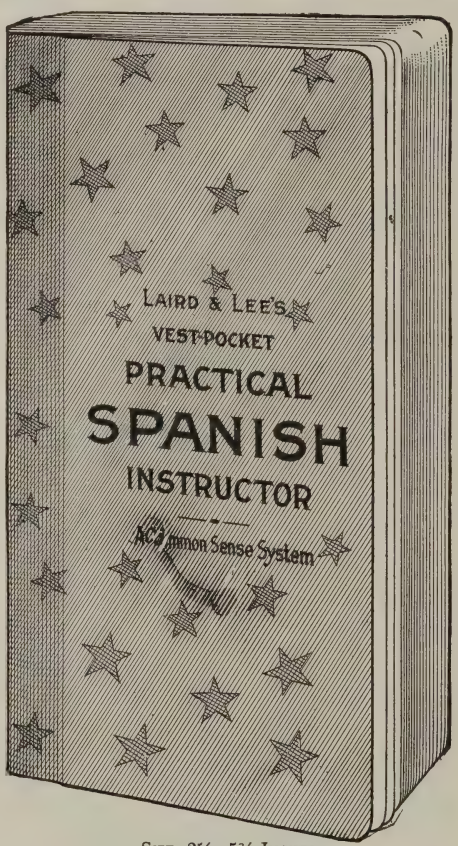
BY F. M. DE RIVAS

A Graduate of the University of Seville (Spain) and St. Edmund's College, London (England).

A unique system by which, after learning the alphabet, the student can pronounce correctly every word in the Spanish language.

A book that positively teaches how to speak Spanish without the aid of a tutor.

It is not a Dictionary, but a common sense system of learning Spanish.



SIZE, 2⅝ x 5⅜ INCHES

A necessity to everybody wishing to take advantage of the development of our modern history.

Invaluable to the business man, the tourist, salesman, merchant, sailor, soldier, and to all interested in the Spanish language.

It spells, pronounces and teaches words and sentences correctly without going into grammatical details.

It contains about 250 pages of instruction in the practical pronunciation and use of the Spanish language, arranged systematically, compactly, and within the understanding of every person, without those irksome or confusing rules of grammar that make the study of any language tedious. Also over 5,000 phrases needed in ordinary conversation on such necessary subjects as EATING, DRINKING, the WEATHER, HEALTH, etc., and answerable with "YES" or "NO," and a list of over 2,000 names of Spanish officials, ships, cities, etc., made prominent by the Spanish-American war, with their correct pronunciations.

A Companion Book for the Salva-Webster Spanish-English English-Spanish Dictionary.

*A Portfolio of Drawings...Illustrating "Salome," by Oscar Wilde. Folio (13½ x 10½ inches). $3.50 net. Postage extra.

The designs of the late Aubrey Beardsley are here reproduced for the first time, the actual size of the originals, viz: 9x6⅜ inches, and are printed upon Japanese vellum. Included among them is a drawing originally done as an illustration to "Salome," but not included in the volume when published. This masterly series of designs is without doubt Beardsley's chef d'oeuvre, and the care which has been taken in the production of the blocks makes prints equal in effect to the originals themselves.

*The Art of Thinking: An Address with Examples. By Mrs. Egerton Eastwick.

This little treatise is not designed to set forth a list of inexorable rules without the practice of which the Art of Thinking is not to be acquired; it is merely intended to suggest, to offer, those rules as aids when they are found practicable and sympathetic. The main object is to think well and effectively.

*Out of the Silence. By James Rhoades.

This poem is an attempt to embody in verse the doctrine of what is misnamed the "New Thought," i. e., that by conscious realization of the indwelling Principles of Life, man may attain to completeness here and now. In obvious opposition to the teaching of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam.

The Count de Cartrie's Memoirs throw some bright side lights upon the war in La Vendée. The circumstances attending his escape through France, after the Revolutionary triumph, are little short of miraculous. At the same time we obtain a glimpse of the cruel policy adopted by the government of the period, and by which many noble families were reduced to a state of abject poverty. The Count fled to Southampton, eventually returning to France in 1800, thanks to Bonaparte.

PROGRESSIVE MEDICINE

A Quarterly Digest of New Methods, Discoveries and Improvements in the Medical and Surgical Sciences.

PROGRESSIVE MEDICINE presents in an original, narrative form a clear statement of the advances made in the practical departments of medicine and surgery during the year, each specialty being dealt with by a single authority whose reputation gives ample assurance of accuracy and completeness. The personal impress of the contributor is placed upon each subject; his narrative presents its data in due and instructive connection, enhancing the readers' interest, and economizing his time, yet giving ample and detailed consideration to all matters which will prove of material value in actual practice. Thus the practical application of the year's advance in improvements, discoveries and methods becomes a portion of the mental equipment of the reader, ready for instant use as emergencies arise.

To secure completeness of material and harmony of statement, each narrative receives the careful supervision of the General Editor, DR. HOBART AMORY HARE, whose reputation will everywhere be acknowledged as ensuring practical utility in a high degree.

Four volumes are issued each year, in March, June, September and December. Each one contains from 300 to 400 octavo pages, abundantly illustrated.

Per annum (4 volumes) in heavy paper covers, $6.00; in cloth binding, $9.00, delivered.

Sets of the issues for 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904 and 1905, can be procured by those who desire a complete file of this most helpful digest. Special price on application.

The Temple Bible

SCHOLARLY AND COMPLETE

THE notable reception which has been accorded this great work, testifies most highly to its superior excellence, as the most complete and scholarly combined commentary upon, and edition of the Sacred Scriptures yet produced.

TWENTY-FIVE VOLUMES

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY THE LORD BISHOP OF RIPON,

AND

SIX ADDITIONAL VOLUMES

CONTAINING APOCRYPHAL BOOKS

The books measure 4 x 5 inches, and are printed in clear type on fine paper, with red letter chapter and verse headings, marginal reference lines, and have illuminated title pages, book-markers, and end papers.

The illustrations consist of frontispieces, beautifully reproduced, of emblematic subjects by the great English artists, and of examples from the work of the old masters. The bindings are of limp green cloth, 40 cents, net, per volume; and limp leather, stamped in gold, 60 cents, net, per volume.

Twenty-five volumes, limp leather, in morocco case, $20.00

The thirty-one volumes, limp leather, in morocco case, $24.60. Write for descriptive circular.

A VALUABLE SERIES OF BIBLE-CLASS BOOKS

Following the notable success achieved by the Temple Bible, we have published

The Temple Series of Bible Characters and Scripture Handbooks

THESE little books are being eagerly welcomed by all Bible teachers, and will be found most valuable aids to all Bible classes. The object is to furnish an accurate and comprehensive handbook for the Sunday-school as well as private study. In general appearance, the volumes are uniform with the Temple Bible.

To be completed in twenty-eight volumes. 4 x 5¼ inches. Cloth binding. Frontispieces. Illuminated title pages. 30 cents, net, per volume. Sample volume sent, post-paid, upon receipt of 30 cents. Descriptive circular mailed on request.

LIPPINCOTT'S NEW GAZETTEER

Edited by ANGELO HEILPRIN and LOUIS HEILPRIN

Has been received with the Highest Praise

ENGLAND

"The most up-to-date work of the kind now on the market. A distinctly valuable work of reference."—Journal of the Royal Geographical Society, London.

"Contains a vast amount of carefully printed information."—The Athenæum, London.

"Surprisingly accurate and up-to-date. It will take rank as one of the most comprehensive, accurate, and generally useful of gazetteers."—The Westminster Gazette, London.

"Professor Heilprin has done his laborious work with exactitude and complete faithfulness, and the Gazetteer is a splendid monument to his industry.

"The substantial merits of the dictionary are beyond question. As a work of reference it should prove invaluable to the busy man whose commercial activities take his thoughts to all quarters of the habitable globe."—The Shipping World, London.

UNITED STATES

"For condensed, accurate and useful information as to the geography, geology, history, commercial condition, etc., of the world, this Gazetteer has no equal."—National Geographic Magazine, Washington.

"The work of the Messrs. Heilprin cannot be too highly praised."—Public Opinion, New York.

"A work of such thorough execution and admirable plan as to leave no room for adverse criticism."—The Dial, Chicago.

"Its treatment of the recently acquired possessions of the United States gives it a distinctive value to Americans such as no other book of its class now has."—Review of Reviews.

"So comprehensive that it might almost be described as an encyclopædia in one volume, and so complete as to include the results of the latest discovery and exploration."—The Living Age, Boston.

WHITE'S GRAMMAR-SCHOOL TEXTS

With English Vocabularies. Edited by JOHN T. WHITE, D.D. (Oxon.). 18mo.

Each text is provided with a vocabulary of the words occurring in it. In every instance—with the exception of Eutropius—the origin of the word, when known, is stated at the commencement of the article treating of it, if connected with another Latin word; at the end of it, if derived from any other source. Further still, the primary or etymological meaning is always given, with inverted commas, in Roman type, and so much also of each word's history as is needful to bring down its chain of meanings to the especial force or forces attaching to it in the particular "Text." The series will be found an inexpensive and handy means of widening the Latin course of any school by a single book or two of Virgil, etc. The volumes are well adapted to sight-reading and private reading by scholars at home.

MESSRS. LONGMANS, GREEN, AND CO. have made arrangements for the publication of a new History of England, in 12 volumes, 8vo (each containing about 500 pages, with Index and two or more maps), which will be known as

THE POLITICAL HISTORY OF ENGLAND.

THIS History is intended to set forth in a readable form the results at present attained by historical research. Seventy-five years have passed since Lingard finished his History of England, which ends with the Revolution of 1688. During that period the study of history has made a great advance. Year after year the mass of materials for a History of England has gone on increasing; new lights have been thrown on events and characters, and old errors have been corrected. Many notable works have been written on various periods; some of them, perhaps, at such length as to appeal almost exclusively to professed historical students. It is believed that the time has come when the advance which has been made in the knowledge of English history as a whole should be laid before the public in a single work of fairly adequate size.

In its scope the new History will primarily be political, though religious matters must necessarily at certain periods have a prominent place, and important social phenomena of all kinds will be noted, especially those which have had a bearing on political events.

The foot-notes will, so far as is possible, be confined to references, and references will not be given in the case of matters of common knowledge. The chief authorities used in each volume, their characters, values, etc., will be discussed in an Appendix to the volume.

Each of the twelve volumes is to be written by a separate Author, but all are to form one book exhibiting unity of design and treatment. In order to secure this unity, Messrs. Longmans have entrusted the editorship of the work to the Rev. William Hunt, D.Litt., of Trinity College, Oxford, President of the Royal Historical Society; and Mr. Reginald L. Poole, Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, and Editor of the "English Historical Review."

The price of each volume will be $2.60 net if sold separately, but Complete Sets may be subscribed for at the price of $28.00 net, payment being made, if preferred, at the rate of $2.34 net, on the delivery of each volume.

THE HISTORY WILL BE DIVIDED AS FOLLOWS:

Vol. I. to 1066. By THOMAS HODGKIN, D.C.L., Litt.D., Fellow of University College, London, Fellow of the British Academy. [Ready.]

Vol. II. 1066 to 1216. By GEORGE BURTON ADAMS, M.A., Professor of History in Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut. [Ready.]

Vol. III. 1216 to 1377. By T. F. TOUT, M.A., Professor of Medieval and Modern History in the Victoria University of Manchester; formerly Fellow of Pembroke College, Oxford. [Ready.]

Vol. IV. 1377 to 1485. By C. OMAN, M.A., Fellow of All Souls' College, and Deputy Professor of Modern History in the University of Oxford. [Nearly ready.]

Vol. V. 1485 to 1547. By H. A. L. FISHER, M.A., Fellow and Tutor of New College, Oxford.

Vol. VI. 1547 to 1603. By A. F. POLLARD, M.A., Professor of Constitutional History in University College, London. [Nearly ready.]

Vol. VII. 1603 to 1660. By F. C. MONTAGUE, M.A., Professor of History in University College, London; formerly Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. [Nearly ready.]

Vol. VIII. 1660 to 1702. By RICHARD LODGE, M.A., Professor of History in the University of Edinburgh; formerly Fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford.

Vol. IX. 1702 to 1760. By I. S. LEADAM, M.A., formerly Fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford.

Vol. X. 1760 to 1801. By the Rev. WILLIAM HUNT, M.A., D.Litt., Trinity College, Oxford. [Ready.]

Vol. XI. 1801 to 1837. By the HON. GEORGE C. BRODRICK, D.C.L., late Warden of Merton College, Oxford, and J. K. FOTHERINGHAM, M.A., Magdalen College, Oxford, etc. [Ready.]

Vol. XII. 1837 to 1901. By SIDNEY J. LOW, M.A., Balliol College, Oxford, formerly Lecturer on History at Kings College, London.

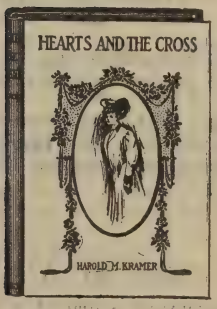
New Books and New Editions

Hearts and the Cross

By HAROLD MORTON KRAMER Illustrated by Harold Matthews Brett $1.50



THE author of this book is another of the Indiana journalists that have contributed so much to recent literature. The story is of a man whose vigorous personality enables him to do justice to himself, and to secure justice for himself under most trying conditions. A mysterious wanderer, he wins the better element of a somewhat rough community by his eloquence as the preacher in a neglected parish, meanwhile working in the fields for his support. His fearless honesty and sympathy provoke deadly hatred, augmented by the jealousy of the lover of the heroine whose interest in the mysterious preacher, so clearly above his present station, adds fuel to the jealous flame. Lawlessness, heroism, and noble self-sacrifice have their part in the development of an intensely dramatic plot, the interest of which is sustained until the mystery is cleared away, and a satisfactory conclusion is reached with exceeding joy to those who deserve it.

The Golden Greyhound

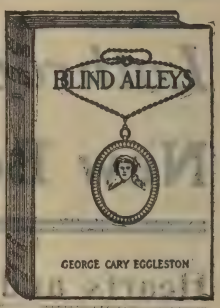
By DWIGHT TILTON Illustrated by Emil Pollak $1.50

HERE is the book that you have been waiting for, a thoroughly good story that will not let you leave it, keeps you guessing to the very end, and never attempts to instruct or reform you. It is a strictly up-to-date story of love and mystery, with wireless telegraphy and all the modern improvements. The events nearly all take place on a big Atlantic liner and the romance of the deep is skilfully made to serve as a setting for the particular romance, old as mankind, yet always new. The powerfully effective cover design and excellent illustrations unite to make a season's favorite.

BY GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON

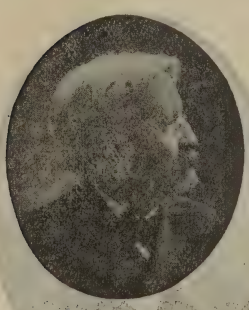
Blind Alleys

Illustrated by E. POLLAK $1.50



IN "Blind Alleys" George Cary Eggleston enters upon a new field of fiction, casts his work in a larger mould than any that he has hitherto used, and gives us altogether the most important novel that he has yet written.

"Blind Alleys" is a novel of New York life—not of Wall street, not of Fifth avenue, and not of the slums, but of the more typical and significant aspects of life in the great city, and of those who constitute its real and not its exceptional population. The book is full of those curious and intricate mysteries of life that abound in a great city, and fuller still of earnest thought and sincere endeavor to discover a way out of the "blind alleys" in which men and women who try to help their fellows are apt to find themselves helplessly groping. There is a sweet and wholesome love story of course. Indeed, there are two of them, and altogether the novel is one of peculiarly fascinating interest.



A Daughter of the South

A War's End Romance

Illustrated by E. POLLAK Decorated cover $1.50

THIS is a romance having a peculiarly interesting setting. It is a love story as sweet and pleasing as the author's popular "Dorothy South."

The action of this story lies in the region of the lower Mississippi river, and the period near the end of the Civil War. Mr. Eggleston has written no story that exceeds this one in all-compelling human interest.

Evelyn Byrd

Four illustrations by Charles Copeland 12mo Cloth $1.50

IN this, the third of Mr. Eggleston's romances of the Civil War, the story is told of a high-minded and courageous Southerner, Kilgariff, who joins the army of Lee. "Dorothy South" and other characters endeared to the readers of Mr. Eggleston's previous novels appear again as the friends and advisers of Kilgariff, who is, himself, the embodiment of Southern daring and chivalry.

Dorothy South A Love Story of Virginia before the War

Illustrated by C. D. Williams 12mo Cloth $1.50

"BALTIMORE SUN" says: "No writer in the score and more of novelists now exploiting the Southern field can, for a moment, compare in truth and interest to Mr. Eggleston."

The Master of Warlock

Six illustrations by C. D. Williams 12mo Cloth $1.50.

"LOUISVILLE COURIER JOURNAL" says: "Like his other stories, this one is ideal in its purity of sentiment, and presents a Southern woman's character, at a trying period, in a beautiful light."

A Carolina Cavalier A Romance of the American Revolution

Illustrated by C. D. Williams 12mo Cloth $1.50

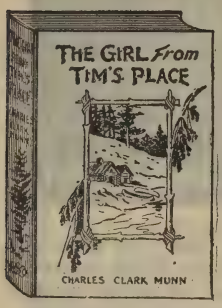
THE Philadelphia Home Advocate says: "As a love story, it is sweet and true; but as a patriotic novel it is grand and inspiring."

By CHARLES CLARK MUNN

The Latest and Best New England Romance

The Girl from Tim's Place

Illustrated by FRANK T. MERRILL $1.50



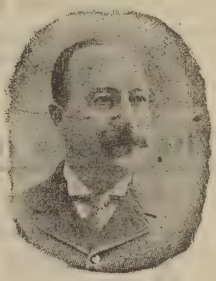
"THE Girl from Tim's Place" is an intensely dramatic story of a girl of striking beauty, nicknamed "Chip" by lumbermen, who dares sixty miles of almost pathless Maine wilderness to escape a fate worse than death. She is saved by a camping party, containing among others "Old Cy Walker," one of the finest woodsmen and country humorists in all fiction. There is also a young man who cannot help falling in love with "Chip" as she rapidly develops into an attractive companion. Meanwhile, pursuit takes place, also a dark tragedy involving "Chip's" father, and leaving her an heiress, although she does not know it until much later, and then only through the devotion of "Old Cy." Then follow complications resulting in flight and a new life for "Chip" as Vera Raymond, beautiful, commanding, and admired. How the links are discovered uniting past and present for the heroine, and also for faithful "Old Cy," forms Mr. Munn's masterpiece.

Figuring in the pages of this story there are several strong characters, typical New England folk, and an especially sturdy one, old Cy Walker, through whose instrumentality Chip comes to happiness and fortune. There is a chain of comedy, tragedy, pathos and love, which makes a dramatic story.—Boston Herald.

The Hermit

A Story of the Wilderness

Illustrated by A. B. SHUTE $1.50



IN this book Mr. Munn goes back to his own familiar ground, close to the heart of Nature. The joy of woods and waters is here; there is much of camp life and wood lore. It is, moreover, a genuine old-fashioned love story of the kind that the public never tires of reading.

Rockhaven

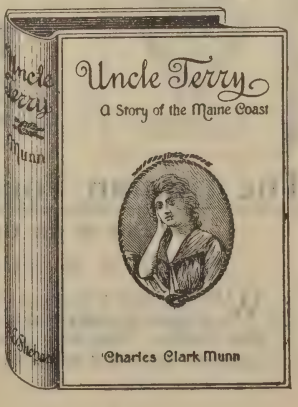
Illustrated by FRANK T. MERRILL $1.50

THIS book has all the "heart interest" of "Uncle Terry" and all its poetic appreciation of nature, while being strong in plot and extended and powerful in its character drawing. In "Jess Hutton" a character is created that will attract and hold both old and young as few characters in American fiction have done.

Uncle Terry

A Story of the Maine Coast

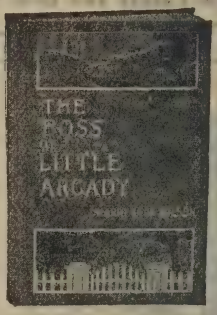
Illustrated $1.50



IN "Uncle Terry" the reader will meet an original Yankee, full of native wit and humor, genial, honest, kind-hearted, a "jack-at-all-trades," respected by all, and full of the milk of human kindness.

BY HARRY LEON WILSON

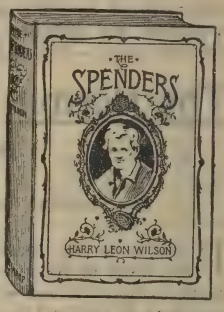
The Boss of Little Arcady



Full-page and text illustrations by ROSE CECIL O'NEILL $1.50

IN this book Mr. Wilson shows the power and charm which made "The Spenders" not only one of the conspicuous successes of its season, but a permanent favorite beyond any other American novel of its year, in even greater measure than in that striking book. No better subject could be found than the country editor of a former generation living in stirring times and in a region where one becomes a leader only by superior natural qualities.

The Spenders



Illustrated by ROSE CECIL O'NEILL $1.50

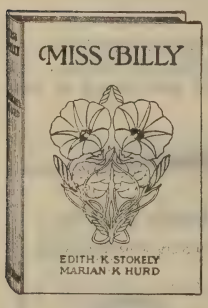
IT is a story of tremendous power and originality, contrasting in a striking manner the rugged strength and nascent vigor of the West with the decadency and sophistication pertaining to certain phases of Eastern life.

The Lions of the Lord

A Story of the Old Salt Lake Trail

Illustrated by ROSE CECIL O'NEILL $1.50

A HISTORICAL romance in which the early conditions in Utah are vividly depicted, and the pathos, tragedy, humor and charm of the settlement of the Salt Lake region by the Mormons are set forth by a writer of genuine power, dealing with a theme hitherto unhandled.



Miss Billy

By EDITH KEELEY STOKELY and MARIAN KENT HURD Illustrated by Charles Copeland $1.50

THOSE who only want a good story, full of rich humor and character study, will find it here, and those who like to see what energy and tact can do in the way of improving streets and homes in those sections most in need of it will be charmed with the story of what one irrepressible young woman accomplished in a neighborhood almost as unpromising as the celebrated "cabbage patch."

The Human Touch

A Tale of the Great Southwest

By EDITH M. NICHOLL Illustrated by Charles Copeland $1.50

WE offer here a novel of uncommon power and strength, as well as heart interest. The scene shifts at an early period from New York to the ranch of the cattle king hero in the wilds of New Mexico. The story is one of affinity of the "human touch" that draws man and woman together wherever it appears in its might, regardless of any obstacles.

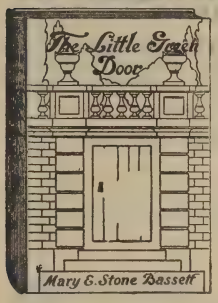
Talitha Cumi

A Story of Freedom Through Christian Science

By ANNIE J. HOLLAND $1.50

THE story is of a fine family, in which are six sisters who are delightful to meet. Through a loving friend's gift of "Science and Health" a wonderful change occurs in one of them, which brings joy to the household. The title will be recognized as appropriately taken from the words of the Saviour in healing the daughter of Jairus.

Mark, v: 41, "And he took the damsel by the hand and said unto her, 'Talitha Cumi' which is, being interpreted, 'Damsel, I say unto thee arise.'"



The Little Green Door

By MARY E. STONE BASSETT Eight illustrations by Louise Clarke and twenty-five decorative half-title pages by Ethel Pearce Clements $1.50

A CHARMING romance of the time of Louis XIII. The door admits to a beautiful retired garden belonging to the Monarch. In it walks a fair maiden, not knowing he is near. He wins her love, she believing him to be a cousin to the King, and her awakening to the truth is depicted with much poetry and power.

Judith's Garden

By MARY E. STONE BASSETT With illustrations in color by George Wright Text printed in two colors throughout, with special ornamentation 8vo Rough edges, gilt top $1.50

AN exquisite, delicious, charming book, as fresh as new-mown hay, as fragrant as the odor from the garden of the gods. It is the story of a garden, a woman, and a man.

A Parish of Two

By HENRY GOELET MCVICKAR and PERCY COLLINS $1.50

THIS story is told by an interchange of letters between an invalid clergyman and his man-of-the-world friend, each author writing the letters of one of the characters.

The Potter and the Clay

By MAUD HOWARD PETERSON Illustrated $1.50

The Captain

By CHURCHILL WILLIAMS Illustrated $1.50

J. Devlin—Boss

By CHURCHILL WILLIAMS Illustrated $1.50

'Tween You an' I

By MAX O'RELL $1.50

THIS volume contains some of the choicest, wittiest, and most searching criticisms of life in general by this celebrated French writer and lecturer.

Gorgo

By CHARLES KELSEY GAINES, Ph. D. Illustrated by Varian $1.50

IT is a story of the extraordinary life of the Athenian, Theramenes, from boyhood to manhood; and in this entirely fresh field no such remarkable piece of fiction has appeared for years.

The Loves of Edwy

By ROSE CECIL O'NEILL With over sixty illustrations by the author $1.50

By FREDERICK UPHAM ADAMS $1.50

Stage Confidences

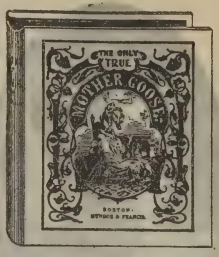
By CLARA MORRIS Illustrated $1.50

A Twentieth Century Boy

By MARGUERITE LINTON GLENTWORTH ("Gladys Dudley Hamilton") Illustrated by Charles Copeland $1.25

THIS book more than fulfils the promise of earlier sketches, and has been pronounced by competent judges fully equal to the "Story of the Bad Boy," which it somewhat resembles. This is a book for all ages; its fun is irresistible and its literary quality superior.

The only True Mother Goose



Being an Exact Reprint of the Original Edition published in Boston in 1833 With Introduction by REV. EDWARD EVERETT HALE 16mo Boards 60 cents

IN 1833 the firm of Munroe & Francis, in Boston, produced what was called "The Only True Mother Goose Melodies without Addition or Abridgement, Embracing also a Reliable Life of the Goose Family." A number of imprint editions of these original jingles with their profusion of quaint, well executed black wood-cuts were produced by different booksellers, and gave enjoyment to thousands of children and their elders. A great many people of advancing age have a distinct recollection of this book, but it has long been out of print, and copies have become very scarce and valuable.

Handbook of United States Political History

By MALCOLM TOWNSEND 8vo Illustrated $1.60 net By mail $1.75

A CAREFULLY compiled and prompt presentation of every important event in the political development of the United States of America, exhibiting the origin, promulgation and completion of the standard national laws, the governing power establishing its government. It is a book for the library table and office desk, a reference volume more often consulted than the dictionary.

Her People and Their Story

By AUGUSTA HALE GIFFORD Emblematic cover Fully illustrated 760 pages 8vo $1.40 net Postpaid $1.55

THIS book, uniform in size and style with Mrs. Gifford's "Germany," also stands alone as a concise story of a most interesting people and country, graphically carried from ancient times to the present day, and prepared especially for the needs of the general public, who have neither the time nor the taste to wade through tedious historical works to find things that all would be glad to know.

Germany

Her People and Their Story

By AUGUSTA HALE GIFFORD Emblematic cover Fully illustrated 593 pages 8vo $1.75

THE first popular story of Germany, especially prepared for American readers, and studied from an American standpoint. In this light the book is unique. It stands alone as the latest and most complete, while yet brief and condensed, story of the German Empire, from its beginnings to its present proud position among the world-leaders.

Concerning Cats

By HELEN M. WINSLOW Profusely illustrated 8vo Portrait cover Gilt top $1.50

THE best book about cats, and the only one treating the domestic pet entertainingly as well as exhaustively. There are chapters on the author's own pet cats as well as those of noted people, historic cats, high-bred cats in England and America, cats of poetry and art, cat hospitals and refuges, kittens and their tricks, characteristics of cats, and an appendix on the diseases of cats and their treatment. It is a superb holiday gift book.

THE FAMOUS PEPPER BOOKS

By MARGARET SIDNEY

Pepper

Trade mark registered in U. S. Patent Office.

Ben Pepper

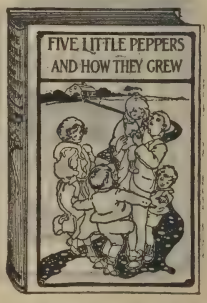
Tenth volume of the famous Pepper Books
Six illustrations by EUGENIE M. WIREMAN
12mo Cloth $1.50

IT was quite impossible that the detailed record presented through the later Pepper Books of the doings and sayings of the "Little Brown House" family should omit Ben. He, the eldest-born of Mother Pepper's brood, and her mainstay after the father died; "the quiet, steady-as-a-rock boy," as the Badgertown people all said, with lots of fun in him, too, for how could he help it, being a Pepper? Surely he was worthy of a book to himself. So all the hosts of readers of the Pepper series thought, and they accordingly besought the author to give Ben a chance to be better known. He was so ready always to efface himself that it was Margaret Sidney's responsibility, after all, to do this for all those who had loved his life in the earlier records.

So Margaret Sidney, despite Ben's wishes, has written this latest volume. To accomplish it Polly and Joel and David and Phronsie have told her most lovingly the facts with which it is strewn. Most of all, Mother Pepper-Fisher contributed to the new book out of a heart full of love and gratitude for her Ben.

Five Little Peppers and How They Grew

A new edition with eight full-page half-tone illustrations by HERMANN HEYER 12mo Cloth $1.50



"CHICAGO INTERIOR" says: "A book of home life and love. It tells the story of a poor family, obliged to pinch and plan and scrimp from day to day, but the members of which are so imbued with the home spirit as to make the little brown house in which they live a genuine paradise."

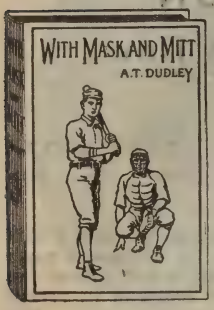
PHILLIPS EXETER SERIES

By A. T. DUDLEY



With Mask and Mitt

Fourth Volume of the "Phillips Exeter Series"

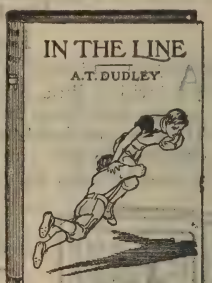
Illustrated by CHARLES COPELAND and by Exeter views $1.25

"WITH MASK AND MITT" continues the subject of baseball, although very much more than merely a baseball story, and finds Phil Poole, the clever young hero of "Making the Nine," a dignified senior and the captain of the first nine. In the search for new players a promising pitcher from among the new students is soon brought into prominence, while the fact is not recognized that he owes much of his success to the quiet and consistent head work of another new student who has come from the same school and has been his catcher. The drifting of the former lad toward the fast set and the unprofitableness of it all furnishes opportunity for the most serious and able study Mr. Dudley has yet given us, while the constant progress of his discouraged but resolute classmate, whose ultimate triumph comes in connection with the thrilling big game that closes the season, is told in a way that makes old boys feel young again. Athletic science, rousing good fun, and wholesome character-building are well combined.

In the Line

Third Volume of the "Phillips Exeter Series"

Illustrated by CHARLES COPELAND $1.25

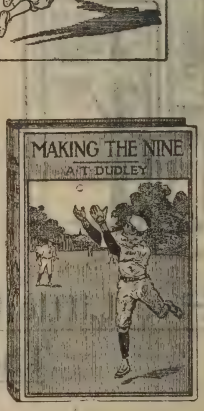


"IN THE LINE" tells how a stalwart young student won his position at guard and at the same time made equally marked progress in the building of character. Plenty of jolly companions contribute a strong, humorous element, and the book has every essential of a favorite.

Making the Nine

Second Volume of the "Phillips Exeter Series"

Illustrated by CHARLES COPELAND, and by Exeter views $1.25



THIS story is lively and worth telling, and the life presented is that of a real school, interesting, diversified, and full of striking incidents, while the characters are true and consistent types of American boyhood and youth. The athletics are technically correct, abounding in healthful suggestions, soundly and wisely given, and the moral tone is high and set by action rather than preaching.

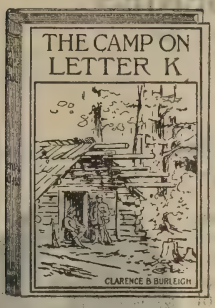
Following the Ball

First Volume of the "Phillips Exeter Series"

Illustrated by CHARLES COPELAND $1.25

HERE is an up-to-date story presenting American boarding-school life and modern athletics. But it is far more than a football book. It is a story of character formation told in a most wholesome and manly way. In this development athletics play an important part, to be sure, but are only one feature in carrying the hero, "Dick Melvin," on to a worthy manhood.

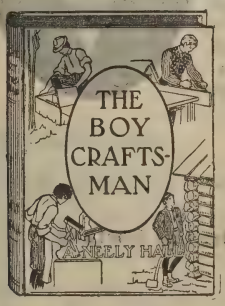
The Camp on Letter K



First volume of "Raymond Benson Series"

By CLARENCE B. BURLEIGH Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman Large 12mo $1.50

THIS book deals with two active boys in Aroostook County close to the north-eastern boundary of our country, and where smuggling across the Canadian line has been prevalent. Equally ready in athletics, hunting, or helping their families on the rich farms of that section, these good chums have many exciting adventures, the most important of which directly concerns the leading smugglers of the district, and an important public service is rendered by the boys. The tone is manly throughout, the fun of the best kind, and the book is distinctly readable for any age.



The Boy Craftsman

Practical and Profitable Ideas for a Boy's Leisure Hours

By A. NEELY HALL Illustrated with many diagrams and working drawings 8vo $2.00

EVERY real boy wishes to design and make things, but the question of materials and tools are often hard to get around. This book is the very best yet offered for its large number of practical and profitable ideas. A number of chapters give suggestions for carrying on a small business that will bring a boy in money with which to buy tools and materials necessary for making apparatus. No work of its class is so completely up-to-date or so worthy in point of thoroughness and avoidance of danger. The idea of economy is everywhere carried out, teaching a valuable lesson and commending the work to parents who will more willingly buy a book that does not suggest a constant future drain on the purse.

The Boy Pathfinder

A Story of the Oregon Trail

Second volume of the "Making of Our Nation Series"

By WILLIAM C. SPRAGUE, Editor of "The American Boy" Illustrated by A. B. Shute $1.50

THIS book has as hero an actual character, George Shannon, a Pennsylvania lad, who at seventeen left school to become one of the Lewis and Clark expedition. He had narrow escapes, but persevered, and the story of his wanderings, interwoven with excellent historical information, makes the highest type of general reading for the young.

The Boy Courier of Napoleon

A Story of the Louisiana Purchase

First volume of the "Making of Our Nation Series"

By WILLIAM C. SPRAGUE Illustrated by A. B. Shute Large 12mo 350 pages $1.50

THE hero is introduced as a French drummer boy in the great battle of Hohenlinden. He serves as a valet to Napoleon, and later is sent with secret messages to the French in San Domingo and in Louisiana. After exciting adventures he accomplishes his mission and is present at the lowering of the Spanish flag, and later at that of the French and the raising of the Stars and Stripes.

EDWARD STRATEMEYER'S WORKS

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE SERIES

By EDWARD STRATEMEYER Illustrated by A. B. SHUTE $1.25 each

Under Togo for Japan

Or Three Young Americans on Land and Sea

Fourth volume of "Soldiers of Fortune Series"

THE "Soldiers of Fortune Series" is a continuation of the famous "Old Glory Series," and enjoys equal popularity. The principal characters are Ben and Larry Russell, Gilbert Pennington, and the fine old gunner, Luke Striker, all of whom are well known to thousands of readers. The climax of the book naturally deals with the Battle of the Sea of Japan and Admiral Togo's wonderful victory, in which Larry and Luke Striker bear an honorable part. The fortunes of Ben and Gilbert Pennington on land also furnish much that is of interest, and there is all of Mr. Stratemeyer's usual wealth of happily conveyed information combined with thrilling incidents.

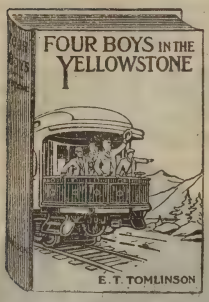
Four Boys in the Yellowstone

How They Went and What They Did

First volume of "Our Own Land Series"

Illustrated by H. C. EDWARDS $1.50



THE excellence of Mr. Tomlinson's books for boys needs no mention. He has fairly outdone all previous work in value, however, in planning a series which shall acquaint our young people with the beauties and wonders of their own country, and he knows well how to do this by giving his characters an uniquely good time while acquiring the knowledge which comes from intelligent travel. Four boy friends, who chance to represent respectively the northern, southern, eastern, and western sections of our country, join in a trip up the Great Lakes to Duluth, where they take a private car furnished by the father of one of them and go on to the world-famous Yellowstone Park, in which they have an abundance of adventure and enjoyment. The book opens an entirely new field in juvenile literature and will be welcomed accordingly. The spirited illustrations by Mr. Edwards are worthy of special mention.

Jack Shelby

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON Illustrated by G. W. Picknell $1.50

INTO this book Mr. Eggleston has put much of his own early life and that of his gifted brother, Edward Eggleston, and used entertainingly the knowledge and experience thus acquired. The scene is laid in Clifty County, Ind., around 1840, and the experiences of four brothers, who take it upon themselves to establish a new home to which they may take their widowed mother and their sisters, give a picture of pioneer life more faithful than any to be obtained from historical work, while an exciting plot is furnished by the successful efforts of the eldest brother, Jack Shelby, to rid that section of a gang of thieves. Boys will never tire reading these exciting stories of the good old times, especially when told by such a writer as Mr. Eggleston.

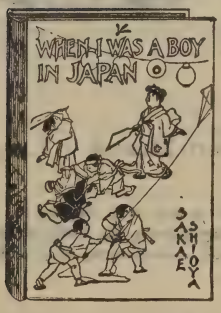
CHILDREN OF OTHER LANDS SERIES



When I Was a Boy in Japan

By SAKAE SHIOYA Illustrated from photographs 12mo $.75

THE author was born fifty miles from Tokio, and at the age of twelve began the study of English at a Methodist school. Later he studied Natural Science in the First Imperial College at Tokio, after which he taught English and Mathematics. He came to America in 1901, received the degree of Master of Arts at the University of Chicago, and took a two years' post-graduate course at Yale before returning to Japan. No one could be better qualified to introduce the Japanese to those in America, and he has done it in a way that will delight both children and parents.

When I Was a Girl in Italy

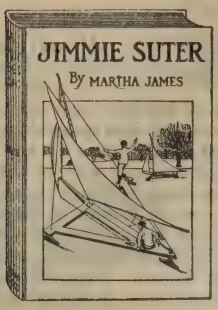
By MARIETTA AMBROSI 12mo Illustrated Price $.75

THE author, Marietta Ambrosi, was born in Tyrol, having an American-born mother of Italian descent, and a Veronese father. Her entire girlhood was spent in Brescia and other cities of Northern Italy, and in early womanhood she came with her family to America. Her story gives a most graphic account of the industries, social customs, dress, pleasures, and religious observances of the Italian common people, those who truly represent the life of a country.

When I Was a Boy in China

By YAN PHOU LEE 12mo Illustrated $.75

"NEW YORK Independent" says: "Yan Phou Lee was one of the young men sent to this country to be educated here, and finally matriculated at Yale, where he graduated with honor. 'When I was a Boy in China' embodies his recollections of his native country. The peculiar merit of the book is that it is the only publication of the kind in which the work is done by a native hand."



Jimmie Suter

First volume "Pigeon Camp Series"

By MARTHA JAMES Illustrated by G. W. Picknell Large 12mo $1.25

JIMMIE SUTER is a sturdy, active, honest boy, whose father and mother are very worthy people in moderate circumstances. What Jimmie lacks in pocket money, however, he more than makes up in mechanical ingenuity and other good qualities, and his best boy friend is the son of a rich man, but not spoiled by the fact. They have royal times making and sailing an ice-boat and doing many other things, and best of all they organize the "S. F. B.," or Society for Feeding Birds, which spreads far and wide and is productive of most enjoyable acquaintances besides doing good service in the cause for which it was intended. Deeds of kindness to a queer old neighbor bring an unexpected reward, and the happy, wholesome book closes in a thoroughly satisfactory way.

Jack Tenfield's Star

A Story for Boys

By MARTHA JAMES Illustrated by Charles Copeland Large 12mo $1.00

JACK TENFIELD is a bright Boston boy, who, while preparing for college, is brought to face the fact that his father, a benevolent physician, and supposed to be well-to-do, had really left no estate. Jack resolutely defends his father's memory, and makes the best of it. Circumstances bring much travel and many adventures, in all of which his generous, manly character rings true.

Tom Winstone, "Wide Awake"

By MARTHA JAMES Illustrated by W. Herbert Dunton Large 12mo $1.00

IN "Tom Winstone" we have a young hero whose story is told in a way well worthy to be compared with the work of J. T. Trowbridge. The sterling quality shown in "My Friend Jim" is all here, and "Tom," an older boy, equally efficient in baseball, a foot-race, or a noble action, is well worth knowing.

My Friend Jim

A Story of Real Boys and For Them

By MARTHA JAMES Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill Large 12mo $1.00

JUST the book to place in the hands of bright, active boys, and one that the most careful parents will be glad to use for that purpose. The loyal friendship springing up between Jim, the son of a mechanic, and a wealthy man's son who is at Sunnyside farm for his health, has made the basis for some of the cleanest, brightest, and most helpful descriptions of boy life that we have ever read. The fun is rich, and at the same time kindness to animals, manliness, and honor are taught in the truest way.

By KIRK MUNROE Illustrated 12mo Cloth $1.25

THE story of a Southern boy who leaves home under enforced conditions, but who, though often in danger, proves himself bright, handy, apt and healthful.

On Special Assignment

By SAMUEL TRAVERS CLOVER Four illustrations by H. G. Laskey 12mo Cloth $1.25

THIS is a capital story of journalistic life, in which Paul Travers, the hero of Mr. Clover's former clever story, has some striking experiences in different parts of the far West, in connection with his work as special correspondent.

Paul Travers' Adventures

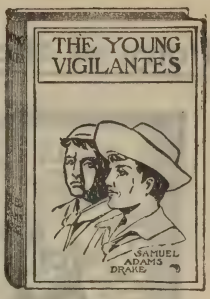
By SAMUEL TRAVERS CLOVER Illustrated by C. Chase Emerson 12mo Cloth $1.25

THIS absorbing story of the mishaps, privations, and experiences of a wide-awake Western newspaper boy on a journey around the world, told by a well-known Chicago editor.

The Young Vigilantes

A Story of California Life in the Fifties

By SAMUEL ADAMS DRAKE Author of "Watch Fires of '76" Illustrated by L. J. BRIDGMAN Price $1.25



FEW men now remain who can describe the "Forty-Niners" from personal knowledge and experience, and the very best one of them is the noted historical writer, Col. Drake. One of two young chums in Boston yields to the excitement of the day and goes to California, partly at his friend's expense. Later, the hero of the story is driven by injustice to join the fevered throng of gold-seekers, and also makes his way thither via the route across Nicaragua, befriended by an old sailor. A reunion and exciting experiences in San Francisco follow.

Joe's Signal Code

By W. REIFF HESSER Illustrated by FRANK T. MERRILL $1.25

THIS book tells of the abandoning of a fine ship with its cargo in the Pacific Ocean. The leading characters, who are to leave in the last boat, had their escape cut off by its destruction, but succeed in saving the ship and lead a most interesting life for more than a year on a hitherto unknown island.

THE DEER LODGE SERIES

By W. GORDON PARKER 3 vols. Illustrated Price per vol. $1.25

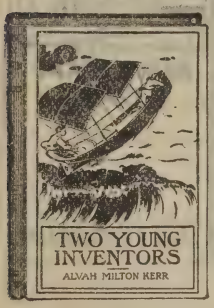
Grant Burton the Runaway or The Mishaps of a School-boy
Rival Boy Sportsmen or The Mink Lake Regatta



Two Young Inventors

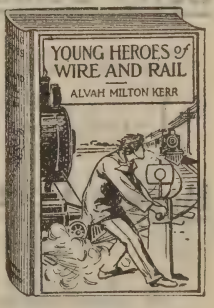
The Story of the Flying Boat

By ALVAH MILTON KERR Illustrated $1.25

HERE is a rattling good story; a tale of mystery, mechanism, and getting on in the world that will be a boy's favorite for years. Two youths, both born inventors, make each other's acquaintance as a result of misfortunes attending a Minnesota cyclone. Their efforts to perfect a flying-boat that shall not only skim the water, but rise into the air, result in the securing of a mechanical education. Mr. Kerr has solved the problem of a book that shall be intensely exciting and yet thoroughly wholesome.

Young Heroes of Wire and Rail

By ALVAH MILTON KERR Illustrated
12mo Cloth $1.25



THE place which the sea once held in supplying thrilling tales of heroism and peril is now being largely usurped by that powerful agent of progress, the railway service, and with no lessening of interest. It is also very attractive to know how those who bear the vast responsibilities of this service perform their work and meet the fearful emergencies that may arise at any time.

BRAVE HEART SERIES

Polly of the Pines

A Patriot Girl of the Carolinas

Fourth volume of "Brave Heart Series"

By ADELE E. THOMPSON Illustrated by Henry Roth $1.25

"POLLY OF THE PINES" was Mary Dunning, a brave girl of the Carolinas, and the events of the story occur in the years 1775–82. Polly was an orphan living with her mother's family, who were Scotch Highlanders, and for the most part intensely loyal to the Crown. Polly finds the glamor of royal adherence hard to resist, but her heart turns towards friends who are patriots and she welcomes a home with her uncle who is devoted to the cause of the Colonies, and does much to aid and encourage those in the field. In the end the principal characters find much happiness in spite of hardships and great losses.

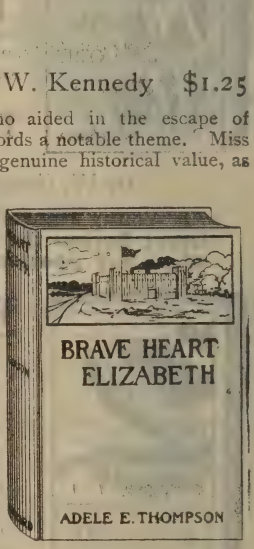
A Lassie of the Isles

Third volume of the "Brave Heart Series"

By ADELE E. THOMPSON Illustrated by J. W. Kennedy $1.25

THE romantic story of Flora Macdonald, the lassie of Skye, who aided in the escape of Charles Stuart, otherwise known as the "Young Pretender," affords a notable theme. Miss Thompson has made the most of her material and gives a book of genuine historical value, as well as of great interest. Mr. Kennedy has effectively handled some striking scenes for illustration.

Brave Heart Elizabeth



A Story of the Ohio Frontier

Second volume of the "Brave Heart Series"

By ADELE E. THOMPSON Illustrated by Lillian Crawford True $1.25

THIS is a book for older girls, and in strength ranks with the best fiction of the year. It is a story of the making of the Ohio frontier, much of it taken from life, and the heroine one of the famous Zane family, after which Zanesville, O., takes its name.

Betty Seldon, Patriot

First volume of the "Brave Heart Series"

By ADELE E. THOMPSON Illustrated by Lillian Crawford True $1.25

IT is a great deal to say of a book that it is at the same time fascinating and noble. This is what "Betty Seldon, Patriot" is. Historical events are accurately traced leading up to the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, with reunion and happiness for all who deserve it.

Beck's Fortune

A Story of School and Seminary Life

By ADELE E. THOMPSON Illustrated by Louis Meynell $1.25

THE account of Beck's narrow and cheerless early life, her sprightly independence, and unexpected competency that aids her to progress through the medium of seminary life to noble womanhood, is one that mothers can commend to their daughters unreservedly.

Little Miss Rosamond

By NINA RHOADES Illustrated by Bertha G. Davidson 12mo Cloth $1.00

ROSAMOND is found in Richmond, Va., with her good big brother. The latter, however, cannot give her all the comfort that she needs in the trying hot weather, and she goes to the seaside cottage of an uncle whose home is in New York. Here it is her good fortune to find herself a neighbor to Gladys and Joy, so well known in a previous book, "The Little Girl Next Door," and after some complications are straightened out, bringing Rosamond's honesty and kindness of heart into prominence, all are made very happy by many nice things that seem to happen at the same time.

How Barbara Kept Her Promise

By NINA RHOADES Illustrated $1.00

TWO orphan sisters, Barbara, aged twelve, and little Hazel, who is "only eight," are sent from their early home in London to their mother's family in New York. Faithful Barbara has promised her father that she will take care of pretty, petted, mischievous Hazel, and how she tries to do this, even in the face of great difficulties, forms the story which has the happy ending which Miss Rhoades wisely gives to all her stories.

The Children on the Top Floor

By NINA RHOADES Illustrated $1.00

IN this book little Winifred Hamilton, the child heroine of "Winifred's Neighbors," reappears, living in the second of the four stories of a New York apartment-house. On the top floor are two very interesting children, Betty, a little older than Winifred, who is now ten, and Jack, a brave little cripple, who is a year younger. In the end comes a glad reunion, and also other good fortune for crippled Jack, and Winifred's kind little heart has once more indirectly caused great happiness to many others.

Winifred's Neighbors

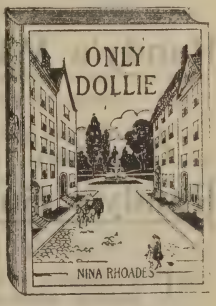
By NINA RHOADES Illustrated $1.00

LITTLE Winifred's efforts to find some children of whom she reads in a book lead to the acquaintance of a neighbor of the same name, and this acquaintance proves of the greatest importance to Winifred's own family.

The Little Girl Next Door

By NINA RHOADES Illustrated $1.00

A DELIGHTFUL story of true and genuine friendship between an impulsive little girl in a fine New York home and a little blind girl in an apartment next door. The little girl's determination to cultivate the acquaintance triumphs over the barriers of caste, and the little blind girl proves to be in every way a worthy companion.



Only Dollie

By NINA RHOADES Illustrated $1.00

THIS is a brightly written story of a girl of twelve, who when the mystery of her birth is solved, like Cinderella passes from drudgery to better circumstances.

THE RANDY BOOKS

Each finely illustrated by the author

Randy's Loyalty

Seventh volume of the "Randy Books" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

LOYALTY to her family leads Randy to give up a most alluring invitation to visit the best loved of her many friends in the city, in order that she may for a time take the place of her aunt as mistress of her neglected farm, and loyalty to her friends finds exercise in tactfully restraining the envious spirits of those who are rivals for her favor. Her devotion to her little sister, Prue, is touchingly brought out. With it all, there are many good times, and the quaint country neighbors are, if possible, more amusing than ever.

Randy's Luck

Sixth volume of the "Randy Books" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

RANDY'S power for winning and holding friends is so marked that some envious companions in the country village where her home is say that it is simply Randy's "luck" that so many are fond of her. Other fairer-minded ones, who know her well, refuse to take this view, and the course of the story proves that what some call luck is nothing else than Randy's unselfish and lovable nature, with her tactful and ready service to others.

Randy's Good Times

Fifth volume of the "Randy Books" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

RANDY is the same loving and lovable girl that she was when first seen in "Randy's Summer." Now at eighteen she is ready to enjoy to the full all the pleasures which are offered, equally eager to give pleasure to others, and dearly loved in her native village.

Randy and Prue

Fourth volume of the "Randy Books" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

RANDY, after enjoying her school life at the city, devotedly assumes the care of housekeeping in order that her wearied mother may regain her health. Curly-headed little Prue is as cute as ever, and becomes a little heroine through her resolute loyalty.

Randy and Her Friends

Third volume of the "Randy Books" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

THIS tells of both Randy herself, now almost grown up, and little Prue, now aged six, and as ready as ever with most unexpected sayings and doings, and both the big and little girls will be equally interested. The rural residents, Timotheus Simpkins and all, are as amusing as ever.

Randy's Winter

Second volume of the "Randy Books" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

A thoroughly good story for girls, in which neither bad children nor slang are considered necessary.

Randy's Summer

First volume of the "Randy Books" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

"IT is refreshing to turn from juvenile war books and startling stories with sensational plots to a pleasing, wholesome tale of genuine girl life, especially if the book be an exceptionally pretty one, as 'Randy's Summer' certainly is."—Commercial Bulletin, Boston.

DOROTHY DAINTY SERIES

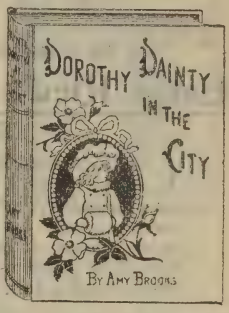
Dorothy Dainty in the City



Fifth volume of "Dorothy Dainty Series" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

DOROTHY'S parents, with her well-loved governess, "Aunt Charlotte" Grayson, and her devoted little friend, Nancy Ferris, take up their home in the city for the winter. Acquaintances of the previous summer welcome them, and their favorite little friends from Merrivale visit them, and all have delightful times. The scheming uncle of Nancy, however, has not ceased his attempts to get her into his possession, and his temporary success in so doing and Nancy's bravery throughout all form a thrilling and touching part of the story.

Dorothy Dainty at the Shore

Fourth volume of "Dorothy Dainty Series" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

DOROTHY and Nancy spend many happy days at the beach and in September live over their summer pleasures while looking forward to all that the winter promises. This book will be a delight to all who read it.

Dorothy Dainty at School

Third volume of "Dorothy Dainty Series" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

DOROTHY and her playmates have reached an age when they should go to school, and as no public school is near, a private class is organized. The school life proves very entertaining, and mostly very pleasant.

Dorothy's Playmates

Second volume of the "Dorothy Dainty Series" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

DOROTHY and her little friends, Mollie and Flossie, belong to the best families in every sense of the word, and kindness and good breeding are so natural to them and bring so much happiness that opposite qualities seem odious by contrast.

Dorothy Dainty

First volume of the "Dorothy Dainty Series" By AMY BROOKS $1.00

HERE is a literary masterpiece for younger readers by one who knows them sympathetically. The atmosphere of good breeding, so evident throughout the book, without being obtrusive, makes it especially desirable.

A Jolly Cat Tale

By AMY BROOKS $1.00

THIS fanciful account of an enterprising cat family has been such a favorite that we present it in an entirely new and revised edition set in "great primer" type. In its present form it is without a peer as a book to please and interest little readers, and those who still need to have older ones read to them.

THE "PANSY" BOOKS

Ester Ried's Namesake

Illustrated by ERNEST FOSBERRY $1.50

THE Ester Ried Books are well known as among the most popular of the very large number of Pansy Books. The namesake of Ester Ried is the bright and talented daughter of a western home missionary, for whom circumstances make possible a college course. Her wit and accomplishments make her a natural leader, and many questions of conduct and character arise calling for the exercise of both principle and tact. How the brave and sensible but impulsive girl meets the various problems forms this helpful story, which is so brightly written as to hold the reader's interest at all points.

David Ransom's Watch

Illustrated by ERNEST FOSBERRY $1.50

THIS volume deals with human character and human nature in a way to deeply interest the reader. It is a story of love and purity, where the better affections are set toward the richer things of life, and will be enjoyed by all the author's youthful admirers, as well as those who have not altogether put their youth behind them.

Doris Farrand's Vocation

Illustrated by ERNEST FOSBERRY $1.50

"DORIS" is a college girl who tries to be of use to others, and with this aim in view introduces into her family, as student help, a poor young man who is working his way to a higher education. Despite external crudities, he proves himself worthier than Doris's accepted lover. In the end Doris's protégé helps her to make the right decision in a great moral crisis, and she finds that he, and not her worldly minded fiancé, is her true affinity.

Mara

Illustrated $1.50

MARA is the narrative of four girls, schoolmates at an old-fashioned boarding-school, and also deals with their later life experiences in various parts of the country and especially of their fortunes in love.

Pauline

Illustrated by ELIZABETH SHIPPEN GREEN $1.50

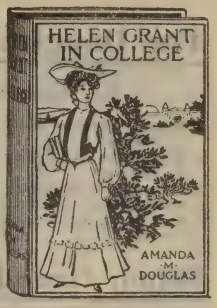
A ROMANCE of to-day; full of strong situations, complications, and deep thought. It is absorbing, often dramatic, and yet imbued with those religious and moral elements that underlie all of Mrs. Alden's work.

Mag and Margaret

Illustrated by C. CHASE EMERSON $1.50

A BOOK for girls written in Pansy's inimitable manner when telling a strong and helpful story for children. Mag is a lovable character; and Margaret becomes so in time, but only through stern experience.

Helen Grant in College



Fourth volume of "Helen Grant Series" By AMANDA M. DOUGLAS Illustrated $1.25

When Grandmamma was Fourteen

By MARION HARLAND Illustrated $1.25

THROUGH the eyes of fourteen year old Mollie Burwell, the reader sees much that is quaint, amusing and pathetic in ante-bellum Richmond, and the story has all the charm of manner and rich humanity which are characteristic of Marion Harland. All healthy-hearted children will delight in the story, and so will their parents.

When Grandmamma was New

By MARION HARLAND Illustrated $1.25

A DELIGHTFUL autobiographical story of a little Virginian long "before the war." This book has a perpetual charm for old and young, North as well as South.

Joy Bells

A Story of Quinnebasset

By SOPHIE MAY Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill $1.25

ALL the delightful wit of the author is here and at its best, and "Persis," the heroine, is very near to being the most charming of all her gifted creations.

Pauline Wyman

By SOPHIE MAY Illustrated $1.25

"SOPHIE MAY" writes with a remarkable insight into the thought and life of girls, and shows an unaffected sympathy in their perplexities, aspirations, and disappointments.

The Girl Who Kept Up

By MARY MCCRAE CULTER Illustrated $1.25

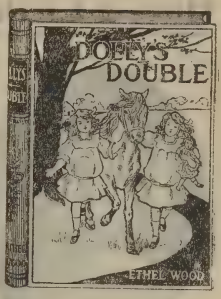
A STRONG and wholesome story of achievement. It tells how a girl high-school graduate determines to and does keep up with her boy friend and rival who enjoys a college course which she is denied.

Madge a Girl in Earnest

By S. JENNIE SMITH Illustrated by James E. McBurney $1.25

MADGE scorns the patronage of an aristocratic relative, and successfully takes upon her strong young shoulders the problem of carrying along the family in an independent manner.

Dolly's Double



By ETHEL WOOD Illustrated 12mo Cloth $1.00

IN this charming little book, two girls, Dolly and Isabelle, have such striking resemblance that they can hardly be told apart. They are not supposed to be related, but they live together, and later, by the clearing up of a mystery, it appears that they are really sisters. They have lots of pleasant times and doings at the seaside, and the children will enjoy the naturalness and vivacity of the tale.

Cordelia's Pathway Out

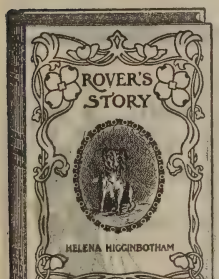
By EDNA A. FOSTER, Editor of Children's Page in the "Youth's Companion" Illustrated by Clara E. Atwood $1.00

IN "Cordelia's Pathway Out" the writer has carried along the brilliant little Hortense and many of the characters of that story, but has brought into prominence the quiet Cordelia, whose admiration and love for Hortense act as an incentive to study and cultivate a desire for growth. Early in the story she is transplanted from the village in which we first find her, and comes into larger living and the bestowal of modest "advantages." She is a shy country-bred child, but she observes, imitates, and applies the best to her own life and the exercise of loving and homely qualities brings her to a desirable plane. The writer convincingly shows that earnestness, will-power, and tenacity of purpose may be as potent as brilliancy with its manifold temptations.

Hortense

By EDNA A. FOSTER Illustrated by MARY AYER $1.00

MISS FOSTER has here a book of unusual excellence, whether viewed as a tale of entertainment for a child's reading or a valuable and suggestive study for the education of those who have to do with children. The impulsive little Hortense wins the reader's sympathy at once, and the experiences of the well-meaning young lady relative who attempts to train her up according to set rules for well-regulated children are very interesting.



Rover's Story

The Autobiography of a Dog

By HELENA HIGGINBOTHAM Illustrated by the author and from photographs Large 12mo Cloth with decorated cover $1.00

ROVER, a real dog, by the way, is made to tell his own story most entertainingly. The book has more than entertainment, however, it is one which should be read by every one having to do with dogs or cats, for the sake of the better understanding of these pets that will come from such reading.

Two Little Street Singers

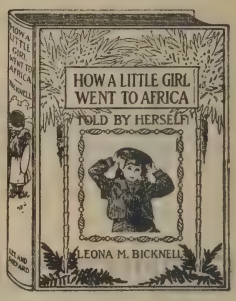
By NORA A. M. ROE (Mrs. Alfred S. Roe) Cloth Illustrated by BERTHA G. DAVIDSON $1.00

WE have no sweeter or more attractive story than this, of two waifs, a mystery, and a happy conclusion. Mrs. Roe is equally happy in treating city and country life, her character sketches of the latter, which are woven into the story, being well worthy of a Rose Terry Cooke.

How a Little Girl Went to Africa

Told by Herself

By LEONA MILDRED BICKNELL Fully illustrated from photographs $1.00



CHILDREN have hitherto had to be content with such books as grown-up people wrote for them, but now a bright little girl of unusual opportunities in the way of travel has, at the age of ten, written a book to tell other children of a journey of remarkable interest. She accompanied her father and mother, who went to do missionary work among the Zulus in South Africa, and the breaking out of the Boer War added not only excitement, but danger to her interesting experiences. In simple style the little author tells with remarkable descriptive power of the Atlantic voyage, the sights in London, the longer voyage to Cape Town, the residence and travels among strange and singular peoples, and the return. So well is the work done that a noted author of geographies has recommended the work for all school libraries. Old and young will delight in this book, the value of which is increased by the excellent illustrations.

An Honor Girl

By EVELYN RAYMOND Illustrated by Bertha G. Davidson 12mo Cloth $1.25

A BRIGHT helpful story of a girl who, as the valedictorian and "honor girl" of her class at high school, wins the scholarship which would take her through Wellesly College. Family reverses bring it home to her that duty demands that she devote herself to helping her parents and wayward brother to face the future better than they seem likely to. She heroically surrenders her prize, with its glowing prospects, to a jealous rival, and all her family become better, happier, and more to each other than had selfishness not been so well met and overcome by "An Honor Girl." The story has the merit of being as clever and lively as it is wholesome.

A Girl of This Century

By MARY G. DARLING Author of "We Four Girls" Illustrated by Lillian Crawford True $1.25

"WE FOUR GIRLS" at once took its place among the very best books for older girls, and has been in continual demand since its publication. The same characters are retained in this story, the interest centring around "Marjorie," the natural leader of the four. She has a brilliant course at Radcliffe, and then comes the world. A romance, long resisted, but worthy in nature and of happy termination, crowns this singularly well-drawn life of the noblest of all princesses — a true American girl.

We Four Girls

By MARY G. DARLING Illustrated by Bertha G. Davidson $1.25

A BRIGHT story of a summer vacation in the country, where these girls were sent for study and recreation. They thought it the most delightful summer they ever passed. Every girl reader will wish that she could have as beautiful a vacation, and any mother may be happy to place such a book in her daughter's hands.

My Little Lady in Waiting

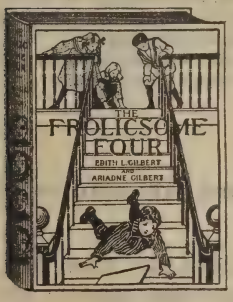
By LOUISE E. CATLIN Author of "Marjory and Her Neighbors" Illustrated by E. POLLAK $1.25

EVERY element of a fascinating story for children is present in this book. A little girl, Nellie Ross, is left quite alone in the world in the tenement house district of New York. The first gleam of better things comes into her life in the form of a "Vacation School," where a kind lady very sensibly teaches practical housekeeping. Little Nellie's skill and general air of refinement win a home for her after the family who have been caring for her have gone from New York. Nellie has some trying times with the spoiled children of her benefactors, but a wonderful change comes during a trip abroad. On a public occasion Nellie saves from injury on the thronged streets of a German city another little girl who proves to be a princess. The noble family are so pleased with the little American girl that she is introduced into the splendor of court life and, greatly to the surprise of the family whose dependent she has been, is offered a new home, and, like Cinderella, springs from a patient drudge to high honors.

The Making of Meenie

By EDITH L. GILBERT Author of "The Frolicsome Four" Large 12mo Illustrated by MARGARET GODDARD $1.00

"THE Frolicsome Four" won immediate favor by its bright naturalness. The same entertaining family of two brothers and two sisters appear in this book, although the interest centres about "Meenie," a waif. A noble dog that figures prominently in the story, by tact and kindness works a transformation in Meenie. The humor is excellent, and the character-drawings show unusual knowledge of children and how to attract and entertain them.



The Frolicsome Four

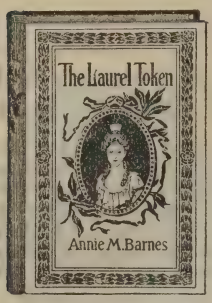
By EDITH L. and ARIADNE GILBERT Illustrated by JOSEPHINE BRUCE Large 12mo $1.00

THE story of two brothers and two sisters who are as noble in character as they are enthusiastic in play. The authors have drawn wholesome child life with remarkable effect, and this book will win a conspicuous place for that reason. Every one will be interested in the fine scholarship of Larry, the jolly spirits of Gwen, and the tenderness of little Polly. And when finally Billy, well-meaning and awkward Billy, actually wins a prize in a most unexpected way, the charm of the story is complete.

The Taming of Betty

By CALLY RYLAND Illustrated by G. W. PICKNELL Large 12mo $1.00

BETTY is a high-spirited Virginian girl of twelve, as bright as can be, but a thorough romp, and, being thought old enough to leave the care of the governess and attend a regular school, so rebels at the idea as to make her autocratic father send her to a boarding-school far away from her home in Richmond. The change is very hard for Betty, and her ingenuity in devising mischief, in the hope that she may be sent home to her beloved "Grandmamma," is irresistibly amusing.



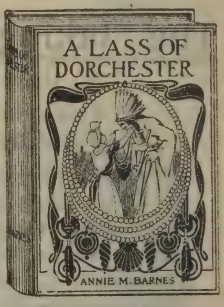
The Laurel Token

A Story of the Yamassee Uprising

By ANNIE M. BARNES Author of "Little Betty Blew," "A Lass of Dorchester" Illustrated by G. W. PICKNELL 12mo Cloth with gold and colors $1.25

THIS is a story for young people of either sex, for, although the leading character is a girl of eighteen, her cousins, two boys of sixteen and fourteen respectively, are prominent throughout the story. The story centres about a beautiful girl, left an orphan, as is supposed, in Barbadoes, who goes to live with her uncle, a leading man in the flourishing "Goose Creek" colony, in the year of the Indian uprising, 1714. The very real danger from the red men, who have been regarded as friendly, but have been the victims of selfishness, and thus made ready tools for the crafty Spanish having their headquarters at St. Augustine, forms the background to the story, and gives opportunity for the surprising developments which occur respecting the heroine and others.

A Lass of Dorchester



By ANNIE M. BARNES Author of "Little Betty Blew," "The Laurel Token" Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill Large 12mo Cloth $1.25

THE place and time of this excellent historical story are the Province of Carolina and the year 1702. The "Lass" is "Miss Elizabeth Blew" of a former book, now grown up and just returned from Boston, where she has been to finish her education. Her father is Indian agent for the government, and a man of thorough kindness and integrity. A mean rival tries desperately to supplant him in his position, stopping at nothing in the way of ruining business and alienating friends. Worst of all, the integrity of Betty's father is questioned. Stirring events, bringing in many quaint and peculiar customs, lead up to the climax, in which an attack is made upon the church by unfriendly Indians. Betty proves herself a heroine by her thrilling ride for timely help, and the unexpected finding of means whereby to prove her father's honor makes a dramatic and happy conclusion.

Little Betty Blew

Her Strange Experience and Adventures in Indian Land

By ANNIE M. BARNES Illustrated by FRANK T. MERRILL 12mo Cloth with gold and colors 300 pages Price $1.25

ONE of the very best books with which to satisfy a young reader's natural desire for an "Indian story" is this one of little Betty Blew, and what she saw and experienced when her family removed from Dorchester, Mass., two hundred years ago, to their home on the Ashley river, above Charleston, South Carolina. Although Betty is but a small maid, she is so wise and true that she charms all, and there are a number of characters who will interest boys as well as girls, and old as well as young.

The Scarlet Patch

The Story of a Patriot Boy in the Mohawk Valley

By MARY E. Q. BRUSH Author of "Paul and Persis" Illustrated by GEORGE W. PICKNELL $1.25

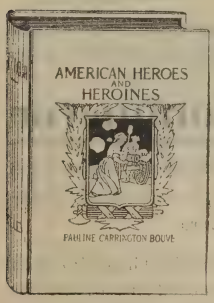
THERE are no more popular tales for boys than those of Revolutionary times, and Mrs. Brush well knows the thrilling history of the Mohawk Valley, affording as it does scenes second to none in historical interest. "The Scarlet Patch" was the badge of a Tory organization, and a loyal patriot boy, Donald Bastien, is dismayed at learning that his uncle, with whom he is a "bound boy," is secretly connected with this treacherous band. Thrilling scenes follow in which a faithful Indian figures prominently, and there is a vivid presentation of the school and home life as well as the public affairs of those times.

Stories of Brave Old Times

Some Pen Pictures of Scenes Which Took Place Previous to, or Connected With, the American Revolution

By HELEN M. CLEVELAND Illustrated $1.25

A few unsigned articles in "Youth's Companion" first attracted attention to Miss Cleveland as a portrayer of the dramatic in history. The late Daniel Ford said of them, "Fresh, vigorous, dramatic, and picturesque." These words most aptly describe her riper work in this book. Perhaps no other book yet written sets the great cost of freedom so clearly before the young, consequently is such a spur to patriotism.



American Heroes and Heroines

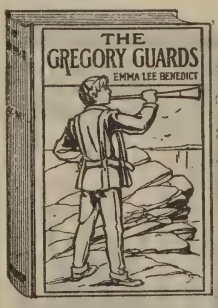
For Boys and Girls

By PAULINE CARRINGTON BOUVÉ Illustrated $1.25

THIS book, which will tend directly toward the making of patriotism in young Americans, contains some twenty brief, clever and attractive sketches of famous men and women in American history, among them Father Marquette, Anne Hutchinson, Israel Putnam, Molly Pitcher, Paul Jones, Dolly Madison, Daniel Boone, etc. Mrs. Bouvé is well known as a writer both of fiction and history, and her work in this case is admirable.

The Gregory Guards

By EMMA LEE BENEDICT Illustrated by FRANK T. MERRILL $1.25



"THE Gregory Guards" were indeed a guard of honor. A young man of wealth is trustee for a fund to help boys and chooses six to pass the summer at his home on an island near New York. These lads of widely different temperaments, as well as earlier lives, are most interestingly developed by the young man and his wise tutor, and in true boy fashion form a "club," whose highest purpose it is to watch over the property and interests of their benefactor, and to which they give his name. The two leading members, one a former New York newsboy, whose progress is a leading feature of the story, are the means of restoring his home to the one who is responsible for their entrance upon the road to manly success, after rascality had taken it from him. A story of reaping good by doing good, bright and entertaining and full of life, incident, and good sense.

THE MAKERS OF ENGLAND SERIES

In the Days of Queen Victoria

Fourth volume of "Makers of England Series," by EVA MARCH TAPPAN, PH.D. Illustrated from famous paintings and portraits 12mo Cloth $1.00

IT is unnecessary to devote words of praise to the historical work of Dr. Tappan for the young, as her prominence in this line is too well established to need mention. The present book completes a series of four that will remain standard, and will undoubtedly be the most popular of all, owing to the fresh remembrance of its honored subject. The noble ruler, who will always be remembered for her "queenliness as a woman and her womanliness as a queen," is written of in a way that will bring satisfaction to all who love her memory.

In the Days of Queen Elizabeth

Third volume of "Makers of England Series," by EVA MARCH TAPPAN, PH.D. Illustrated from famous paintings 12mo Cloth $1.00

DR. TAPPAN'S historical works have already become classics for the young, and well do they deserve it, with their entertaining descriptions, perfect English, and historical value.

In the Days of William the Conqueror

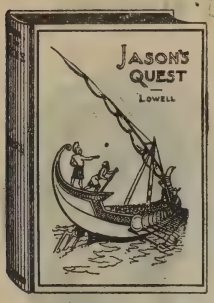
Second volume of "Makers of England Series," by EVA MARCH TAPPAN, PH.D. 12mo Cloth With spirited illustrations by J. W. KENNEDY 300 pages $1.00

MISS TAPPAN came to the front with "In the Days of Alfred the Great," a book widely reviewed without a single derogatory word, and pronounced one of the few books for the young that have a right to be considered literature. This book has the same historical accuracy and fascination of style, applied to a no less interesting subject.

In the Days of Alfred the Great

First volume of "Makers of England Series," by EVA MARCH TAPPAN, PH.D. Cloth Emblematic cover Fully illustrated $1.00

WE have never issued a more generally excellent work for the young than this, with the old familiar stories, together with very much new material, translated from original sources by the author.



Jason's Quest

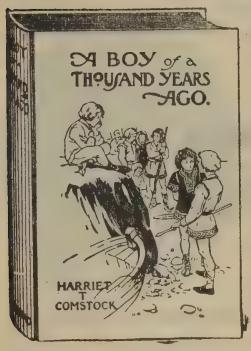
By D. O. S. LOWELL, A.M., M.D. Master in Roxbury Latin School Illustrated by C. W. Reed $1.00

THE popularity of the way in which Professor Lowell has told this classical story for school use has led to the presentation of a handsome edition for general readers. Nothing can be better to arouse the imagination of boys and girls, and at the same time store in their minds knowledge indispensable to any one who would be known as cultured, or happier than Professor Lowell's way of telling a story, and the many excellent drawings have lent great spirit to the narrative.

Famous Children

By H. TWITCHELL Illustrated from famous paintings $1.25

WE have here a most valuable book, telling not of the childhood of those who have afterwards become famous, but those who as children are famous in history, song, and story. For convenience the subjects are grouped as "Royal Children," "Child Artists," "Learned Children," "Devoted Children," "Child Martyrs," and "Heroic Children," and the names of the "two little princes," Louis XVII., Mozart, St. Genevieve, David, and Joan of Arc are here, as well as those of many more, perhaps not less worthy, but less well known.

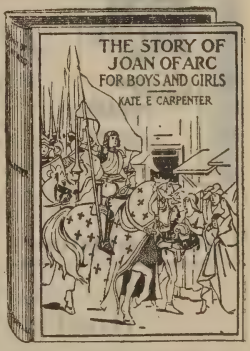


A Boy of a Thousand Years Ago

By HARRIET T. COMSTOCK Large 12mo Profusely illustrated with full-page drawings and chapter headings by George Varian $1.00

IT will at once be understood that the "boy" of the story is Alfred the Great in his youth, but it cannot be understood how delightful a story this is until it is seen and read. The splendid pictures of George Varian make this book superior among juveniles.

The Story of Joan of Arc For Boys and Girls



Told by Aunt Kate

By KATE E. CARPENTER Illustrated by AMY BROOKS, also from paintings, and with map Large 12mo Cloth $1.00

NO books are more popular for children than those which make history attractive. The favorite story of Joan of Arc is here treated in a uniquely attractive way. "Aunt Kate" tells the story of Joan of Arc to Master Harold, aged 11, and to Misses Bessie and Marjorie, aged 10 and 8, respectively, to their intense delight. They look up places on the map, and have a fine time while hearing the thrilling story, told in such simple language that they can readily understand it all. Parents and teachers will also be greatly interested in this book from an educational point of view.

THE SUCCESS BOOKS BY DR. ORISON SWETT MARDEN

Editor "Success"

The Making of a Man

12mo Cloth $1.25

VERY few secular books have accomplished as much as the remarkable "Self Help," by Samuel Smiles, and if any man at the present time is qualified to continue the subject, that man is certainly Dr. Marden, who is so well identified with the magazine "Success," of which the title and record are synonymous. This book is a succession of talks to boys on such subjects as "Self Honor," "The Price of Success," "Ruskin's Motto," "I Must, therefore I Can," "Courage at the Sticking Point," "Courtesy, Tidiness and Heart Sunshine," and many others,—twenty-one helpful sections of a book that it will please any youth to own and prize. This will make a splendid gift for any boy or young man.

Winning Out

A Book about Success

Illustrated with portraits 12mo Cloth $1.00

AN inspiring book for young people. The present volume is distinctively for young persons, who will find its many true anecdotes entertaining, and its lessons in self-control, diligence, punctuality and manners worth modelling their deportment upon."

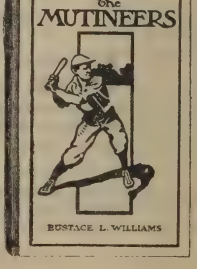
Camp and Trail

By ISABEL HORNIBROOK Illustrated by George Foster Barnes $1.50

A STORY for boys and girls who delight in adventure. But it is a peculiar book of adventure. Two English boys with their friend, an American collegian, go into the woods of Maine to hunt deer and moose. But they never kill wantonly or for mere sport — only for food or in self-defence. They study the ways of the great game of the woods, and breathe in health, inspiration and noble thoughts with the odor of the pines and the air of lake and mountain.

The Mutineers

By EUSTACE L. WILLIAMS Illustrated by I. B. Hazelton $1.25



THIS book gives a picture of life in a large boarding school, where a certain set of boys control the athletics, and shows how their unjust power was broken by the hero of the tale, who forms a rival baseball nine and manages to defeat his opponents, thus bringing a better state of things in the school socially and as to sports.

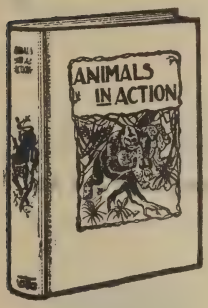
Looking For Alice

By WALTER BURGESS SMITH With over forty illustrations by C. Howard 4to Cloth $1.25

A LITTLE girl named Harriet descends through an old well into the land of dreams, to look for Alice of Wonderland, and meets with adventures no less astonishing than those of Alice herself. The story abounds in playful fancies and droll humor, and is entirely original in its treatment. Children who have never read the famous "Adventures" will like this tale on its own merits.



Animals in Action

Compiled by Elbridge S. Brooks from the German of Brahm and others Illustrated with 100 full-page, half-tone illustrations by Specht Cloth 4to $1.50

THIS entertaining and instructive volume is compiled from the German of one of the most well-versed and thoroughly reliable students of natural history. It is devoted especially to wild animals, and the illustrations by the noted animal artist, Specht, show the subjects in action, and the fierce struggle for life, rather than in the listlessness of captivity.

THE FAMILY FLIGHT SERIES

By E. E. HALE and SUSAN HALE | The travels of a personally conducted party of boys and girls, at home and abroad | Illustrated 8vo Cloth | Each, $1.50

THESE five books are recommended by the State Boards of several States for their public school libraries.

The Family Flight Series of books which here follow were written by Edward Everett Hale and his sister, Miss Susan Hale, in collaboration.

A Family Flight Around Home

THIS "Flight" around home takes in the principal towns and localities in Northern New York and in the Eastern States, to which belong historical reminiscences of the Revolutionary War.

A Family Flight Over Egypt and Syria

THE family make their flight from New York, landing at Bordeaux, and pushing on to Marseilles, which they reach just in time to catch the steamer for Alexandria. At Alexandria two days, and on to Cairo. From there they extend their travels to other historical localities of the Holy Land.

A Family Flight Through France, Germany, Norway, and Switzerland

A MONTH is spent in Paris, affording opportunity not only for general sight-seeing, but for study of the French language and the famous works of art. A winter in the cities of Germany gives a like opportunity for studying Germany, and for enjoying a German Christmas. In Norway, "the land of the midnight sun," they meet with much that is novel and quaint, and in Switzerland they roam over the mountains associated with the name of William Tell.

A Family Flight Through Mexico

THIS time the scene chosen for the flight is Mexico, where they visit the principal cities, see the noteworthy features, and learn some of the history of that Republic.

A Family Flight Through Spain

IN no respect inferior in interest or attractiveness to its predecessors.

The Story of Massachusetts Illustrated 8vo Cloth $1.50

DR. HALE'S "story" is a unique and comprehensive association of nineteen historical epochs in the history of Massachusetts, presented in the terse, picturesque, practical, and absorbing manner that has made him a master among American history writers. (See "Story of the States" Series.)

Boys' Heroes Illustrated 12mo Cloth $1.00

A POPULAR, gossipy account of Hector, Horatius, Alexander the Great, Hannibal King Arthur, Richard the Lion-Hearted, Bayard, Robinson Crusoe, Israel Putnam, General Lafayette, Napoleon, and Ralph Allestree.

The Story of the Cid

For Young People

By CALVIN DILL WILSON Illustrated by J. W. Kennedy $1.25

MR. WILSON, a well-known writer and reviewer, has prepared from Southey's translation, which was far too cumbrous to entertain the young, a book that will kindle the imagination of youth and entertain and inform those of advanced years.

A Boy's Workshop

By a boy and his friends With an introduction by HENRY RANDALL WAITE Illustrated $1.00

"CHICAGO ADVANCE" says: "Written by 'a boy and his friends,' it tells you how to make and to use a work-bench; how to use tools and to care for them; lets you into the secret of book-rests, tables, cabinets, etc.; shows you how to build wooden tents, make a fernery, bind magazines, take photographs, tie knots, and do a great many other things. It is a book that every boy ought to have."

Right and Wrong Thinking and Their Results

By AARON MARTIN CRANE $1.40 net Postpaid, $1.50

IN this book Mr. Crane has made a very striking and deep presentation of the teachings of Jesus, applying them with great power and clearness to the scientific development and thought of the age.

The propositions which are discussed and advocated in this book are as follows:

Mind is foremost in rank among the essentials of man's constitution.

Mind action, which is thinking, is first in the order of occurrence throughout all of man's activeness

All thinking may be divided into two distinct classes, the harmonious and the discordant.

As consequence follows cause, so all thinking is followed by bodily action of some kind.

Man may control the action of his mind and his mind controls all his other actions; therefore, by this control of his mind he may have complete mastery of himself.

On these and similar fundamental principles as a scientific basis rest many of the ethical precepts of Jesus, the Christ; and an understanding of these principles will show the reasonableness of those precepts and the method by which they may be carried out in practice. The book is meeting with remarkable success, the first edition being at once exhausted.

The Twentieth Century Christ

By PAUL KARISHKA $1.00 net Postpaid, $1.10

A THOROUGHLY readable analysis of the philosophies of all time bearing upon the place occupied by the idea of Christ to-day. The spirit in which the work is written is startling, yet by no means irreverent.

Self Building

Through Common Sense Methods

By CORILLA BANISTER $1.00 net Postpaid, $1.10

A book for all who would be better physically and mentally. No finer testimonial of the soundness of Mrs. Banister's teachings need be sought than the fact that by the exercise of her own precepts she has raised herself from invalidism to perfect physical health, accompanied by an increase of mental and spiritual power.

Facts about Peat

Peat Fuel and Peat Coke How to Make it and How to Use it, with Brief Notes Concerning its Use and Value for Numerous other Purposes

By T. H. LEAVITT Illustrated $1.00 net Postpaid, $1.10

THE author brings to the front and invites attention to Peat, a substance overlying vast areas of the surface of this and other lands, which are generally regarded as waste places and well-nigh valueless. The means by which this can be utilized, the cost and value of the fuel produced, and the uses for which it is specially valuable, are plainly set forth. The illustrations, which are excellent, are helpful to a distinct understanding of the text.

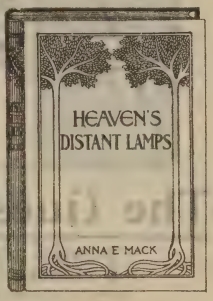
"FOR SWEETHEART OR FRIEND"

Because I Love You

A CHOICE COLLECTION OF LOVE POEMS Edited by ANNA E. MACK White and gold $1.50

"WHAT lover is there who will not welcome the beautiful little white and gold volume of love verses edited by Anna E. Mack, under the satisfying title 'Because I Love You'? Love is ever an excuse for right or wrong doing, but in this case the result is so beautiful that no excuse is needed. Miss Mack has selected with discriminating taste some of the sweetest, tenderest lines in our literature, all dealing with the one imperishable subject. The authors from whose works these selections are culled include all the best-known writers, and in addition to the old familiar names, a number of new ones make this book fresher than most anthologies."— Cincinnati Tribune.

Heaven's Distant Lamps



Poems of Comfort and Hope

Songs of War and Peace

By SAM WALTER FOSS Cloth Gilt Top Boxed $1.25

"THERE is an inspiration breathing through the lines of Mr. Foss' verse that appeals to all, and in his latest volume are included thoughts, comments, and satires on modern topics that are either strikingly humorous or strikingly pathetic. In every outward sense the work will appeal to those who love beauty in the clothing of books, for its cover is a specially dainty piece of artistic skill."

Previously Published

Dreams in Homespun

221 pages Cloth Artistic cover design Gilt top Boxed Price $1.50

"THE same characteristics that distinguished his previous volumes are generally observable throughout this one. The author's talent consists largely in treating common every-day themes poetically. He invests with a halo of homespun beauty the scenes and incidents in the lives of average men. The humorous element is seldom long lacking from Mr. Foss' verse, and there is usually a trace of philosophy behind the humor."

Whiffs from Wild Meadows

This book comprises 272 pages, is beautifully bound, with an elegantly designed cover, and artistically illustrated Cloth Gilt top Boxed $1.50

"MR. FOSS' work is marked by every-day common-sense, good-natured satire, genuine humor, a keen appreciation of the petty foibles and weaknesses of mankind, and, above all, genuine human sympathy. The three or four 'occasional' poems at the close of the volume in their unconventional swing and happy rhyming remind one irresistibly of Holmes, and there are lines that even Holmes would have been glad to own." — Boston Transcript.

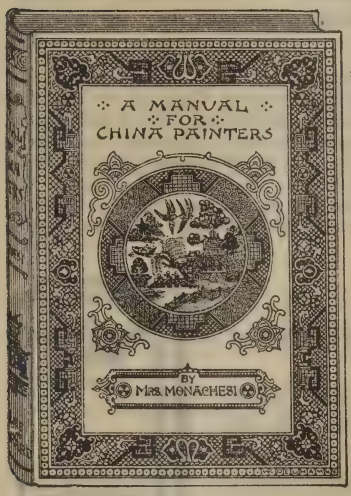
Back Country Poems

This book contains 258 pages, has 12 full-page and many other illustrations, and many of the author's best-known poems Cloth $1.50

"OF all the poems published for a long time none deserve warmer praise and more careful reading than the delightful songs that make up this quaint and natural book. Now sad, now gay, everywhere pleasing, the verses charm and cause us to wish that the 258th page did not bring the end." — Public Opinion.

PRACTICAL ART HAND BOOKS

A Manual for China Painters



Being a Practical and Comprehensive Treatise on the Art of Painting China and Glass with Mineral Colors

By Mrs. N. DI R. MONACHESI
With colored plates showing 138 mineral colors Cloth $1.25

"ALL that can be told is given to the worker in the pages of this book; what remains depends upon the taste, diligence, and experience of the amateur. The arrangement of the matter is admirable in its simplicity, the two main divisions being devoted to Materials and Instruction. In each division every topic that is likely to come up in the practice of mineral painting is touched upon, and its difficulties explained. If its suggestions be followed, the practice of china painting will be lifted to the standard of a fine art. In addition to a good index, the book is provided with five plates showing the painting colors, which were prepared under the supervision of M. Lacroix, a congratulatory letter from whom follows the preface."—Art Interchange.

The Painter in Oil

A Complete Treatise on the Principles and Technique Necessary to the Painting of Pictures in Oil Colors

By DANIEL BURLEIGH PARKHURST 12mo Cloth Fully illustrated and containing colored plates showing specimens of oil colors Price $1.25

A BOOK which, though primarily intended to be of practical use to the amateur painter, will be found to be also of value and interest to the student of pictures. The painter will find it a guide to the principles and processes of the craft of painting, written by one who has practised them; and in the spirit of a teacher, without being abstruse, it will give the reasons for things as well as the things themselves. It has many illustrations, including cuts of tools and copies of famous paintings. Upon two pages are mounted slips showing tints of modern oil colors.

Water Color Painting

By GRACE BARTON ALLEN With illustrations and cover design by the author Also containing colored plates showing washes of modern water colors Cloth $1.25

"AFTER an admirable introduction, in which the reader will find many hints that are worthy of consideration, the author takes up the subject in a practical way, dividing it into a number of chapters under the headings of colors, materials, flowers and still life, landscapes and marines, figures and animals, composition, decoration, color washes, etc., etc., covering the entire subject. At the end of the volume is added a group of color slips showing water-color washes, which will be found of value in connection with the lists of colors and their qualities given in a chapter in the first part of the book."—Art Interchange.

Elijah Kellogg: The Man and His Work

Edited by WILMOT B. MITCHELL, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory in Bowdoin College Fully illustrated from photographs $1.20 net Postpaid, $1.35

UNDER the able direction of Professor Mitchell, prominent men like Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, Professor Chapman of Bowdoin College, and others, have contributed recollections of such portions of Mr. Kellogg's life as were best known to each. His early life, student days, pastoral life, authorship, and famous work among the seamen in Boston are all treated capably and well. In addition, the editor has grouped fugitive selections like the immortal "Spartacus" and "Regulus," together with some of his excellent verse and one or two representative discourses.

NEW ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF THE WORKS OF THOMAS BULFINCH

EDITED BY REV. EDWARD EVERETT HALE

Three volumes Crown 8vo Each profusely illustrated Reduced price per volume $1.25

CHARLES W. ELIOT, President of Harvard University, says:—"Mr. Bulfinch's three volumes on Mythology are delightful books, and full of interest and instruction for both old and young. I trust that they will have for many years to come a widespread circulation, for they are thoroughly wholesome books."

The Age of Fable

Or Beauties of Mythology

THE educational value of this work cannot be over-estimated, as it enables the student, by means of the text and illustrations, to enter into the mythological conceptions of antiquity, and prepares him to interpret and enjoy the works of the masters of art as well as the classical allusions of which our best modern literature is full.

The Age of Chivalry

Or Legends of King Arthur, Stories of the Round Table, The Crusades, Robin Hood, etc.

IN the introduction the author gives an outline of the condition of Europe after the decline of the Roman Empire, showing the origin and purpose of chivalry, and explaining all things necessary to be known to give one a clear and distinct idea of the feats of the Knights of the Round Table, and whatever pertains to that remarkable period.

Legends of Charlemagne

Or Romance of the Middle Ages Stories of Paladin and Saracen

With introduction by ARTHUR RICHMOND MARSH, Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature in Harvard University

"THESE stories of the second Age of Fable, the age which witnessed the dawn of the several states of modern Europe," were but little known even by the liberally educated, and were not available before the publication of these volumes. They have become absolutely necessary to an appreciation of what is best in modern literature.

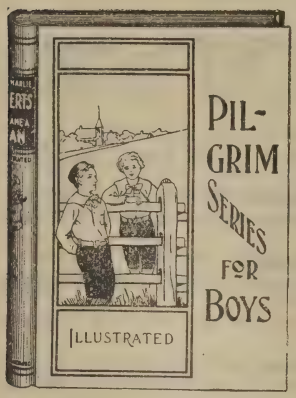
PILGRIM SERIES FOR BOYS



Each volume complete in itself Uniform cloth binding New and attractive dies Illustrated Price 75 cents each

THESE are genuinely good stories written by authors of established reputation, who appreciate the wants and tastes of young people, and selected for this purpose with great care. In all the books of this series the spirit is manly, sincere, and moral. There is enough of incident and adventure to make them lively and interesting, while the principles of truthfulness, integrity, and self-reliance are quietly inculcated. In a word, they are such books as parents would wish their children to read.

Fatherland Books. Translated from the German, and among the best Sunday School Library Books published.

The genuine religious sentiment, the touching pathos, the heartsomeness, as well as the dramatic interest of these stories of Hoffman, of Horn, and of kindred writers, are well known to the German reader; and we trust by these translations to make German thought better known to the youthful English reader, whom we hope to familiarize with scenes and incidents of the Fatherland.

A BEAUTIFUL and COMPLETE Series of 104 Large Colored

Bible Picture Charts

Lithographed in many colors, are now ready for such of our Sunday Schools as prefer to use this Two Years' Course in the Primary Department instead of the International Lessons.

The cost of one year's set, comprised of 26 pictures from the New and 26 from the Old Testament, 52 in all, is $6.00, postage or express charges prepaid. The complete series, containing two years' sets, consists of 104 subjects, half from the Old and half from the New Testament, will cost $12.00, postage or express charges prepaid. If preferable, the Charts may be ordered quarterly at $1.50 per quarter in advance.

Iron Frames or Stands on which to display the Picture Charts will be found very convenient. We supply them at $1.00 each by express, charges NOT prepaid. Every school should have one of these Frames or Stands.

THE PICTURELAND QUARTERLY

for the use of teachers using these Charts is very helpful, and is furnished at 10 cents a quarter, or 40 cents a year.

SUNRAYS,

Small Lesson Picture Cards, for every Sunday in the year, to correspond with Biblical Picture Charts. Beautiful half-tone pictures, printed in colors, with a brief story, questions and answers. Price, per copy, per annum, 10c.

There are more than 1600 Sunday Schools in the General Synod, and we have only a limited number of sets of Charts to dispose of. This means that the Schools that hesitate or delay to send in orders may not be able to secure a supply.

These are the long-looked-for PICTURE CHARTS.

This is the joint work of the Lutheran Church in America, including the General Synod, the General Council, the Joint Synod of Ohio, and the United Synod South. The enterprise is a gigantic one, and our Sunday schools are to be congratulated on the completion of the work.

AUTUMN 1906

Sir Nigel

By
A. Conan Doyle

Cloth. Six illustrations by the Kinneys

$1.50

THIS story begins at that period of English history—about 1348—when the Black Death had devastated the rural parts of England. At that time Nigel was still a boy at Tilford growing up into lusty manhood under the stern yet loving eye of his grandmother, Dame Ermyntrude. The first act of his manhood is to come to blows with the Cistercian Monks of Waverly, who get him into their power and are about to mete out to him condign punishment for boyish pranks and depredations. Then enters upon the scene that greatest light of English chivalry, Sir John Chandos, who takes Nigel as his squire, to the relief of Calais and to the French Wars. The story is one long succession of exciting adventures, sea-fights and sieges, battles on sea and land, single encounters and great combats, in all of which Nigel bears himself most worthily under the eye of his royal master, Edward III., and the Black Prince. Nor is Nigel less successful in love than in war, for he wins the heart and hand of the fairest and sweetest maiden in England. The author's art has matured with years, and we think that not even in his greatest early successes has he ever written a novel that will so fascinate both old and young as this splendid chivalric tale of the fourteenth century, which the hand that wrote "Ivanhoe" might have been proud to have penned.

Rosemary in Search of a Father

A Christmas Love Story

By
C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Illustrations by Hatherell

Cloth, $1.50

AUTHORS and publishers have worked together to make this the Holiday book par excellence of the season of 1906–7. Mr. and Mrs. Williamson have written a story which will surprise even their most ardent admirers by its humor, grace, delicacy, and charm. The scene of the story is laid at Monte Carlo, and the Christmas described is as different as possible from the usual Christmas. It is the Christmas of a warm climate, and is celebrated by a fine picnic and a motor-car load of presents distributed to the poor people of a mountain hamlet by little Rosemary, her mother, and the "fairy father," whom she so providentially discovered on Christmas eve, just as he was driving away from the Casino in a big red automobile. He is so glad to be discovered that he virtually buys out all the shops in Monte Carlo, the contents of all the gorgeous windows, and literally smothers Rosemary and her mother with the most beautiful things to wear. The book is beautifully decorated by William Jordan, and has six full-page pictures by the great English artist, Hatherell.

Doubloons

By Eden Phillpotts and Arnold
Bennett

Cloth, $1.50

As the title indicates, this is a tale of buried treasure, but in a wholly new guise and with thoroughly modern accessories. The first part of the story passes to London primarily in a lodging-house for reduced gentlefolk. It was to this place that Philip Masters, who had run through a fortune and had been a professor of jiu-jitsu until he broke the arm of a noble duke, his pupil, came after the night when he saw a murder committed in a street excavation, and secured a thumb print of the murderer on a piece of lead piping. Here, too, he picks up the clews that enable him to connect the murder with a scheme to discover buried treasure in the West Indies.

Masters, after he had discovered the daughter of the dead man masquerading in man's apparel at the lodging-house—she was also a famous music-hall singer—is kidnapped by the murderer whom he is tracking, and taken off on the latter's schooner. It would be too bad to spoil the effect of a story which depends so much on its quick succession of complications and surprises to outline the plot any further. It may be said, however, that the story is even better than might have been expected from the distinguished collaboration. Mr. Phillpotts has been known hitherto only as the author of serious artistic fiction. Here, however, in a book destined to reach a still wider public, he shows the lighter and brighter side of his genius; for though the book is sensational in the extreme, its extraordinary adventures are seen through the medium of a delightfully fantastic humor. Mr. Bennett is the author of several extravaganzas of a somewhat similar nature, and of serious novels, at least one of which, Anna of the Five Towns, is well and favorably known to American readers.

The Shadow of the House

By
Ivan Strannik

Translated from the French by Emma A. Clinton

Cloth, $1.50

A DELICATE and exquisite portrayal of the development of a young girl into a woman through wifehood and motherhood and moral suffering. The setting and the characters are delightfully Russian, but the author's treatment of the theme raises it out of any limitation of time or place, and gives it a reality and truth to general human nature. Helen Tougorine, while yet a young girl, living in the respectable but rather dull household of her aunt and uncle, unconventionally selects her own lover, the poet Soutougine, and marries him with the reluctant consent of her family. Almost at once she discovers the shallow egotism and intellectual vanity of the man. Later, his infidelity almost throws her into the arms of another, but she is restrained from taking the final step through love of her child, which, in the event of a divorce, she would be obliged, according to the Russian law, to surrender to her husband. The situation, therefore, is not unlike that in Tolstoy's famous novel, Anna Karénin. The solution, however, is quite different, and the book ends on an altogether higher and finer note—a note, if not of happiness, at least of quiet, calm, and elevated acceptance under the influence of those traditional social forces which are symbolized throughout the story in the House of the Tougorines. The story starts at St. Petersburg and ends there, after having taken the reader to a country estate on the Gulf of Finland, to Berlin, London, and Pallanza, impressions of which places are woven with delicate art into a background for this penetrating and moving little drama of real life.

The Mystery

By
S. E. White and
S. H. Adams

Cloth.
Sixteen illustrations by Will Crawford

$1.50

Will be published in January, 1907

THIS tale during its run in the American Magazine as a serial, was called by thousands of readers the best mystery story and novel of adventure since Stevenson's Treasure Island. There is no doubt that the book itself bears out the promise of its title. A situation more baffling and apparently less capable of solution was probably never presented to the human mind than that of the officers of the United States cruiser Wolverine when that ship met in the Northern Pacific the schooner Laughing Lass, shipshape and under full sail, but without a man on board. Her appearance was preluded on the previous night by a strange radiance in the heavens. A mysterious atmosphere seemed to invest the vessel itself, and a curious great chest was found in the cabin. A prize crew was put on board with the young ensign, Billy Edwards, in command. The same night, after parting company, the same radiance was seen. Next day the Wolverine again came up with the Laughing Lass and again she was found empty of life—not even a rat was found on board. A second prize crew disappeared as mysteriously as the first, and it was not till an open boat was picked up days afterward, with a madman and a dead man on board, that a clew was received to the tragic mystery of the Laughing Lass. The account that follows of the German professor, who hired a smuggling schooner and its lawless crew to visit an unknown volcanic island and carry on profound experiments, is thrilling in the extreme. After a stay of two years, the crew grows restless under lust for the gold which the scientist is supposed to be making, and the excitement grows intense. The characters of the various members of the crew are cleverly described, especially Handy Solomon, the picturesque buccaneer whose right hand is replaced by a hook and whose chanty "Down on the coast of High Bar-bar-ee" runs like a grewsome refrain throughout the volume.

Chippinge Borough

By Stanley Weyman

Cloth, $1.50

As a background for this delightful romance Mr. Weyman has chosen one of the most pregnant periods of the nineteenth century—the period, 1832, of the passage of the great Reform Bill which changed the whole basis of parliamentary representation in England, and almost threw that country into a bloody revolution. The hero, Vaughan, is a political protégé of the great though eccentric statesman, Lord Brougham, or "Bruffam" as he was popularly called, who figures at full length in these pages—a character study worthy of Scott. Vaughan is also the nephew and heir of Lord Robert Vermuyden, one of the pillars of the old conservative system, and who holds in his hand one of those "rotten boroughs" which it was the purpose of the Reform Bill to abolish. Hence arises a bitter conflict between uncle and nephew, which ends in the triumph of the latter in that general flood of success which gave the coup de grace to the old system. A more than usually charming love story is interwoven with this tale of strenuous political strife, and the moment when young Vaughan finds himself bound for Bristol on the top of the stagecoach, side by side with the pretty and demure young school-mistress, Miss Mary Smith, the heart interest runs high. The costumes and manners of a period which has never yet figured in fiction are delightfully painted, and the same note of romance is felt throughout as in the same author's stories in the remoter seventeenth century.

A Sailor of Fortune

By
B. S. Osbon
and
Albert Bigelow Paine

Illustrated

$1.50 net

NOT since Dana's Two Years Before the Mast has there been such a stirring personal record of romantic adventure as this book, which is bound in the same way as the other to become a classic in our literature. Not two years, however, but his whole life, did Captain Osbon follow the sea. Running away as a boy, he shipped in many vessels and eventually turned up in China where he took part in the war waged against the pirates. This is one of the most thrilling episodes in the book, and is a record of personal intrepidity told with a characteristic modesty that adds greatly to the effect. Adventures follow in the South Seas, and finally Captain Osbon returned to the United States, where for a time he entered journalism and appeared on the lecture platform. He came closely into touch with the present King of England, when as the Prince of Wales, he visited this country. As a newspaper correspondent Captain Osbon accompanied the vessel that went to relieve Fort Sumter and that brought Major Andrew back to New York after the bombardment. In the Civil War he served both as officer and as correspondent, seeing active service with Farragut on the Hartford, and with Worden on the iron-clad monitor Montauk. After the war, he became an admiral in the Mexican Navy and contributed to the downfall of the Emperor Maximilian. The Spanish War still found him active and he was despatched by the Government to locate Cervera's fleet, a task which he performed with great brilliancy. These are only some of the leading episodes in a life of the utmost activity, and many of his minor exploits are as interesting from a personal point of view as those that have a more direct historical bearing. As a natural result of his varied life and participation in the great actions of the last half-century, Captain Osbon had a wide circle of acquaintance among the great personages in both political and public life, and the book is full of reminiscences and anecdotes of the utmost value and interest.

The Plow-Woman

A Story of Pioneer Life in the Northwest

By Eleanor Gates

Author of the "Biography of a Prairie Girl" and "Buenas Noches"

Cloth. Special Cover in Colors, $1.50

EVAN LANCASTER, a cross-grained, crippled, ex-section boss of a Texas railroad and an "irreconciled" Confederate, migrates in a prairie-schooner with his daughters Dallas and Marylyn to the valley of the Missouri, in North Dakota. They put up a rough shack opposite a military post, and Dallas, the "plow-woman," tills the virgin soil. A rival to their claim appears in the person of one Matthews, a black-leg and scoundrel, who having in vain tried to eject the girls from their home during their father's absence, bargains with Indians for the slaughter of the inhabitants. The situation is serious and the danger imminent, when one morning they wake up and find a freshly cut scalp stuck on a pole before their door. The story is thus not lacking in elements of excitement and danger. Its chief strength, however, lies perhaps in the mingled feminine charm and masculine strength of Dallas Lancaster, who is the real protector of the family and ready for any self-sacrifice. She is even ready to give her own lover over to her sister Marylyn, when she finds that the latter loves the same man. Altogether she is a splendid and fascinating creation, true-hearted, warm-blooded, and beautiful, her nature expanding in the broad spaces of the Northwest to magnificent proportions of majestic American womanhood. The artist, Mr. Dan Sayre Groesbeck, has wonderfully realized the novelist's conception of her character in the admirable picture which appears on the cover of the book.

The Pettison Twins

By Marion Hill

Cloth. Fully Illustrated by Fanny Corey and other well-known artists (about 30 illustrations)

$1.50

THE nine stories contained in this volume have all, with a single exception, appeared in McClure's and other magazines during the past year, so that the following titles will stir in most readers amusing memories of Rex and Regina and Mrs. Pettison's conscientious endeavors to live up to the precepts of The Ideal Mother and the Privilege of Parenthood:

This is distinctly the book of the year in a field in which the McClure imprint has long been preëminent, and bids fair to rival the success of the other books of a similar nature in the same series, The Court of Boyville, The Madness of Philip, Emmy Lou: Her Book and Heart, and Myra Kelly's Little Citizens.

Tinker Two

A Sequel to The Admirable Tinker, and Lady Noggs, Peeress

By Edgar Jepson

Cloth. Illustrated

THE "angel child," Tinker, is securely enshrined in thousands of young hearts—and old hearts too, for that matter—as a boy hero of infinite romance and the most engaging personality. Everyone will remember his original series of adventures at Monte Carlo and elsewhere in Europe, in the course of which he adopted a sister, Elsie, and secured a charming American wife for his noble father, Sir Tancred Beauleigh. In this new book is narrated the sequel to his adoption of Elsie, who, it will be remembered, was deserted by her uncle outside the Casino at Monte Carlo. This uncle now turns up with an equally rascally associate and plans to recapture Elsie and use her as a means of extracting money from her protectors. Tinker spirits Elsie away into Central Europe, where for a long time they elude pursuit in a hunting lodge in a remote German forest. Here begins a succession of the most marvelous adventures, not the least amusing and remarkable of which is Tinker's entertainment of the three Emperors who meet for state reasons in the forest and lose their way. The good spirits and the vivacious style in which this book is written will make it a source of the most genuine pleasure to all readers in search of something out of the ordinary run of fiction.

In Pastures New

By George Ade

Cloth. 45 Illustrations
$1.25

IN this book the author of "Fables in Slang" goes abroad. In England he becomes acquainted with the English language; for a short time while talking with a distinguished Englishman he succeeds in throttling his Chicagoisms except for occasional quickly recovered lapses; fortunately for the reader, however, he finally gives up the attempt, and writes his book in the delightful dialect which he has almost established as the accepted literary medium of America. Nothing that Mr. Ade has yet written is as funny as these light, witty, slangy impressions of things English and European—his own impressions and those of his genial fellow-traveller, Mr. Peasely of Des Moines, Iowa, who is certainly the most amusing "innocent abroad" that ever left his native land. It was Peasely who, going to Brussels, got off at Antwerp and didn't discover the difference until he had gone sight-seeing all over town with a guide book and map of the former city, admiring everything and identifying everything in due order. There is a certain native shrewdness, too, in many of Mr. Ade's observations, which, together with their humor, show a good deal of common sense and penetration. In short he is not merely the jester, just as his book is not merely a joke-book; he is a sharp-eyed, clear-minded American who brings equal penetration and good nature to the work of discovering the Old World.

A New Dooley Book

By Finley Peter
Dunne

Cloth 12mo, $1.50

A NEW Dooley book is always an event just as Dooley himself is a national institution. Arrangements for this book were made too late for the announcement of the title of the volume to be made in this catalogue, or to give an adequate description of the contents. Suffice it to say that the oracle of Archie Road was never heard to greater advantage than in these latest pronouncements, racy with his inimitable humor, and shrewd sagacity, in the affairs of the nation and of the universe.

McClure's Little Comic Masterpieces

LAST spring we tried the experiment of taking a short story, PIGS IS PIGS, by Ellis Parker Butler, which had made a great hit when it appeared in a popular magazine, and printing it in a little book with all the original illustrations by Will Crawford. The experiment was in the highest degree a success. The brilliant qualities of Mr. Butler's humor, the novelty of the form in which the story was presented to the public, and the low price at which it was offered—all these elements combined to make a new departure in publishing.

This season we repeat the experiment with two of the biggest short-story hits that ever appeared in McClure's Magazine.

A Good Samaritan

By
Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews

Cloth. Illustrations by Charlotte Harding

50 cents

THIS story, capitally illustrated by Charlotte Harding, appeared about a year ago in McClure's Magazine, for which Mrs. Andrews has long been one of the most popular and successful writers. It has been called the best story that ever appeared in McClure's. It certainly is the funniest story about a drunken man that ever appeared in any magazine. How a young graduate from a Theological Seminary, on his way to keep an important engagement on which his future hangs, meets an old college friend in an intoxicated condition—how he is forced to play the Good Samaritan, and to steer his friend homeward through many adventures in the city streets—how he incurs thereby disgrace in the eyes of the girl he loves—all this is deliciously narrated. Mrs. Andrews had for years been collecting humorous traits of intoxication, and these she poured out with a lavish hand in this one masterly creation. The trip uptown on an elevated train where Billy does the flying rings on the leather straps, and sits on the floor of the car with his back up against the door at all the stations—all this is side-splitting in the way it is described. The same may be said of the expedient of the telegrams which Billy sends from the hotel to his family across the street, to break to them the news of his lamentable condition. Of course the story turns out well—beautifully in fact, and poor Rex—"bes' fren' man ever had"—sets himself right in the eyes of the world and of the young lady.

Breezy:

By
J. George
Frederick

Cloth. Illustrated by W. D. Stevens

50 cents

THIS is a story of quite a different nature, but equally successful in its own way, as has been attested by the number of times permission has been asked to reprint it for private circulation. Breezy is a boy who attends strictly to business. Obtaining a position as a clerk in a big grocer's store, he makes a hit at the counter to which he is assigned by his signs calling attention to the special bargains of the day. These signs are very crisp and amusing, and he soon has to make them for the entire store. One day, however, he is sent to buy butter, and is given advertising copy to place in the papers. Receiving a tip that butter is going up, he buys many times the quantity he is ordered and rewrites the copy. The manager, of course, is furious and Breezy is discharged. But next day, when there is a perfect rush to the store for Breezy's butter, which is all sold out on short notice at a big profit, his methods are appreciated, and he is taken back into the firm as manager. The story is a fine little exemplification of American enterprise. Breezy's methods are those which in this country make men successful. And that is why employers all over the country have reprinted this story and distributed it widecast as an inspiration and an incentive.

Caybigan

By James Hopper

Illustrated

$1.50

A BOOK of admirable tales dealing with the Filipino people from the point of view of one who came closely in contact with the race as a schoolmaster. Mr. Hopper himself occupied this position for some time in the Islands, and this book is the result of his experience and close-range observation plus his strong and graphic gift of story-telling. Indeed, it has been said that Mr. Hopper has done for the Philippines what Kipling did for India.

Letters to a Chinese Official

By William Jennings Bryan

50 cents net

THIS book is in the nature of an answer to the famous volume which has attracted such widespread attention both in England and America—"Letters from a Chinese Official"—in which the ideals and state of civilization of the Western World are criticised from an Oriental point of view and in comparison with Chinese standards. Mr. Bryan was in China when the little book came to his notice; and because he felt that the case against his own race was overstated, and too glowing a picture was painted of the condition of affairs in the Celestial Empire, he immediately sat down and wrote a reply, sending it to this country from Suez, Egypt. The book is, however, more than a mere reply to another book. It is a fine and glowing confession of faith in the ideals and purposes of our race, and more particularly those of the American people. It is a statement of the grounds of his own patriotism, and is permeated with a fine spirit of wise and serene optimism. There are passages, like that on the American home, and on the real meaning of Christianity to the modern world, that no man can read without elevation of his moral nature.

Paper board, uniform with "Letters to a Chinese Official."

In the Fire of the Heart

By
Ralph Waldo Trine

Author of
"In Tune with the Infinite"

$1.25

MR. TRINE'S earlier works are known to thousands of readers in all parts of the world. "In Tune with the Infinite" has been translated into nine languages and has had a wider influence than almost any other book of our time on the modern trend of religious and spiritual development. In this new volume the author deals in the same simple and concrete manner of treatment which characterized his former work and gave it its wide popular appeal, with the great social and political questions of the day. These he tries to see in their universal significance and in their bearing on the deeper spiritual life of the individual and the race. This is the first book to go below the mere surface conditions of life to-day, below the revelations of corruption and abuses, and to deal with the whole problem of modern life in the spirit of a broad humane interpretation. At the same time there is nothing abstract or remotely philosophical in Mr. Trine's work. It is addressed primarily to the average practical mind and to the heart. The opening chapter, "With the People—A Revelation," cast in the form of a vision or dream, lends an element of romance to the book, and catches the attention of the reader from the start.

A list of the chapters follows:

I. With the People—A Revelation.
II. The Conditions That Hold Among Us.
III. As Time Deals with Nations.
IV. As to Government.
V. A Great People's Movement.
VI. Public Utilities to Their Highest Use.
VII. Labor and Its Uniting Power.
VIII. Agencies Through Which We Shall Secure the People's Greatest Good.
IX. The Great Nation.
X. Life and Its Finest Fulfillment.

The Great Lord Burghley

By Martin Hume

Frontispiece
Cloth. Illustrated
$3.50 net

ROBERT CECIL, Lord Burghley, was the greatest of Elizabeth's ministers, and, indeed, one of the great founders of the modern British state. It was his influence, cast now on the side of France, now of Spain, that largely determined England's foreign policy for a quarter of a century, and placed that nation in its position of preëminence by the close of Elizabeth's reign. Major Hume is already well and favorably known as a popular writer on historical subjects, and his earlier books, The Love Affairs of Mary Queen of Scots, The Courtships of Queen Elizabeth, and The Wives of Henry VIII, have had a wide circulation. No good, readable Life of Lord Burghley has previously been written, and this volume, derived from the best contemporary sources, will fill an important place in all historical libraries, public and private.

The Religion of Nature

By
E. Kay Robinson

Cloth. Net, 90 cts
Postpaid, $1.00

THE greatest modern obstacle to belief in a personal God has been the spectacle of the apparent wholesale cruelty involved in the struggle for existence in the brute creation. In this book an attempt is made to overcome this obstacle, which must be of the highest importance to thousands whose humanitarian instinct is at war with their orthodox Christianity. Mr. Robinson, who is a well-known Nature writer, and who has made a profound impression in England by his articles on this subject, argues with a wealth of concrete illustration that the cruelty which we seem to discern in Nature is an illusion, and that man alone, among animals, is conscious of pain and suffering. He further argues that this consciousness has been given to men, not as a disadvantage, but as a special boon and spur to further effort and advancement. While Mr. Robinson's book is likely to arouse intense opposition in certain humanitarian camps, it is certain that, among thinking people everywhere, it will be welcomed as a work whose influence for the good will be far-reaching.

Walter Reed and Yellow Fever

By
Howard A. Kelly, M.D.

Professor of Gynecological Surgery at the Johns Hopkins University

Cloth, 12mo.
Twelve half-tone illustrations
Net, $1.50
Postpaid, $1.62

THIS book is not only an interesting biography of a remarkable man and a full account of his brilliant discovery, but a complete review of the history of Yellow Fever, with a discussion of the methods by which it is now under control.

Major Walter Reed was the man who proved the fact that Yellow Fever is transmitted by the bite of the mosquito (the female of the species Stegomia fasciata). This discovery has already been the means of saving thousands of lives and will in the future save thousands more. That the disease can be easily eradicated by means based on Reed's results has been established by the epidemics of 1901 in Havana and of 1904 in New Orleans, where the measures recommended by him were employed with complete success. Moreover, the prevention and eradication of Yellow Fever by Walter Reed's measures save the country the enormous expense of maintaining and carrying into effect the quarantine regulations which up to the present time have been considered necessary.

Not only the part taken by Dr. Reed in the history of Yellow Fever, but the whole of his well-filled and interesting life is given in this record. His early years are described from data furnished by his family. The years spent by him on the frontier are fully dealt with, and many of his experiences there are amusingly described in extracts from his own letters. His experimental work in Cuba is detailed at length, and there are copious extracts from his own published accounts of his work as well as from letters to Mrs. Reed which give an interesting insight into his personal attitude toward his undertakings.

Life of Pasteur

By
A. Valery-Radot

Portrait, Frontispiece
Cloth, $2.50 net

A NEW edition in one volume and at a popular price of one of the greatest biographies ever written—the biography of a man of science who was one of the benefactors of the human race. The Life is the work of the brother-in-law of Pasteur, who was associated with the latter in most of his work, and who thus writes from a thorough knowledge of and a complete sympathy with his subject. There has been a steady demand for the work in the original expensive two-volume edition; but this re-issue, it is hoped, will carry the book to a far wider audience, and help to establish it still more firmly as one of the great works of science and letters of our age.

My Impressions of America

By
Charles Wagner

Cloth. Uniform with other books by the same author

$1.00 net

TWO years ago Pastor Wagner came to this country. The enthusiasm occasioned by this visit of the preacher of the simple to the land of the strenuous life has not yet subsided. Few foreigners have seen this country so thoroughly or under such good auspices. He was taken everywhere, and enjoyed the hospitality of America's leading citizens from President Roosevelt down. Pastor Wagner has written a more than ordinarily exhaustive and intimate record of his experiences; and his impressions of American homes and religious life, made by one who has ever placed such insistence on the home and the fireside, will be of peculiar value and interest to all who comprehend the importance of occasionally seeing ourselves as others see us.

Hughes, Rupert.

THE MUSICAL GUIDE. A two-volume Encyclopædia of Music.

Hughes, Rupert.—Cont.

Illustrated. With contributed articles by Finck, Krehbiel, Henderson, Sir Hubert Parry, and others. Cloth, 8vo. Postpaid, $6.44; net, $6.00.

It contains more biographies than any other dictionary of musical biography.

It contains more definitions than any other dictionary of musical terms.

It gives the pronunciation of every term, every name, and every title in music, and has a chart showing the principles of pronunciation in sixteen different languages.

It tells the stories of all the operas in a novel, clear, and useful way, giving the original casts.

An encyclopædia in two volumes, written with a constant view to the needs of the layman, but containing in compact and accurate form all the information that a student, teacher, or critic would like to have at hand for ready reference.

"Its compactness, its wide range, its wealth of information, its relative cheapness, make 'The Musical Guide' indispensable to every well-regulated private library." Cleveland Leader.

"These two volumes are wonderfully comprehensive, and contain a remarkable amount of valuable information. The work is a decided addition to the literature of music." Chicago Tribune.

Hume, Martin.

The Wives of Henry VIII. Portraits. A companion volume to the two following. Postpaid, $3.90; net, $3.75

"Major Hume's new book has the sustained animation and picturesqueness of a clever novel. It is readable in a high degree. It is a narrative which may be commended for entertainment to the general reader, and for argument and contradiction to the serious student of history." New York Tribune.

The Love Affairs of Mary Queen of Scots. With many portraits. Cloth, 8vo. Ninth Edition. Postpaid, $3.66; net, $3.50.

A historical work as interesting as a romance. It tells the story of Mary Queen of Scots' love affairs, and traces their influence upon the political welfare of Scotland and other countries. The author's position as historian, and his former work on a similar subject, "The Courtships of Queen Elizabeth," give the book exceptional weight and authority.

"This is a volume which is more entertaining than even a good novel." New York Sun.

"The author has had at his command a wealth of material, and he has made good use of it. His work will be of large value for the information it gives upon an uncertain period of English history." Pittsburg Post."

The Courtships of Queen Elizabeth. Portraits. Cloth, 8vo. Second Edition. Postpaid, $3.66; net, $3.50.

Two new chapters have been added to the new edition of this well-known work, dealing with the personal side of Elizabeth's amours. Mr. Hume has had access to many important state documents never heretofore drawn upon.

Koenig, Prof. X.

Bible History. Postpaid, $1.07; net, $1.00.

A series of fifty lessons on the Old Testament viewed in the new light of modern research and criticism. The matter is so arranged that the book may be used for students of from ten or twelve years upward. The history is divided into Traditional (Abraham, Isaac, Jacob); Ethical (Moses to David); and History Proper (David to Christ).

"It is a marvelously juicy book. It resurrects the Old Testament from the pile of useless myths, and makes it a book that we can use in modern life." Unity.

"To the student of the Bible this book will be found helpful and convenient. The arrangement is admirable." Albany Press.

Kropotkin, Prince.

Russian Literature. Cloth, 8vo. Postpaid, $2.16; net, $2.00.

A history of Russian literature from its detailed beginnings in mythology and folklore down to the present day, and a full account of the great modern writers, Tolstoy, Gorky, etc.

"Kropotkin's book is full of interesting material, which is most carefully assembled, while upon the whole substance is impressed the delightful manner of the man." St. Louis Republic.

"It would be hard to find any one who could write more by the card on this subject than Prince Kropotkin. Not only has he the knowledge, but he has the gift of writing." Jeannette L. Gilder in The Chicago Tribune

N. B. See also page 22 for description of Mutual Aid: A Study in Evolution by Prince Kropotkin.

La Farge, John.

GREAT MASTERS. With 63 fine engravings. Third Edition. Postpaid, $5.34; net, $5.00.

Brief critical biographies of Michael-Angelo, Raphael, Rembrandt, Rubens, Velasquez, Dürer, and Hokusai.

"It is, undoubtedly, America's most brilliant contribution to the literature of art criticism. . . . We have had no better art criticism in our day, so far as painting is concerned, than this of La Farge's." Boston Transcript.

"The work is one of those rarities of which it may be said, in truth, that it is popular without the slightest sacrifice of scholarship." Public Opinion.

Lincoln, Abraham.

HIS BOOK. Leather, 16mo, boxed. Sixth Edition. Postpaid, $1.04; net, $1.00.

A fac-simile reproduction of a little scrap-book of clippings from newspaper reports of his speeches and explanatory matter in his own hand, made by Lincoln, to present to a constituent who had asked him for a statement of his attitude on the legality of slave-holding.

McCarthy, Charles H., Ph.D.

LINCOLN'S PLAN OF RECONSTRUCTION. Cloth, 8vo. Postpaid, $3.24; net, $3.00.

"This work will stand as an authority on the subjects it treats." Philadelphia Press.

Morris, Clara.

THE LIFE OF A STAR. Frontispiece. Postpaid, $1.62; net, $1.50.

A book of autobiographical sketches that gives a delightful view of life on the American stage and the people that made it during the latter part of the nineteenth century.

"A distinct contribution to the history of the social life of the period covered by the recollections of its author." N. Y. Evening Sun.

"The reminiscences are certainly written in captivating style; they are tender, true, and of the highest value and interest." Salt Lake City Tribune.

LIFE ON THE STAGE. Personal Experiences and Reminiscences of Famous Actors. Cloth, 12mo. Fourth Edition. Postpaid, $1.62; net, $1.50.

"Clara Morris's 'Life on the Stage' stands absolutely in a class by itself. It has a distinct literary style which reflects the personality of the writer as strongly as her personality was reflected during the days of her dramatic triumphs. Her book palpitates with a life as real and as moving, as forceful and as powerful, as vivid and as human as did the characters in which she won her right to a high place among American actresses." Boston Transcript.

Morris, Clara.—Cont.

Murray, T. Douglas.

JEANNE D'ARC. With Introduction and Critical Notes. Illustrated. Cloth, 8vo. Postpaid, $5.18; net, $5.00.

Translations from the verbatim reports in Latin of the ecclesiastical proceedings in the trial of Jeanne d'Arc, which have recently come to light.

North, S. N. D.

OLD GREEK. Illustrated. Cloth, 8vo. Postpaid, $2.71; net, $2.50.

The old-time professor at the old-time college. An autobiographical memoir of Dr. North, who for fifty-eight years was professor of Greek at Hamilton College, with selections from his lectures and his miscellaneous writings.

Singleton, Esther.

FRENCH AND ENGLISH FURNITURE. Distinctive Styles and Periods Illustrated and Described by the author of "Furniture of Our Forefathers." Seventy-two full-page half-tone engravings, including 12 full-page interiors and several hundred detail drawings. Frontispiece in colors. Cloth. Postpaid, $6.38; net, $6.00.

This superbly illustrated book is probably the most complete ever issued; is indispensable as a book of reference for every one who is interested in furniture, whether an amateur, a collector, or a person desiring a guide for decorating a house or room in any style of classic furnishing.

The periods covered are: Jacobean; Louis XIII; Queen Anne; Louis XIV; Louis XV; Early Georgian; Chippendale; Louis XVI; Sheraton; Heppelwhite; Adam; Empire.

Smith, Dr. George Adam.

LIFE OF HENRY DRUMMOND. With frontispiece in photogravure. 8vo, boxed. Second Edition. $3.00.

Smith, Dr. G. A.—Cont.

"What makes his biography admirable is his fairness in dealing with Drummond's intellectual product and his loving appreciation of the man. We lay down the book with the feeling that nothing that Drummond wrote is so morally inspiring as his character, and especially the simplicity with which he met more than once the temptations of a great and sudden fame." The Nation.

Smith, Prof. Goldwin.

IRISH HISTORY AND THE IRISH QUESTION. Postpaid, $1.63; net, $1.50.

The Irish question in all its phases.

"Dr. Goldwin Smith has given us what is probably the most brilliant exposition of the Irish question in all its phases which has ever been written." Review of Reviews.

Tarbell, Ida M.

THE HISTORY OF THE STANDARD OIL COMPANY. With many illustrations and portraits and reproductions of important documents. Two volumes. Cloth, 8vo. Second Edition. Postpaid, $5.44; net, $5.00.

A comprehensive history of the Standard Oil Company: the original, the largest, and the most powerful of all trusts. The book is not controversial; furthermore, every important statement is backed by documentary evidence. Miss Tarbell is, without doubt, the world's greatest woman historian. She has given a thrilling narrative, as well as a detailed and accurate piece of historical writing.

"It is difficult to understand how any reader, whatever his attitude, can lay the volumes aside without an acknowledgment of their absorbing interest and great value." Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"On the railroad-rate question the book is a very distinct and valuable contribution. . . . Miss Tarbell's service, and it is a great one, is in making clear to the casual reader, as well as to the student, the menacing greatness of that problem, its ever-growing importance, and in furnishing facts necessary for its comprehension, and, let us hope, ultimate solution." New York Independent.

"It ranks among the few great historical undertakings of American authors of this generation. Yet, it is a model of condensed graphic statement. The dramatic aspects of the story are not lost in the telling, while the arrangement of the materials is convenient for the purposes of the student and the legislator as well as for general reading." Outlook.

LIFE OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN. With 32 full-page illustrations. Cloth, 8vo. Two volumes, boxed. 14,000 sold. $5.00.

Drawn from original sources, and containing many speeches, letters, and telegrams hitherto unpublished.

"A portrait that helps us to understand better than ever before the manner of man that Abraham Lincoln was . . . Miss Tarbell's work presents a portrait that no student of history can afford to miss." Brooklyn Eagle.

NAPOLEON: With a Sketch of Josephine. Richly illustrated. Cloth, 8vo. Fourth Edition. $2.50.

"To her 'Short Life of Napoleon' Miss Tarbell now joins a sketch of Josephine. It aims to present Josephine frankly, yet sympathetically. One should be thankful for this volume by Miss Tarbell, which is the most readable and authentic of all Napoleon biographies." Pittsburg Gazette.

MADAME ROLAND. Cloth, 12mo. Portrait frontispiece. $1.50.

An intimate biographical study, largely derived from hitherto unpublished sources, of one of the most interesting women of the period of the French Revolution.

Van Tyne, C. H., Ph.D.

THE LETTERS OF DANIEL WEBSTER. Portrait frontispiece. Cloth, 8vo. Postpaid, $5.27; net, $5.00.

Containing important letters and documents withheld from publication while any of Webster's contemporaries were alive. From papers principally owned by the New Hampshire Historical Society.

"The general reader cannot fail to welcome these 'Letters of Daniel Webster.' Dr. Van Tyne has done an excellent piece of editing." Springfield Republican.

Watson, Rev. Dr. John (Ian Maclaren).

THE LIFE OF THE MASTER. Sixteen full-page illustrations in colors from pictures made in Palestine, especially for this work, by Corwin Knapp Linson. Cloth, 8vo. Postpaid, $3.76; net, $3.50.

The work of a scholar but in the best sense of the word. A popular presentation of the sacred story.

Fiction

Ade, George.

In Babel. By the author of Talks in Slang, etc. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

Mr. Ade's "Babel" is Chicago.

"For originality, versatility, keenness of observation, and a mastery of the art of writing clever dialogue, Mr. Ade's book should place him in the front rank of short-story writers." Chicago Journal.

Albanesi, E. Maria.

Susannah and One Other. Author of "Peter, a Parasite" and "Love and Louisa." Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

A novel of modern English upper-class life.

"A novel well worth the reading and the writing in this day of ephemeral novels." Boston Transcript.

Beach, Rex E.

Pardners. By the author of The Spoilers. Eight illustrations. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

Vigorous and original stories of Western and Alaskan life.

"A book that is full of light and shade, of grim humor, of heroic bravery, of joy and sorrow, of success and failure, of life and of death." Chicago Journal.

"Ten rattling stories." New York Evening Sun.

"The stories are vigorously and happily told, and some of them are delightfully dramatic and thrilling." St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Bennett, Arnold.

Anna of the Five Towns. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

A novel of the English midland manufacturing towns.

"Work of which any hand might well be proud. The characters are painted with the hand of a master." W. L. Alden in the New York Times.

Brooks, Hildegarde.

Daughters of Desperation. Fourteen illustrations. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.25.

A dainty tale of the adventures of three charming young lady art-students who have become converted to anarchism.

"Not often does one come upon a fresher plot or a little story more bubbling with genuine satire and more pleasingly written. It has an unusual measure of vivacity." New York Evening Post.

Bullock, Shan F.

The Red-Leaguers. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

This tale concerns an imaginary war which the Irish patriots wage against the English.

"We unhesitatingly recommend the book to all who are fond of excitement and adventure, for they will here find it a-plenty." Newark Advertiser.

Burgess, Gelett, and Irwin, Will.

The Picaroons. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

A book of the romance of roguery. Stories told by a group of outcasts and waifs of all professions gathered in an obscure little San Francisco coffee-house.

"All are highly diverting in every respect. No better book of pure fiction has appeared in a long time." Literary World.

"The real thing." New York Life.

The Reign of Queen Isyl. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

A mediæval romance of modern life in San Francisco as it was before the earthquake.

"The authors furnish much wit and humor of a very genuine quality. 'The Reign of Queen Isyl' is both a novel and a volume of short love stories, in which the standard of amusement is so evenly maintained that it would be quite unjust to say that each story is better than its predecessor, but only that all are equally good." Philadelphia Ledger.

Burnett, Frances Hodgson.

In the Closed Room. By the author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Eight pictures in colors by Jessie Willcox Smith. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

A fairy story in real life.

"It is a dainty and beautiful bit of fiction. The little touch of the supernatural which is woven into the story, and which carries it just beyond the standpoint of realism, is very cleverly managed. . . . It must be regarded as one of the best bits of artistry that has come from Mrs. Burnett's pen." Brooklyn Eagle.

"As the study of the heart of a child it is doubtful if 'In the Closed Room' has ever been surpassed." Chicago Journal.

"It touches the heart where, perhaps, it was never touched before." Washington Star.

Butler, Ellis Parker.

PIGS IS PIGS. Illustrated. Cloth, 12mo. 50c.

Wherein is propounded the profound problem: When is a pig not a pig? This story, when it appeared in a popular magazine, created such an uproar of merriment throughout the country that the publishers determined to issue it in book form with all the original illustrations which contributed so greatly to enhance the comic effect.

"If you have not read Ellis Parker Butler's amusing short story 'Pigs is Pigs,' you have a good laugh still coming." Chicago Record-Herald.

"Whoever cannot laugh heartily over Mr. Butler's delightful extravaganza must be afflicted with incurable melancholia. It is calculated to exhilarate the most saturnine dyspeptic, while persons of giggly temperament are counseled to read it in solitary seclusion, lest their shrieks and roars excite doubt about their mental equilibrium." Pittsburg Gazette.

Cameron, Margaret.

COMEDIES IN MINIATURE: Plays and Monologues. Frontispiece by Harrison Fisher. Cloth, 12mo. $1.25.

"A book of delightful playlets. There is brisk, witty dialogue, with ample acting possibilities." Milwaukee Sentinel.

Carryl, Guy Wetmore.

FAR FROM THE MADDENING GIRLS. Illustrated. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.25.

A sprightly little tale which tells in a very amusing way the story of a man who made a religion of bachelorhood, and built a temple off in the woods, "Shingle Blessedness," in which to worship.

"For a joyous, laugh-inspiring, and altogether delightful story commend us to this tale. Nashville American.

"This is the best thing of Mr. Carryl's that we have ever read. From cover to cover it is unfailingly clever; at times, astonishingly so; and here and there we find evidences of other and deeper gifts." Richmond Dispatch.

Cather, Willa Sibert.

THE TROLL GARDEN. $1.25.

Unusual stories dealing with life among the artists and high bohemians in New York and vicinity.

"It has a sureness of touch, a grace of construction, and a subtle sense of grim humor pervading all the stories that stamp them as coming from an artist's hand." Nashville American.

"No description can adequately image the felicity of their style. . . . Miss Cather's characters are human like those of Daudet. . . . The most noteworthy volume of the kind since Mrs. Wharton's first book." Pittsburg Gazette.

Conrad, Joseph.

ROMANCE. In collaboration with Ford Maddox Hueffer. Illustrations by Charles R. Macauley. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

A book of simon-pure adventure, which tells the story of an English boy caught in the plots of a Cuban pirate band and of his love for a beautiful Spanish girl.

"A connoisseur has pronounced 'Romance' equal to 'Treasure Island,' and the comparison will be found entirely justified." Brooklyn Eagle.

"Contains more adventure to the square page than any other story which I can remember." New York Times.

LORD JIM. Cloth, 12mo. Fifth Edition. $1.50.

An intensely human story of a young seaman who has always dreamed of the day when he shall be called upon to meet some great emergency face to face. The effect upon him when this crucial moment does come is portrayed in a most unusual and striking fashion.

YOUTH. Three stories: Youth, Heart of Darkness, The End of the Tether. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

"'Youth' is a splendid triptych—vivid, true, artistic." Literary Digest.

FALK. Three stories: Falk, Amy Foster, To-morrow. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

"The reading of 'Falk' leaves one so enthusiastic over his genius as to be inclined to declare that the writing of that one story would be sufficient to place him among the immortals." New York Times Saturday Review.

Crockett, S. R.

THE FIREBRAND. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

A story of Spain at the time when the followers of Maria Christina and those of Don Carlos were contesting the right of succession to the throne.

"A story of dashing interest, action, and color." Louisville Times.

THE BANNER OF BLUE. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

A new version of the parable of the prodigal son, with a Scotch background.

FLOWER O' THE CORN. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

A novel dealing with a group of Calvinists driven from Belgium into southern France, and besieged in the mountain fastnesses by French troops.

"There is abundant action. 'Flower o' the Corn' will be warmly received by the admirers of Crockett." Cleveland Leader.

Cutting, Mary Stewart.

MORE STORIES OF MARRIED LIFE. Frontispiece. $1.25.

Mrs. Cutting's art shows a steady advance, and this new volume of married love stories has extended her already wide audience.

"As they celebrate true love, not the yearning kind, but the brand that cherishes and forgets and forgives and strengthens, they should go with the wedding presents of every June bride." Cleveland Leader.

"If you are not too far gone in cynicism, read them, and strengthen your faith in the institution that Mr. Bernard Shaw professes himself ready to destroy." N. Y. Vogue.

"Mrs. Cutting's art lies in the keen discernment with which she interprets the meaning of the life she sees about her." Brooklyn Eagle.

LITTLE STORIES OF COURTSHIP. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.25.

"Readers who enjoyed the 'Little Stories of Married Life' by this author will not be disappointed in this new collection. . . ." New York Evening Post.

"One of the brightest books of this season is 'Little Stories of Courtship.' . . . Mrs. Cutting's literary ability is of a very rare quality. Her stories run the entire gamut of the human emotions. They are at once artistic, brilliant, and satisfying." New York World.

LITTLE STORIES OF MARRIED LIFE. Frontispiece. Cloth, 12mo. Sixth Edition. $1.25.

Cutting, Mary Stewart.—Cont.

"Mrs. Cutting has written a book so typically American that it should appeal to every American reader who respects the institution of marriage, and who is honest enough to admit that love is the only solution of the problem." New York Globe.

Daskam, Josephine.

THE MADNESS OF PHILIP, and Other Stories of Childhood. With illustrations by F. Y. Cory. Cloth, 12mo. Sixth Edition, now presented uniform with Little Citizens and Emmy Lou. $1.50.

The Madness of Philip, a Study in Piracy, Bobbert's Merry Christmas, The Heart of a Child, Ardelia in Arcady, Edgar the Choir Boy Uncelestial, and The Little God and Dicky.

"Josephine Dodge Daskam has known the very hearts of the children of whom she writes. They are winning little people whose adventures Miss Daskam tells so quaintly and with so unfailing a fund of delicious humor that the reader feels himself more than content." New York Times Saturday Review of Books.

Douglas, George.

THE HOUSE WITH THE GREEN SHUTTERS. Cloth, 12mo. Eleventh Edition. $1.50.

A strong and impressive story of Scottish life.

"Worthy of the hand that drew 'Wier of Hermiston.' Balzac and Flaubert, had they been Scotch, would have written such a book." The London Times.

Doyle, A. Conan.

THE RETURN OF SHERLOCK HOLMES. Thirteen illustrations by Charles Raymond Macauley. Third Edition. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

Thirteen stories—positively the last that will be written about Holmes.

"The tall, angular gentleman with the vigorous profile still remains the best detective of all times, and his adventures continue the most fascinating things of their kind in the English language." Philadelphia Telegraph.

"It is the best detective fiction obtainable at the present hour." Kansas City Star.

"All of them are first-class, high-grade detective stories, by all odds the best that have been printed in the last decade." Colorado Springs Gazette.

THE ADVENTURES OF GERARD. Illustrated by W. B. Wollen. Third Edition. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

Stories of the remarkable adventures of a brigadier in Napoleon's army.

"Gerard, the vain, garrulous, boastful dandy of Napoleon's army, is a literary triumph." San Francisco Argonaut.

THE HOUND OF THE BASKERVILLES. Illustrated by Sidney Paget. Cloth, 12mo. Fifth Edition. $1.25.

"At last Sherlock Holmes is confronted with an adversary worthy of his steel. . . . The narrative develops swiftly, but inevitably. . . . 'The Hound of the Baskervilles' is absorbing in its interest and power, and represents, we are inclined to think, the high-water mark of detective fiction." London Daily News.

THE GREEN FLAG. And Other Stories of War and Sport. Fourth Edition. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

"Tales that compel the attention on the first page and hold it to the last." Illustrated London News.

N. B. For other books by A. Conan Doyle, see pages 2, 8, and 23.

Duncan, Norman.

THE WAY OF THE SEA. Frontispiece by Howard Pyle. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

A book of the comedies and tragedies that make up the life of the sturdy fisher folk of Newfoundland.

"Aside from the masterful study and treatment of the ocean, the author gives a realistic picture of the hard life of the coast dwellers." Chicago Record-Herald.

THE SOUL OF THE STREET. Cloth, 12mo. $1.25.

Stories of New York's Syrian quarter.

Findlater, Mary.

THE ROSE OF JOY. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

A novel of life in the north of England, having much of the quality of Jane Austen.

"'The Rose of Joy' is a novel of exceptional accomplishment. It is a book which must impart the purest pleasure to the lover of good style, of thoughtful reflection, of naturalness, truth, and charm." Hartford Courant.

Fraser, W. A.

THOROUGHBREDS. Illustrated by F. Lowenheim. Cloth, 12mo. Fourth Edition. $1.50.

Fraser, W. A.—Cont.

A stirring story of the turf.

"No flagging in its interest. A clever plot is worked out to a whipping finish, and there is a love story of more than ordinary merit." Chicago Tribune.

Gibbon, Perceval.

VROUW GROBELAAR AND HER LEADING CASES. $1.25.

Stories of the Boers and Kaffirs by one who knows them.

"The gift of dramatic story-telling undoubtedly belongs to this author, and the chosen field of South African folk-lore allows his ability full scope." The Chicago Record-Herald.

Green, Anna Katharine (Rohlfs).

THE CIRCULAR STUDY: A Mystery of New York. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.25.

"No complication of motive or entanglement of plot seems too great for Mrs. Rohlfs to attempt in her remarkable tales of crime and its detection. She has elevated the detective story to a higher plane than any other contemporary writer. There are no loose threads, no false clues left hanging in the air, and her dénouements are never unsatisfactory. She has a positive genius for strong and original plots, and her style is well adapted to her purpose." Boston Transcript.

Haggard, Rider.

THE BRETHREN. A Romance of the Crusades. Sixteen illustrations by H. R. Millar. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

"Related with that splendid genius of sustained suspense, that admirable imagination, that panorama of dramatic scenes, which are characteristic of this writer." New York Times.

"Such high-merit fiction and good history that it may live as long as English literature. . . . It has that quality of entertainment and instruction which, while it diverts, refreshens the mentality and makes the heart young." New York Telegram.

Harland, Henry.

MY FRIEND PROSPERO. Frontispiece by Louis Loeb. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

A story of the lover's Italy, with a beautiful Austrian princess for heroine, and a witty, charming Englishman for hero. The book ripples with laughter from beginning to end.

"Indeed, another fiction jewel of that sort to which Mr. Harland is able to impart a distinctive luster." New York World.

"As continuously and unflaggingly witty as anything that has appeared for a long time." Philadelphia Record.

N. B. Autograph edition, with collotype portrait, frontispiece in colors, bound in Japanese vellum, numbered and limited to 500 copies. $3.00.

Harris, Joel Chandler.

A Little Union Scout. Eight pictures in color by George Gibbs. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.25.

"This is one of the most entertaining stories Mr. Harris has ever told, and that is saying a great deal for it." Baltimore Herald.

"A romance of war time and very unlike anything Mr Harris has written hitherto. The various love affairs are delightful, and the reader is interested to the end." New York Sun.

Gabriel Tolliver. Cloth, 12mo. Fourth Edition. $1.50.

"'Gabriel Tolliver' is a novel, an old-fashioned novel if you like, but one of the best, a novel in which one meets a heap of interesting people, and finds in their history humor, pathos, and healthy young love." Brooklyn Eagle.

The Making of a Statesman. A Novelette, with Other Stories of Georgia Life. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.25.

"This volume is composed of four sketches in which the dominating note is a delicate sentimentality. There is tenderness and humor in the style, and also skill and originality in the plots." New York Commercial Advertiser.

N. B. See page 18 for other books by Mr. Harris.

Henry, O.

The Four Million. $1.00.

East side, west side, all about the town—Coney Island, Wall Street, Fifth Avenue, and the Bowery—that's where O. Henry finds the types of character that he reproduces with inimitable drollery in these twenty-five tales of city life.

"These stories are miniature masterpieces. Every one of them embodies a distinct idea out of the rut of ordinary magazine tales, as rich in humor as any story Dickens ever penned." Pittsburg Gazette.

"He comes nearer in these stories to what we think of as the 'French model' in short fiction than any one else writing in this country today." N. Y. Evening Post.

"Challenges comparison with the best American short stories yet written." St. Paul Dispatch.

Cabbages and Kings. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

Henry, O.—Cont.

"O Henry has the true American brand of fun—extravagant in spirit, rollicking in manner' Nashville American.

"There are many of these stories which are as good as much that Kipling has done, and better than some of his recent efforts." St. Paul Globe

"Stevenson's shoes have been standing around a good while, but it seems that O. Henry has got his foot into one of them at least." Pittsburg Gazette.

"The O. Henry humor is of such a peerless brand that one cannot get too much of it." Denver Republican.

Hope, Anthony.

Double Harness. A Novel of Married Londoners. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

"It seems certain that most of the readers of Hope's 'Double Harness' will open their eyes in surprise at the decided step forward on his part which it undoubtedly marks." New York Times.

"A story of real life told in a moving way, and real life is always interesting. . . . This book puts the author in a higher rank than anything he has yet written." New York Press.

"Anthony Hope reaches his highest achievement as a novelist in his new book, 'Double Harness'." Philadelphia Press.

Tristram of Blent. Cloth, 12mo. Sixth Edition. $1.50.

"It stands as a revelation of the fulness of Mr. Hope's resources, his grasp of plot and character and construction. . . . In workmanship it ranks with his best as an exposition of the maturity of his art." New York Mail and Express.

Jepson, Edgar.

Lady Noggs—Peeress. Illustrated. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

A companion volume to The Admirable Tinker.

"Altogether she is a remarkable character, a real enfant terrible, but with plenty of good points. You should make her acquaintance." Chicago Tribune.

"It is simply captivating. . . . A jolly, spirited, invigorating story that for real enjoyment is worth its weight in silver coin." Albany Times-Union.

The Admirable Tinker: Child of the World. With 13 illustrations in colors by Margaret Eckerson. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

A famous boy's book.

"One cannot do justice to 'The Admirable Tinker' by talking about him. He comes pretty near to being a joy forever." New York Globe.

Jepson, Edgar.—Cont.

"If any one can read the book without enjoying it we will be sincerely grieved over his plight." New York Press.

"One of the most entertaining books of the season." Newark Advertiser.

Keays, H. A. Mitchell.

THE WORK OF OUR HANDS. $1.50.

The story of a woman's struggle against the shams of religion and the selfishness of wealth.

"Another of the serious, substantial novels which this author is so well able to give us. It possesses a high seriousness, a fineness of conception and power of expression that are seriously lacking in many of the novels of the day." St. Paul Dispatch.

"One of the most vivid and strong pieces of recent fiction." Los Angeles Times.

"The tale is skillfully told, and aside from its purpose, is one of interest and power." Boston Transcript.

HE THAT EATETH BREAD WITH ME. Cloth, 12mo. Sixth Edition. $1.50.

A novel treating the divorce problem brilliantly and profoundly.

"The author has touched depths in the heart of women such as fiction's pen does not probe in ordinary. The book remains a wonderful, even startling, study of temperaments." New York World.

"It is not enough to say that this is a remarkable work. It is a great one; a powerful argument in the guise of fiction against divorce, and a rarely felicitous delineation of human emotions." Nashville American.

"It may be to divorce what 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' was to slavery." Rev. J. G. Davenport.

Kelly, Myra.

LITTLE CITIZENS. Cloth, 12mo. Sixth Edition. 17 illustrations by W. D. Stevens. $1.50.

"Myra Kelly's tales of school life in New York's Ghetto are unique. They are marked by positive genius." Des Moines Register-Leader.

"No more lifelike, laughable, touching and thoroughly human writing has appeared among our admirable short stories of late years." Outlook.

"A book which can be read over and over again. One cannot laugh too long and too often at Miss Kelly's scholars." Cleveland Leader.

"A more humorous, more piquant, more delicious set of small folk is not to be found in modern fiction." Louisville Post

Kester, Vaughan.

THE FORTUNES OF THE LANDRAYS. Illustrated by The Kinneys. $1.50.

Kester, Vaughan.—Cont.

A big romantic story of American life, panoramic and epic in its handling.

"A strong, well-constructed romance; a fine piece of fiction creditably wrought out." Baltimore Herald

"A solid and capable story with flashes of brilliancy." The Critic

Lefèvre, Edwin.

THE GOLDEN FLOOD. Four illustrations. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.00.

The story of a panic that was precipitated in Wall Street by a young man with a limitless supply of wealth.

"A novel of absorbing interest and fascination." Philadelphia Record.

"The solution of the mystery is so thoroughly practical as to leave one chuckling with glee. It is a deftly-sustained, engrossing piece of fiction." Brooklyn Times.

"It is to be commended as an amusing, well-conceived and well-told tale." New York Sun.

WALL STREET STORIES. Cloth, 12mo. Fourth Edition. $1.25.

"The little volume is one of the most readable books that has been printed for many a day. We know of no other in which the letter and spirit of Wall Street have been more truthfully and interestingly portrayed." New York Sun.

London, Jack.

THE GOD OF HIS FATHERS. By the author of The Call of the Wild, The Game, etc. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

"The Kipling of the Klondike . . . The author is doing for the Yukon mining camps what Bret Harte did for the California camps, only he is doing it better." New York Times Saturday Review.

Lessing, Bruno (Rudolph Block).

CHILDREN OF MEN. Frontispiece by Sigismund de Ivanowski. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

Stories of the New York Ghetto.

"The pathos is genuine, the tragedy real tragedy; both are handled delicately, firmly, with understanding sympathy and the artist's touch." The Lamp.

Mac Manus, Seumas.

A LAD O' THE O'FRIELS. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

This is a story of Donegal ways and customs; full of the spirit of Irish life.

Mac Manus, Seumas.—Cont.

"There are certain pictures in it that linger with you after you have finished. It is a real out-of-door story." Literary Digest.

N. B. See page 19 for other books by Mr. Mac Manus.

Martin, George Madden.

THE HOUSE OF FULFILMENT. Illustrated by George Alfred Williams. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

A charming story of Southern life and types.

"A remarkable book. So strong, so fine, so sweet and true that one closes it with a feeling of seriousness and tenderness not often evoked by a work of fiction." Kansas City Star.

"Mrs. Martin's first novel has the breath of real life. It scales the peaks, and sounds the deeps of love and death." Pittsburg Gazette.

EMMY LOU: Her Book and Heart. With 52 illustrations by Charles L. Hinton. Cloth, 12mo. Twelfth Edition. $1.50.

"A thing for both laughter and tears . . . a classic of child life which cannot soon be forgotten." Louisville Post.

"Perhaps it is the big readers who will appreciate Mrs. Martin's delicious humor, but there is plenty of entertainment for the little readers as well." The Interior.

Meredith, Ellis.

HEART OF MY HEART. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.25.

The story of the growth of a woman's soul in the period approaching maternity.

"So deep and so sacred as to give the reader a sense of being in a holy place. It is all very simple, very human, and utterly unaffected. The book will make people think." Philadelphia Telegraph.

"It is a new ideal exquisitely embodied. It is a new departure in literature." Lillian Whiting.

Meredith, Katherine M. C.

THE WING OF LOVE. Cloth, 12mo. $1.00.

A delightful little story, all comedy and pathos, of Bohemia, the fairyland of art, and of an attic child in a New York lodging-house.

"This beautiful little tale is simply flooded with sunshine. . . . Its charm of word-painting has not been equaled in many a day. It will be a treasure in any library." Albany Times-Union.

Merriman, Henry Seton.

BARLASCH OF THE GUARD. Eight illustrations by the Kinneys. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

A novel of Napoleon's Old Guard.

"Nothing Mr. Merriman has yet written shows so much skill, so much dramatic force, such easy handling of narrative." Kansas City Star.

Peake, Elmore Elliott.

THE DARLINGTONS. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

A novel of American life in the Middle West.

"Mr. Peake has brought out a very characteristic American type which has never before had adequate treatment. 'The Darlingtons' might stand for thousands of flourishing families which represent the newer aristocracy of small towns in all parts of the country." Springfield Republican.

Phillips, David Graham.

THE MASTER-ROGUE: The Confessions of a Crœsus. Illustrated by Gordon H. Grant. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

A study in the tyranny of wealth in the form of the autobiography of a captain of industry.

"It will appeal to the reader almost with the force of a human document." St. Louis Star.

GOLDEN FLEECE. Sixteen illustrations by Harrison Fisher. Cloth, 12mo. Fourth Edition. $1.50.

A clever story of the adventures of Earl Frothingham, who comes to America in search of a bride with millions. It throws an interesting light on the social life of New York, Boston, Washington, and Chicago.

"It is so well constructed, so brisk and natural in its talk, so well defined and true in its delineation of character, that one finds it difficult to put it down unfinished." Brooklyn Eagle

Phillips, Henry Wallace.

RED SAUNDERS' PETS AND OTHER CRITTERS. Thirty illustrations by A. B. Frost. Second Edition. $1.25.

Red Saunders, who is so well known and so endeared to thousands of readers, here appears in the novel rôle of an animal tamer. Never since the Ark has there been such a happy family.

"No matter where we meet him he is good for an hour or so of pleasure. . . . It is a good Spring medicine, for it will jolt the liver with laughter." Cleveland Leader.

"These are animal stories, uproarious and mirth-provoking and giving evidence of a vocabulary so rich and so picturesque and so brilliant as to make one sick with envy. They are among the best that Red Saunders has told." Buffalo Express.

RED SAUNDERS: His Adventures West and East. Frontispiece by Jay Hambidge. Cloth, 12mo. Seventh Edition. $1.25.

"'Red Saunders' or, as he is wont to introduce himself, 'Saunders—Red Saunders—Chantay Seeche Red,' is the big, fine Bret Hartean sort of cow-puncher it benefits one to meet even between the covers of a book. Gentleness, honesty, and unconscious courage are his, and Henry Wallace Phillips may congratulate himself upon his ponderous protégé." New York Evening Post.

Pickthall, Marmaduke.

SAID, THE FISHERMAN. Cloth, 12mo. Third Edition. $1.50.

JOHN FORSYTH'S AUNTS. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.50.

A humorous delineation of New England traits and customs.

"As refreshing as a breath of pure country air in these days of meretricious stories of society life, and we only wish there were more like it." Cambridge Tribune.

White, Stewart Edward.

THE BLAZED TRAIL. Illustrated by Thomas Fogarty. Cloth, 12mo. Twenty-first Edition. $1.50.

A powerful story of the great Northwestern timberlands which has become a classic among out-of-door books.

"The topic is nothing short of an epic, and this epic reach gives the book of this young man qualities of positive greatness. In it the story of civilization is comprised and unified. . . . The book is American. It is of the West. It has little in common with the literature of other countries. It is interesting. It is exciting. It is righteous. It is sincere. Above all, it is true. No American can read it without both pleasure and profit." The Chicago American Literary Review.

THE SILENT PLACES. Seven illustrations in four colors by Philip R. Goodwin. Cloth, 12mo. Seventh Edition. $1.50.

The story of the chase and capture of a defaulting Indian trapper by two Hudson Bay Company agents. The trail leads far to the north, beyond the Arctic circle.

"Essentially a story that sweeps the reader along with it breathlessly and anxiously, but nothing in it so grips the heart as does the love element." Baltimore Herald.

"Full of the poetry of the wilderness. The fiction of it is delightful. His descriptions of nature are impressive, while the art of it is not to be denied." New York Evening Sun.

BLAZED TRAIL STORIES. Cloth, 12mo. Illustrated. Third Edition. $1.50.

CONJUROR'S HOUSE. Six illustrations by Charles S. Chapman. Cloth, 12mo. Second Edition. $1.25.

A stirring love story, the scene of which is laid in the territory of the despotic Hudson Bay Company.

"The tale is dramatic in its development, full of action, perpetually interesting, touched with the mystery of the wilderness and the coloring of the artist." Chicago Record-Herald.

"Short, terse, dramatic, powerful, it has every element of a splendid and impressive novel." Louisville Times.

THE CLAIM JUMPERS. Cloth, 12mo. Fourth Edition. $1.50.

THE WESTERNERS. Cloth, 12mo. Sixth Edition. $1.50.

A story of frontier life and the advance of civilization in the West.

"'The Westerners' lays strong hold on the reader. The thing is vital. There is in it a force and sincerity distinctly Western—of the frontier; the grim naturalness of elemental things. Furthermore, Mr. White knows his West, his plains, his Indians, and his mining camps." Chicago Record-Herald.

White, William Allen.

IN OUR TOWN. Sixteen illustrations. Cloth, 12mo. $1.50.

Mr. White suggests Barrie more than any other living writer. His new book does for the daily life of a modern Kansas town just what Barrie has done for a Scotch town in "A Window in Thrums." Cloth. Sixteen illustrations. $1.50.

"It is 'Boyville' grown up; better because more skillfully and deftly done; riper, because 'Bill' is a bigger boy now than he was five years ago, and more human. No writer to-day handles the small town life to compare with White, and this is the best book he has yet done." Los Angeles Herald.

"Truth, humor, and pathos are blended in his tales, and the result is a delightful collection of studies of character." New York Tribune.

"These men and women and boys and girls are so human that the reader hears them talk and sees them move and feels their presence. . . . There has seldom been a finer, subtler bit of fiction." Washington Star.

THE COURT OF BOYVILLE. Illustrated. Cloth, 12mo. Fifth Edition. $1.50.

There are few men in the world who have pictured that strange creation, the Boy, as he actually is. One of these men is Mr. White. His Kansas boys are a delight, and the recollections they will awaken in the mind of any man will cause him to congratulate himself for having read the book.

Reeve, Sidney A.

THE COST OF COMPETITION. Cloth, 12mo. One volume. Illustrated with maps, diagrams, and photographs. Complete index of subjects. Postpaid, $2.16; net, $2.00.

A clear and searching inquiry into the economic and moral evils that result from the excessive commercial trend of modern civilization. The author's analysis discloses that abnormal rewards for their labor are given to the traders, the commercial class, who thus rob the producers. His argument leads to the conclusion that some form of barter should be substituted for money exchange; and this ranks him among the socialist economists and followers of Edward Bellamy.

"This work eloquently voices the new thought in the domain of social, political, and industrial economy—thought that has already rendered obsolete whole libraries of once venerated economic text books." Philadelphia North American.

"However much we may be inclined to criticize his socialism, we cannot but agree with him in his trenchant and eloquent remarks on the present evils of our social and economic life." Boston Transcript.

"The book is admirable in its diagnosis, and stimulating in its suggestiveness." Brooklyn Eagle.

Smith, Prof. William Benjamin, of Tulane University.

THE COLOR LINE. Postpaid, $1.62; net, $1.50.

The race problem from the point of view of a Southern anthropologist.

"The book is apparently unanswerable, and presents facts and figures calculated to give pause to many negro enthusiasts in the North who speak without actual experience." St. Paul Globe.

"There is no doubt of its sincerity and authenticity, and the possibility of its giving its readers many vital facts they have not hitherto known." San Francisco Call.

Smith, Prof. W. B.—Cont.

"This volume will, without the slightest doubt, serve to bring to the attention of many a Northerner the reasonableness of much that the South contends for." New York Public Opinion.

Steffens, Lincoln.

THE STRUGGLE FOR SELF-GOVERNMENT. Cloth. Postpaid, $1.30; net, $1.20.

Being an attempt to trace American political corruption in six States of the United States—with the dedication to the Czar. Some of the chapters are: Folk's Fight in Missouri; Chicago's Appeal to Illinois; Rhode Island: A Corrupt People; Ohio: A Tale of Two Cities; Wisconsin: La Follette's War on the Railroads.

"A wholesome, stimulating, spirited book. . . . The book is full of meat and truth. . . . It records successes and favorable symptoms as well as failures, and shows that when upright leaders appear and the issues are ably and plainly presented, the people throw off the party yoke and emancipate themselves." Chicago Record-Herald.

"These stories are sure to prove a powerful stimulus to the right kind of citizenship." Boston Herald.

THE SHAME OF THE CITIES. Third Edition. Postpaid, $1.32; net, $1.20.

The author brings together an artist, a politician, a Tory, a journalist, a poet, etc., some thirteen characters in all, and makes each explain and defend his own particular angle of view on life and its problems.

"Mr. Dickinson's success in stating the viewpoint of each is remarkable, and the fairness with which the balance of argument is maintained is no less extraordinary. 'A Modern Symposium' is one of the really notable new books." Springfield Republican.

"More compact, varied, forceful, and fascinating presentation of opposing phases of current thought it would be difficult to find." Living Age.

RELIGION; A CRITICISM AND A FORECAST. Postpaid, 55c.; net, 50c.

"The author's views are tolerant and broad, and the thought which they inspire cannot be other than ennobling even for those who will most indignantly differ with him in opinion." Indianapolis Sentinel.

"A book of reason and high ideals. . . . Contains much good meat." Los Angeles Times.

"The book cannot be but enjoyed by all who take pleasure in a thoughtful, well-presented argument." Grand Rapids Press.

LETTERS FROM A CHINESE OFFICIAL. Tenth Edition. Postpaid, 54c.; net, 50c.

An Eastern view of Western civilization.

"The cogent way in which he states his case is calculated to make the thoughtful man halt and question whether there may not be more truth than is palatable in his letters." Public Opinion.

"This book ought to make all westerners stop and think a little" New York Evening Sun

"A little book so filled with facts that it is a pity it cannot be brought to the attention of every thinking man in Christendom." Chicago News.

THE AMERICANS. By the Professor of Psychology at Harvard University. Third Edition. Postpaid, $2.74; net, $2.50.

"He treats what he has observed in a style that gives the book a value missing in Bryce himself." Boston Transcript.

"A first-rate help to national self-knowledge. . . . Ought to go into the list that every intelligent American should read" American Journal of Sociology.

"Will take a high place in the list at the top of which is Bryce's standard work. . . . A brilliant analysis and a masterly summing up, as distinguished for its clearness of view as for its easy impartiality." New York Evening Sun.

Sabatier, Auguste.

RELIGIONS OF AUTHORITY AND THE RELIGION OF THE SPIRIT. By the late Dean of the Protestant Faculty of Theology in the University of Paris. Translated by Louise Seymour Houghton. Cloth, 12mo. Fourth Edition. Postpaid, $3.69; net, $3.50.

"This is, perhaps, the most important religious book of the new century." Literary Digest.

"It is indeed a great book—one of the greatest that I know. It lays unchangeable foundations. It is a great liberator and it justifies its beneficent work by unanswerable reasons. I rejoice with you in the coming of so strong and helpful an influence into the English-speaking world." William Newton Clarke, Hamilton, N. Y.

Wagner, Charles.

WAYSIDE TALKS. Cloth. Second Edition. Postpaid, $1.08; net, $1.00.

Pastor Wagner finds sermons not only in stones, but in everything, and all the commonest sights and experiences of the way seem to point some simple lesson of life. Mr. Wagner refers to this volume as the note-book of his own life.

"The writer knows Nature intimately, and has revealed her in many moods and never more delightfully than in this book." Philadelphia Inquirer.

"'The Children's Corner' is the most excellent of all this good man's gifts to his race." Hartford Courant.

THE GOSPEL OF LIFE. Postpaid, $1.07; net, $1.00.

MAN'S PLACE IN THE UNIVERSE. Third Edition, with an appendix presenting a new argument based on the law of natural selection. Postpaid, $1.67; net, $1.50.

A book designed to prove by the co-operation of all the sciences, the central position of earth and man in the universe.

"The book is one to be reckoned with as stating the conclusions of science at the present time and marks an advance in human understanding." Chicago News.

"Of the books that have been issued in a decade, this is one of the most important." Pittsburg Post.

Woodberry, George Edward.

THE TORCH—Or Race Power in Literature. Author of "Heart of Man," and "Poe," and "Hawthorne," etc., in the American Men of Letters Series, etc. Second Edition. Postpaid, $1.29; net, $1.20.

Eight lectures delivered by Professor Woodberry before the Lowell Institute of Boston in 1903, as follows:

I. Man and the Race.
II. The Language of All the World.
III. The Titan Myth (1).
IV. The Titan Myth (2).
V. Spenser.
VI. Milton.
VII. Wordsworth.
VIII. Shelley.

"Few essays illumine as do these, the broad relation of literature to life. Professor Woodberry's thought is pure, his style rich and resonant, and we follow him with a deep sense of his sincerity and perception." Chicago Interior

"It is a pleasure to acknowledge the sincerity, the pure-mindedness, the whole-hearted love of the best that shine in Professor Woodberry's pages." New York Times Saturday Review.

"John Gilmer Speed has done a service to letters as well as to sport in writing a thorough and comprehensive history on the horse in America. The book leaves little to be desired by those whose interests it is designed to meet." Baltimore Herald.

"If the horse owner is buying but one book on the horse this one will give him the most practical value of any between covers." Albany Argus.

Vardon, Harry.

THE COMPLETE GOLFER. Illustrated with fifty photographs of

Mr. Vardon. Fourth Edition. Postpaid, $3.65; net, $3.50.

Mr. Vardon was three times English open champion and once American open champion, and therefore speaks as the highest authority on the game of golf.

"It is paying high but well-deserved praise to Harry Vardon to say that all sincere lovers of the game will enjoy reading his book on golf as much as they enjoy seeing him play. He has accomplished what has often been called the impossible—the writing of a helpful book in an entertaining manner by one who is an acknowledged expert of the game." New York Times Saturday Review.

"Mr. Vardon's ability to tell how a game of golf should be played is nearly equal to his skill as a player." New York Evening Post.

White, Stewart Edward.

THE MOUNTAINS. Illustrated by Fernand Lungren. Cloth, large 12mo. Fourth Edition. Postpaid, $1.70; net, $1.50.

"There is a freshness and zest about the descriptions, a judicious admixture of character study, of adventure and a pleasant humor which will recommend this book to many people who do not care much for the modern nature literature." Chicago Dial.

"The book, while in one aspect appreciative of nature in her grandest as well as in her softest moods, is equally a particularized guide to the whole science of camping out." N. Y. Tribune.

THE FOREST. Illustrations by Thomas Fogarty. Cloth, large 12mo. Sixth Edition. Postpaid, $1.70; net, $1.50.

"'The Forest' is not unlikely to become one of the classics of our growing outdoor literature, a book simple, sane, practical, vigorous, yet full of the pungent odors of the northern wilderness." New York American.

"'The Forest' is likely hereafter to rank all other volumes on the subject of what to take with you and what not to take with you into the woods, and how, with a fair share of common sense, to be most comfortable and to experience the most that is worth experiencing while there." The Bookman.
